

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. “ “ Library Building .....	100 00
Interest allowed on deposit .....	79 08
Dr. Balance, February 28, 1883 .....	$994 50

NOTE—The above balance represents the premium of insurance paid in advance for three years to March 1, 1886, on the property of the Library.

In the early summer of 1882 the conditions making binding subscriptions to the Permanent Endowment Fund having been satisfied, the Trustees began to receive collections of the same, which have been continued to the present time, and now keep pace with the still advancing subscription. The total collections on this account, to date, amount to $75,425, from which the following payments and appropriations have been made, pursuant to the conditions of the subscription and the resolutions of the Board of Directors, viz. :

For payment of debt and interest to Brooklyn Trust Co.....	$9,131 24
“ purchase of books.....	5,995 29
“ renovation of building and fixtures.....	4,647 17
“ repayment of advances on Catalogue account.....	1,843 94
“ transfer to capital account of White Fund .....	25,000 00
“ “ “ “ Martin Fund.....	10,000 00
Total.....	$56,617 64

The balance of the subscription will be hereafter applied to the further purchase of books and renovation of buildings, and to the enlargement of general or special funds of the Library as may be ordered.

The Trustees have also to note the receipt of the sum of $5,000 from the estate of the late Mrs. Maria Cary, which has been set apart, pursuant to the wishes of the testatrix and the resolution of the Directors, as a special fund, entitled “Cary Bequest.” The receipt of these considerable sums for the permanent endowment of the Library, has provided the means of paying off the mortgage indebtedness of the corporation, which has been done, and the real estate of the Library is, therefore, entirely free from incumbrance. It has also been considered expedient, with the concurrence of the Directors, to close the account, which has been running for some years in connection with the publication of the Catalogue. Further payments on this account of $623.26 were made during the year, in full of the cost of a second edition, and the sum of $410.07 was received from sales. The outstanding balance of the account, viz., $1,843.94, was then charged against the Endowment Fund Subscription as before stated. The unsold volumes (593) are now in the hands of the Directors. The entire cost of the two editions has been $11,768.03, and the amount received from various sources towards defraying this charge, $9,924.09, including proceeds of sale, $4,566.27.

The General Fund of the Library shows an increase of $100, being the amount of a single life membership so applied.

The Investment account represents the value of one income bond of $1,000 of the Indiana, Bloomington & Western Railway Company, given to the Library and included as part of the Endowment Fund Subscription.

THE BALANCE SHEET OF THE TRUSTEES IS AS FOLLOWS :

Cash .....	$10,312 86

ANNUAL MEETING.

---

The Twenty-fifth Annual Meeting of the Brooklyn Library was held at the Library, on the evening of Thursday, March 29th, 1883, in the Ladies' Reading Room. The President, Mr. Wm. Augustus White, being absent on account of sickness, the Vice-President, Gen. A. C. Barnes, called the meeting to order, and on motion Mr. Geo. C. White, Jr., was chosen Secretary pro tem.

The minutes of the previous annual meeting were read and approved.

The Treasurer, Mr. James L. Morgan, Jr., being also absent, his annual report was presented and read by Mr. J. H. Frothingham, and on motion accepted.

General Barnes then read the Annual Report of the Board of Directors.

On motion of Mr. Van Sinderen it was ordered that the Report be received, and that 1,500 copies be printed for the use of members.

Mr. Frothingham submitted a proposed amendment to the Constitution of the Library, the same having been duly posted on the Bulletin, as follows :

AMEND ART. II., SEC. I., TO READ AS FOLLOWS :

Any person of the age of fourteen years, or upwards, may become a member of the Library, if approved by the Board of Directors, on subscribing the Constitution and paying five dollars per annum in advance, or an initiation fee of one dollar, and two dollars in addition thereto for the first six months ; the further regular dues shall be for the remaining six months of the first year, two dollars, and thereafter five dollars per annum, payable semi-annually in advance. Any member shall be entitled, by paying three dollars per annum in advance, in addition to the regular dues, to draw an additional set of books for each such additional payment.

On his motion the amendment was unanimously adopted.

Before the meeting adjourned, several gentlemen spoke eloquently in reference to the great importance of a more adequate endowment of the Library for the purchase of books.

General Barnes thought that it would only be necessary for it to be known that the Library was poor and in need of funds for assistance to be forthcoming. Such assistance could not be considered merely charity, but decent self-respect. The duty of sustaining such an institution as this falls on a few, and the Library has experienced the noble liberality of this class. After many years of financial independence the Library feels that to fill its full measure of usefulness it must appeal to its friends for substantial aid.

Rev. Dr. Thomas said that he felt a personal interest in the institution, as he was one of those who had largely profited by it. Its value is a growing value. There is special reason for its becoming of more consequence to-day. The flood of publications is so extensive and the wealth of research so great that no man but a millionaire can keep pace with this progress. There are special advantages in such a well-chosen and well-managed library. The amount of ephemeral literature is enormous. Like dynamite, however, the press may be used for bad as well as good purposes. Children on their way to school see notices on the fences which in Athens would have expatriated the man who placed them there. The cheap press, the news-stands, and smaller book-stores, are largely infected with such literature. Such Libraries as this are of great public benefit. This institution has something to do with future generations. The speaker spoke of the great aid the Catalogue had been to students, and of the testimony of librarians of our leading colleges to its usefulness. He regretted that there was such a painful lack of expenditure for books in this community. It has expended $15,000,000 on a bridge and not half a million to get the young people transported to the coming century. It is not enough that this institution has been able to sustain itself so far. It occupies a most favorable location, where there is a natural focalizing of the population. It has no rival institutions. It stands alone and unique, without a competitor, and should, therefore, concentrate assistance. The building is admirably provided with appliances for work, and to leave the Library at the present time crippled would be absolutely suicidal. Brooklyn being a city of homes, should also be a city of literature and study ; it should be amply supplied with all that it needs to guide, instruct, and inspire its youth.

Mr. Rossiter W. Raymond spoke in a general way of books and their various uses. A book is simply a man with one thing to say. When books were scarce no one could afford to own all he wanted. Now they have become so numerous that no one, not even a millionaire, can afford to get all he wants. Even the Astor Library is not complete in any given field. One is now satisfied if he knows the men who knew the facts, without knowing the facts himself. The library of the educated man should consist of as many working tools as possible—the classics, the various books, and as many encyclopædias, dictionaries, and circulars as possible. The Catalogue of the Brooklyn Library was a model of literary work, and, as has been well said, almost a perfect realization of an impossibility. For his own part he thought more of the Catalogue than he did of any other volume in the entire Library. To a reading man the Catalogue was invaluable, and he would consider no library—no private library of any considerable extent—perfect without it. Without it the library would be a mockery to the mass of readers. As a student he wished to express his gratitude to the Brooklyn Library. All his thinking and active life was associated with it. Brooklyn is a city of homes and has only a few things to unite it as a people, among which may be mentioned the Park, the Bridge, Ridgewood, and this Library. The distinguished merit of the Catalogue had not escaped the notice of the compilers of the elaborate article upon Libraries in the latest edition of the Encyclopædia Britannica.

Mr. Andrew McLean also made a few remarks. He said it was a great pleasure to him to have it in his power to stimulate fresh interest in the Brooklyn Library. For many years he has profited by this institution and has seen in a practical way how much good it was accomplishing. All that Mr. Raymond had said of the Librarian and the Catalogue he had found true in his own experience. He could conceive of no institution more admirably managed for intelligent men, and he believed that what had been already accomplished was only a promise of larger things to come. He believed with the Mayor that the Brooklyn Library will yet run into a public library. He did not approve of several small libraries. The Historical Society and this Library will meet all the demands of Brooklyn for the next fifty years to come, or for all time. This Association, he felt assured, would not be cramped for lack of money. Its wants have only to be made known to be supplied. Ample support and stimulation will be received. Not merely generosity but ambition will induce rich men to come forward to its aid. He could not conceive of any cause which has more to commend it than that of this institution. No man can be beggared or lose his self-respect through philanthropy of this kind.

The meeting then adjourned.

ANNUAL REPORT.

To the Members of the Brooklyn Library :

Pursuant to the provisions of the Constitution of the Library the Board of Directors herewith submit their Twenty-fifth Annual Report, and perhaps the fact that this report completes the record of a quarter of a century's work will excuse its opening with a brief historical retrospect.

The first annual report of the Brooklyn Mercantile Library Association was submitted on the 13th January, 1859. We learn from it that a public meeting was held on the 30th November, 1857, over which James P. Wallace, who is still one of our Trustees, presided, at which a preamble and resolutions were adopted substantially embodying the Constitution of the Association as finally adopted.

On the 23d December, 1857, the first Board of Directors was chosen.

In their report the Directors say : " Our aim has been first to establish a circulating library for use at the homes of members, of a high character, which shall represent, as far as possible, the great departments of human thought and inquiry, as far as they can be pursued by the general reader ; and second, to establish a library of reference, consisting of cyclopædias, gazetteers, maps, transactions of learned societies, and special treatises in the different departments of literature, art, and science. We confidently hope that some of the Astors of our city will yet furnish the Association with a fund which will in a few years give us a library of circulation and reference worthy of the population and intelligence of Brooklyn. That a city of over 200,000 inhabitants should be without a great library is disgraceful in the extreme."

Mr. A. A. Low in the course of his remarks at the meeting, said : " The time has come when to support our preten-sions to the character as well as to the size of a great city, we must acquire the attributes of a great city; and no one, high or low in station, may claim to be honored and respected as a citizen of Brooklyn—who fails to recognize his responsibilities as a citizen—who, according to his ability, does not help on every good object. This institution has been established for the purpose of supplying our citizens with the amplest information in every department of knowledge; but, I would hope, especially in all that relates to commerce, biography, and history; so that our young men may grow up to be good merchants, good citizens, good legislators and good statesmen: finding, if need be, in the record of the past, that foundation on which all true greatness, personal or national, rests, virtue and honor. In due time this Association will exert a mighty influence upon the thought and heart of the community, stimulating and guiding it to a higher and better progress, until Brooklyn shall become glorious as ‘a city set on a hill, whose light shall not be hid.’”

It is evident that the foundations of the Library were laid on a large plan, yet we trust that the Library has accomplished, if not all, at least an important part of what was expected of it.

The Treasurer’s report for the same year shows receipts:

From annual members.....	$5,373 00
From lectures.....	1,345 00
Donations.....	915 00
Life members.....	6,100 00
Total.....	$13,733 00
And expenditure for books.....	$8,393 00

We may be sure that this outlay for books was judiciously made, as the report of the Directors records their appreciation of “the labors of their intelligent and faithful Librarian, Mr. S. B. Noyes.” With the exception of three years, from 1866 to 1869, when he was tempted away to the Library of Congress at Washington, Mr. Noyes has been with us ever since, doing the best he could with the limited means at his disposal. The selection and building up of this Library is almost solely his work.

When the war broke out, the libraries of the country felt its force severely, and for two years little progress was made. Two members of the Board of Directors, who resigned at that time in order to enlist, died in the service of their country, and some memorial tablet on the walls of this Library might fitly commemorate the names of Henry W. Merian and Henry H. Alden. In 1863 a more hopeful feeling prevailed, and the site where our Library is now located was under consideration for purchase, the cost of lots and building being estimated in the fifth annual report as only $60,000.

In 1865 these lots on Montague street were bought; a subscription for a building fund was started, and reached to the amount of $105,000. A year later $20,000 additional had been subscribed, and it was stated that the income on $200,000 more would be needed to buy books and pay running expenses.

In 1870 the present library building was completed at an expense in round figures of.....	$150,000 00
And the cost of the adjacent office buildings was,
No. 193 Montague street.....	37,000 00
No. 201 Montague street.....	33,000 00

There were $25,000 mortgages on each of the office buildings, but none on the Library building proper.

After obtaining a building, the necessity for filling its shelves with a suitable collection of books was evident, and a subscription of $50,000 was raised, of which $20,000 was given by the Hon. S. B. Chittenden, the whole to be spent directly in the purchase of books. The expenditure of this sum lasted till 1876, and during that time the Library increased in size from 21,000 volumes to 53,000 volumes, and the title of the institution was changed by act of the Legislature to "The Brooklyn Library." During the next five years the purchases were at the rate of only 1,000 volumes yearly, many necessary books had to be left unpurchased, and this state of arrested development naturally caused a good deal of dissatisfaction among all using the Library, and there was a falling off in the five years of twenty per cent. in its annual membership. To pay for such books as were purchased during this time, and to complete the publication of the catalogue (work on which was begun in 1874), the Directors were obliged to incur a debt of about $10,000. The catalogue has cost, net, $7,000, beyond the receipts for sales, but it was essential to the intelligent use of the Library, and we have the satisfaction of knowing that the work was thoroughly well done, and that it ranks high as a book of reference wherever the English language is spoken.

Impressed, therefore, with the absolute necessity of keeping the growth of the Library steady and harmonious, the Board of Directors have labored now for over a year past to bring before the people of Brooklyn the wants and necessities of our institution and the opportunities it offers for public usefulness. Their labors have met with partial success, and a subscription list, amounting at present to about $86,000, has, according to its terms, enabled us to pay off our floating debt of about $10,000; to pay off the mortgages on the two office buildings of $50,000; to devote to the purchase of books and repair of Library building, $10,000; and for the same purposes during the current year there will be further expended about $10,000.

We have further on hand, awaiting secure investment in bond and mortgage on Brooklyn property, about $10,000.

The Trustees have also received during the year the bequest, mentioned in our last report, of $5,000 from the late Mrs. Maria Cary.

Last Autumn the Library building had a narrow escape from a serious conflagration, caused by the upsetting of a lighted lamp, and this hastened the change, which the Directors at that time had under consideration, of restoring lighting by gas, which had only been abandoned for oil under the pressure of absolute financial necessity. This change has been very satisfactory to our members, but adds about $1,000 a year to our running expenses; that is, it takes $20,000 of subscription, if invested at five per cent. on bond and mortgage, to pay the cost of substituting gas for oil.

Of the subscription, as reported by the Treasurer of the Trustees, there was paid in previous to the 1st March, 1883.....$75,425

Received since.....	4,150
Subscriptions not yet paid, but all considered good .....	5,850
Total to date.....	$85,425

This having been a year of transition the Treasurer's report does not afford the exact data to figure on in calculating precisely our financial status. The position of the Library in future may be stated as follows:

ESTIMATED RECEIPTS.

From annual members, estimating an increase of 10 per cent..	$12,000
Classes and miscellaneous.....	400
Income from Trustees—
Gross rentals.....	$6,190
Less charges, say .....	590
	5,600
Income from bond and mortgage and other investments, $16,000 at 5 per cent.....	800
	6,400
Total.....	$18,800

To do our work adequately, our expenses will be—

Salaries.....	$9,000
Periodicals and newspapers.....	1,500
Binding.....	900
Gas .....	1,800
Fuel.....	600
Water.....	100
Maintenance of building and furniture.....	800
Janitor and cleaning.....	1,500
Insurance .....	500
Maintaining branches .....	1,200
Stationery, postage, etc.....	450
Bulletins, advertising and miscellaneous.....	450
Total.....	$18,800

None of these estimates are exaggerated, and if we cannot otherwise obtain money for the purchase of books, we must save $1,500, or perhaps $2,000, by doing with one less library attendant, by cutting down the expenditure for periodicals and newspapers, and by giving up the branches, all of which will be at the sacrifice of efficiency and utility.

We have got to face the fact that the running expenses of an institution like ours are necessarily heavy. We have a large building to light and warm, to keep clean and in repair. The wear and tear of floors, furniture and books is incessant, the number of people who use the Library ranging from 500 to 1,200 daily. We have an exacting body of members, and to satisfy them we must have courteous and intelligent employees. We are sure that our salary list is as low as possible consistent with giving satisfaction to our constituency.

In order to satisfy the pressing demands that are made upon us we must invest annually in books from $5,000 to $8,000, that is to say, we need the income of at least $100,000 more than we now have. If it should prove impossible to raise so large a sum at present, an absolute donation of $40,000 or $50,000, to be expended, principal and interest, in books, would enable us to do what is necessary for the next ten years. What charitable investment can one make that promises so large a return of usefulness as this?

What we ask for is a modest sum in comparison with the income that kindred institutions enjoy in other cities. The Astor Library represents a total investment of $1,400,000 on the part of the Astor family, and yet last year a donation of $16,000 from one of the family was necessary to enable them to buy what books they needed. The Boston Public Library spends altogether about $125,000 a year. The population of Boston is less than ours, and it has the Athenæum and a number of other libraries beside. Yet on Monday last their Board of Aldermen voted to erect a new library building, for which they appropriated the sum of $450,000. Scarcely a week passes that we do not read in the papers of some large donation or bequest for library purposes.

To show the deficiencies of our city in library facilities, we give herewith a comparative table showing the number of volumes contained in the public libraries of all kinds in twelve cities, as compared with the population. The figures are taken from the article on Libraries in the recent volume of the Encyclopædia Britannica, and the population from the census of 1880:

	Volumes.	Population.
New York.....	704,000	1,206,000
Washington .....	691,000	147,000
Boston.....	638,000	363,000
Philadelphia.....	338,000	847,000
Cambridge .....	259,000	53,000
Cincinnati .....	168,000	255,000
Baltimore .....	137,000	332,000
New Haven .....	125,000	63,000
Worcester .....	125,000	58,000
Princeton.....	112,000	4,000
St. Louis.....	108,000	350,000
Brooklyn .....	96,000	567,000

In total number of volumes Brooklyn ranks twelfth, but in percentage of volumes to population, if all the Northern cities were included, Brooklyn would stand very near the bottom of the list. It has been said that the libraries of a city should contain as many volumes as it does inhabitants, and many a New England town largely exceeds this ratio.

In the detail of our work during the past year favorable progress may be reported.

The circulation during the library year ending 31st December, 1882, has been, as compared with the previous year:

	1881.	1882.
First quarter.....	27,141	27,828
Second quarter.....	24,366	24,053
Third quarter.....	16,839	17,871
Fourth quarter.....	23,964	25,542
Total for the year.....	92,310	95,294

These figures show a gain for the year of 2,984 volumes in circulation over that of the preceding year, the rate of increase showing a gain toward the end of the year, which has been continued since. The largest number of volumes put in circulation on any one day was 675, on January 14; the smallest 145, on August 2. We may fairly claim that the quality of the books circulated by us is equal to that of any library in the country, and in volume of circulation we are surpassed among subscription libraries by only two or three. We endeavor to keep the quality of fiction in the Library high class, and prefer to err on the side of excluding rather than admitting a doubtful book. We know of no better way to fight bad fiction than with good fiction, and we trust the influence of our institution may to some extent counter-balance the flood of cheap, sensational literature with which the news stands are deluged.

The circulation of books, however, is scarcely any more important a feature of our Library than the use of books in the Library for reference, estimated at 50,000 volumes for the year. There is a steady increase in the use thus made of the Library, largely on the part of teachers and classes, clergymen, journalists, and professional men generally, but there is room for much further development in this direction. Apparently a Library not only has to furnish the opportunity, but must also educate the public to improve the opportunities when furnished. Our set of United States Patents, which is open to the public free of charge, is frequently consulted by inventors and artisans.

2,977 volumes have been bound and 12,024 volumes have been covered during the year. During the ensuing year a considerable outlay will be necessary for binding.

The publication this month of Bulletin No. 17, embracing the book purchases of the last six months, will doubtless further stimulate our circulation and membership. Some delay was caused in the publication of this bulletin by the work involved in the preparation by Mr. Noyes of notes and comments on many of the books, which, however, adds materially to its value and usefulness. It is proposed, if the means of the Library will admit, to continue this work of annotation and comment in further bulletins. We are thus getting the material ready for the publication of a second volume of our catalogue, which will probably be required within the next five years.

The Librarian is always accessible to members who desire more information than the catalogue is able to give.

The additions to the Library have been in detail:

The collection of books continues to be made, as it has been from the beginning, on an encyclopædic plan, embracing all departments of thought and research, carefully avoiding all that is prized merely for sumptuousness or rarity. It is proposed to pay special attention in future purchases to scientific works, both theoretical and technical, especially those bearing on manufacturing industries already established in our city.

DONATIONS.

Three hundred and forty-eight volumes, three hundred and four pamphlets, and two hundred and forty-three numbers of serials have been donated to the Library during the past year. The publishers of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, the Brooklyn Union-Argus, and the Brooklyn Daily Times have supplied the Library with complete bound volumes of their valuable journals. We are also indebted to the Hon. William E. Robinson, M. C., for some valuable public documents. A full list of donors, with the number of volumes donated, is subjoined.

The increased attendance in the Reading Room during the past year has been the subject of general remark, and desiring to increase their usefulness, we have enlarged the list of periodicals and newspapers materially, giving special attention to those published in large business centres, South and West, and to professional and technological journals. We aim also to have on our file every periodical published in this city.

We ought to add further to our list of foreign periodicals, since they are not only much read when new, but when bound are of permanent value for reference. A very large proportion of the literature of the time is published in periodicals; and indexes like Poole's, which show just where to look for articles bearing on any given subject, greatly enhance the value of this department of the Library. This Library stands twelfth in the extent of its contributions to the third edition, recently published, of Mr. Poole's Index; the whole number of co-operating libraries having been fifty.

MEMBERSHIP.

During the past year 1,013 new annual members have been enrolled, and 858 subscriptions have been discontinued, leaving the membership of the Library at the close of the year, as nearly as can be known, as follows:

Annual members (who have paid to April 1, 1883) at $5.....	1,984
Extra annual subscriptions of $3.....	237
Permanent members by payment of $500.....	285
Life members by payment of $100, and by conversion of permanent memberships.....	562
Original life members at $50.....	39
Total membership.....	3,107

This shows a gain of 160 annual members, 51 permanent members and 41 life members, with one less original life member at $50. We record the gain in annual members with especial satisfaction, as it shows a substantial development in the work of the Library, beside bringing with it a positive increase to its income. Classes were organized in French under Professor L. J. Simonin; in Spanish, under Mme. Ramirez; in Phonography, under Professor T. J. Ellinwood; in German, Professor Deghuee, and in Elocution, under Professor W. M. Jelliffe. The net receipts from all the classes for the year have been $310.08.

BRANCHES.

The local deliveries at drug stores in various parts of the city have been continued. It is believed that the increased membership nearly covers the expense of delivery. This system meets a public want, and if it were more widely known would certainly be more widely used. The Library cannot afford to pay much for advertising, and must look to its friends for an increase of membership.

The Library belonging to the Eastern District Library Association was sold at auction last summer. Through the kind generosity of an ever liberal friend of this Library $1,500 was given for the specific purpose of buying books at the sale and establishing a branch reading room in the Eastern District. The directors of the Eastern District Library Association met our advances in a friendly spirit, and agreed to pay the rent of a suitable room. A considerable number of books were purchased, and rooms were taken at 36 Fourth street, which were opened to the public in October last.

Although, as yet, the enterprise is not on a self-sustaining basis, yet it is gaining in membership steadily. What is needed there is an addition of about 1,000 volumes of the best recent literature. Now that Mr. Noyes has completed his bulletin, the selection of these books will be the next thing taken in hand.

In this connection the Board of Directors wish to extend their special thanks to Mr. George H. Fisher, for the intelligent and untiring assistance he has rendered in the establishment of library facilities in the Eastern District. We trust that the branch thus planted may take root and flourish perennially.

MUSICAL DEPARTMENT.

During the year a beginning has been made in the formation of a musical library, which has been found a useful feature by members. The works of the leading classical composers were purchased, and also some four and eight-hand music for the piano. The expense to the Library has not been large, and the use by members has been very considerable. It certainly seems legitimate for us to recognize the fact that an important part of recent development in civilization and culture has found expression in music.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT.

The Board of Directors have considered that quite a saving in expense and trouble would result if the dues of annual members were made payable semi-annually instead of quarterly. The labor of addressing several thousand bills of only $1.25 each, and afterward collecting, receipting for and crediting, is very considerable. The change, if approved by the members, will take effect on the 1st of next September, and hereafter the financial year of the Board of Directors will be identical with that of the Board of Trustees, both ending on the 1st of March.

HOW TO ENLARGE THE SPHERE OF THE LIBRARY.

One more subject calls for remark at this time. His Honor the Mayor of our city, in a lecture delivered at the Adelphi Academy on the 11th of January last, after paying a compliment to our institution in general, expressed the wish that it might some day become a free public library, and further said: "The Trustees of the Library own to-day property of so much value that, in consenting to throw it open to the public use, on the condition that the public should support it, they might not unreasonably or unsuccessfully maintain the right to control the destinies of the Library in its management."

Nothing could be more satisfactory to those who have contributed to make the Brooklyn Library what it is than to see the sphere of its usefulness enlarged and extended, and the suggestion of the Mayor is entirely in harmony with the general purpose that has so far prevailed. Few indeed could be found to deny the great educational and elevating influence such an institution, rightly conducted, would exert upon the community, but any change that is made should be on a financial basis so strong as to insure success. The work that the Library is already doing is too valuable to imperil it for any doubtful experiment. As has already been stated, the Library is at present in need of a further yearly income of $5,000 to $8,000 to enable it to do its present work properly. When that is obtained, we shall doubtless be found ready and desirous to consider the further enlargement of our field of labor.

Respectfully submitted, for the Board of Directors,

W. A. WHITE,
President.

TWENTY-SIXTH ANNUAL MEETING.

---

The Twenty-sixth Annual Meeting of the Brooklyn Library was held in the Ladies' Reading Room of the Library on Thursday evening, March 27th, 1884, the President, Mr. William Augustus White, in the Chair.

At the suggestion of the President, in the absence of Mr. S. B. Chittenden, Jr., the Corresponding Secretary, Mr. Frank Lyman was asked to act as Secretary.

The Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

The Treasurer, Mr. James L. Morgan, Jr., read his report, which was duly accepted on motion.

Then followed the reading of the Twenty-sixth Annual Report of the Board of Directors by the President, Mr. White, who closed by inviting the attention of the members to some historical reminiscences by Mr. James P. Wallace, the reputed father and constant friend of the Library.

Before hearing Mr. Wallace's address, the President's report was, on motion of Mr. J. H. Frothingham, unanimously adopted, and the usual number of copies directed to be printed for the use of the members.

After the reading of Mr. Wallace's Reminiscences (for the text of which see pages 26 to 35 of this Report), the Rev. Dr. Farley, who had been mentioned by Mr. Wallace as furthering the early development of the Library, was invited by the President to supplement Mr. Wallace's interesting paper.

Dr. Farley began by telling of the deep interest he had always felt in the concerns of the Library during the last quarter of a century. He proceeded to describe the chance which had brought the affairs of the Library into the able hands of Mr. S. B. Noyes, and how it happened that it was the speaker's good fortune to introduce him to the Directors some twenty-five years since. Dr. Farley then paid a handsome tribute to the services which Mr. Noyes had rendered the Library, through his untiring industry and skill, commending in the highest terms the excellent catalogue which entitled him to the gratitude of all lovers of books; a catalogue which to every worker in the field of literature must, by its systematic arrangement and extensive analytic annotations, be of great service.

Dr. Farley concluded his remarks by an allusion to the small balance shown by the report of the Treasurer. He felt that the time had come when a fresh demand should be made on the community to again come forward and place the Library on a more substantial financial footing. It was a disgrace, he said, that in a city of Brooklyn's size, force, and importance, so useful an institution should be crippled by insufficient means, and he suggested, in conclusion, that an effort in this direction should be made to-night, which, he felt assured, would meet with the same generous response that had met a similar appeal in the days described by Mr. Wallace.

The President, Mr. White, remarked that he felt that the Board of Directors were alive to the needs and claims of the Library, but he doubted the expediency of pressing them on the community at the present time owing to the existing depression in business ; he hoped, however, that a favorable occasion would soon present itself. He then suggested that, as Dr. Farley had spoken for older members, some younger man should be heard from, and called upon Mr. R. R. Bowker to say something in their behalf.

Mr. Bowker spoke of the valuable work done by the Library, and humorously suggested that the chief risk was that the city might be made too proud and become light-headed if the old rate of advance were maintained. That Brooklyn had already identified itself with many valued progressive movements—she was proud of her Mayor, the Bridge, and had much to hold up to her sister city for imitation. He spoke then of the catalogue, which occupied a unique place among similar productions, and said the second volume had come to him as a boon while carrying on his work abroad. It was the key that in its line had unlocked many difficult problems, and served to stimulate the attacking of others.

Mr. Bowker further spoke of how the uniformly able and catholic selection of books, made under the direction of Mr. Noyes, had largely contributed to the value of the catalogue, and given it its typical position. That the aim had been to construct a library representing each and all departments, and that the choice and selections had been broad and judicious, and not special or one sided.

That the building, moreover, was commodious and well suited to its members' needs. The already important work so well begun should be further extended, and the people trained to appreciate the value of a great Public Library, and this should be the present aim of the direction, so that when the time arrived the Library might be turned over to the public in the strongest condition possible.

Mr. Bowker ventured to hope, in conclusion, that the Library would be fitly represented at the joint convention to be held this summer at Toronto by the English and American Library Associations.

The Chair then invited remarks from any one else, and Mr. Wallace spoke briefly on the subject of a Public Free Library. That desirable as this might be, he did not wish the impression to go abroad that the Directors sought to turn over to the city the trust that had devolved on them. That the members had privileges and enjoyments which in the event of the Library becoming a public institution, would have to be surrendered, and that the change would involve some sacrifice to most of the present membership.

The Chair stated that undoubtedly the transfer to the city, when made, must be done at some personal sacrifice to the present members, but if it were shown that a greater good were rendered to a greater number he had no doubt the sacrifice would be cordially made.

On motion of Mr. Frothingham, a vote of thanks to Mr. Wallace for his interesting and valuable historical sketch was passed, and the meeting then adjourned.

ANNUAL REPORT.

To the Members of the Brooklyn Library :

Pursuant to the provisions of the Constitution of the Library the Board of Directors herewith submit their Annual Report of the work done during the past year and the present condition of the Library.

The use of the Library by its members has been very satisfactory, and there has been a steady gain both in the quantity and quality of work done by the Institution. There has also been a moderate gain in the number of members and of receipts from membership, but the Board still feels that the greatest need of the Institution is its use by a greater number of members. There are thousands of families in Brooklyn to whom the Library would be worth in the way of information, education, and relaxation, more than the cost of membership, and whose pecuniary support would add greatly to the strength and attractiveness of the Library, but who neither help nor are helped by the Library. Its work ought to be nearly doubled among those who can afford to pay for the use of its privileges.

To bring about this result and overcome this inertia on the part of the great outside public, the present members could, if they would, contribute very materially by using their personal influence to interest others in the Institution.

CIRCULATION.

Taking up the Library work in detail the circulation of books for home reading during the year ending December 31, 1883, has been, as compared with the previous year :

	1882. Volumes.	1883. Volumes.
First quarter .....	27,828	30,951
Second quarter .....	24,053	27,637
Third quarter .....	17,871	19,161
Fourth quarter .....	25,542	25,920
Total for the year .....	95,294	103,669

These figures show a gain for the year in circulation of 8,375 volumes over the preceding year. Since the expiration of the calendar year the two months of January and February show a circulation this year of 20,847 volumes as against 19,831 volumes last year.

The largest number of volumes put in circulation on any one day was 682 on February 17th; the smallest 77, on May 24th.

The circulation is always lightest in the summer months; it goes on increasing through the Autumn and Winter till it reaches its maximum in Spring, to be followed again by its minimum in Summer.

As between the days of the week Saturday is always the busiest, averaging fifty per cent. more than the others—Monday comes next.

The average number of books taken out by each member during the year was 33. The use of the Library by the annual members is more active than by the Permanent and Life Members, and would doubtless average, except in July and August, a book a week to each annual member.

REFERENCE DEPARTMENT.

The use of books in the Library for reference is fully as important a feature of the Library's work as the home reading. Last Summer shelves were erected on two sides of the Library hall, on which were placed for direct access by members such books of reference as are most frequently wanted, such as encyclopedias, dictionaries, atlases, bound volumes of Brooklyn and New York newspapers, etc. This change has been found a great convenience by members, and has been liberally availed of, as the condition of the binding of some of the books eloquently testifies. The total number of books consulted in the Library is estimated at 52,000, making a total use in circulation and reference of 155,000 volumes during the year, exclusive of the use of periodicals and newspapers in the Reading Room.

It is the aim of the Directors to maintain for the Library the reputation it has won of being one of the best "working" Libraries in the country; that is to say, a Library where men, who have literary work to do, can do it to the best advantage. It is a great advantage to our Library for this purpose that it is made available and accessible by its printed catalogue, supplemented annually by several bulletins of additions. The continual testimony on the part of other libraries to the usefulness of our catalogue certainly proves that both the selection of the books and the plan of the catalogue were wisely made.

BINDING AND BULLETINS.

During the year, 482 volumes have been added to the Library by binding up periodicals, newspapers, pamphlets, etc., and 2,656 volumes have been re-bound. The total expenditure for binding has been $1,925.73. Nearly all the files of the Brooklyn newspapers have now been bound, and these important depositories of local history are now made safe and accessible. The more important New York newspapers ought also to be bound up for preservation as well as facility of reference, but the income of the Library is so limited that much very desirable work has to be left undone, because it is pecuniarily entirely unremunerative.

The number of volumes covered during the year was 12,610.

Bulletin No. 18 of additions to the Library was published December 1st, and Bulletin No. 19 March 1st. They embrace to a certain extent notes and comments on the more important books. The bulletins have been sent free to all members and to several thousand non-members, at a total cost of about $700.

The problem of attracting the attention of people to the advantages offered by the Library without going to undue expense is a serious one. The Library Committee has thought the free circulation of these bulletins the cheapest and best form of advertising.

Members who desire more information about books or on any literary subject than is given in the Catalogue and Bulletins, will always find the Librarian ready and happy to assist them.

The additions to the Library have been in detail :

The collection of books continues to be made, as it has been from the beginning, on an encyclopedic plan, embracing all departments of thought and research, yet avoiding all that is valued only for sumptuousness or rarity. In the department of fiction the endeavor of the Librarian is that no undesirable book shall be admitted, and he would be thankful to members if they would call his attention to any book that seems to them objectionable.

DONATIONS.

Among the principal individual donors to the Library during the past year, in point of number of volumes, are Mr. L. E. Jones, the late Ebenezer Thayer, Dr. L. P. Brockett, Dr. Eugene Crowell, Mr. Thomas S. Moore, and Mr. Henry Onderdonk, Jr. To Hon. Darwin R. James and Hon. Wm. E. Robinson we are indebted for the gift of valuable public documents, and the publishers of the Eagle, the Union, and the Times, of this city, have continued to favor us with bound files of those most important publications.

MEMBERSHIP.

During the year ending March 1, 1884, 1,486 new annual members have been enrolled, and 1,321 subscriptions have been discontinued, leaving the membership of the Library on the 1st of March as follows :

Annual members (who have paid to March 1, 1884).....	2,038
Extra annual subscriptions at $3.....	263
Life members by payment of $100. . . . .	570
“ “ “ $50.....	41
Permanent members by payment of $500.....	288
Total membership.....	3,200

This shows a total gain over last year of—

Annual members.....	54
Extra annual subscriptions at $3.....	26
Life members.....	10
Permanent members.....	3
Total.....	93

The gain in receipts from membership over the same twelve months in the year previous is $796.79.

The report of the Treasurer of the Board of Directors, which was formerly made up to the date of the annual meeting, is now for the first time made up only to the 1st of March, so as to make hereafter the financial year of the Board of Directors coterminous with that of the Board of Trustees.

CLASSES.

Classes have been carried on in French under the charge of Prof. L. J. Simonin; German under Prof. J. Deghuerre; Spanish under Prof. Ramirez, and Phonography under Prof. T. J. Ellinwood. The resulting net income to the Library from all the classes has been $334.79.

BRANCHES.

The local deliveries at drug stores in various parts of the city have been continued. This system is found very useful by our members who reside at a distance from the Library, but it has not resulted in bringing in as many new members as was hoped. Members who now find these deliveries a convenience would help put this system on a firmer footing if they would call the attention of their friends to the matter. As already stated, the Library cannot afford to spend much money on advertising.

EASTERN DISTRICT BRANCH.

There has been a steady growth in the use of this Branch. The number of readers there for each month last year was—

January.....	719
February... ..	702
March.....	969
April.....	863
May.... ..	679
June.....	811
July.....	631
August.....	537
September.....	956
October.....	1,143
November....	1,024
December.....	1,112
Total.....	10,226

The number of members subscribing through this Branch is about 180. With a little effort on the part of the present members it ought to be feasible to increase this number to 300, which would put the Branch on a self-sustaining footing. The receipts from this Branch have been $771.63. The expenses on the part of this Library have been about $900, exclusive of expenditure for books. The rent of the room is met by the Brooklyn Library Association of the Eastern District, and for the ensuing year is at the rate of $480 per annum.

THE BUILDING.

During the past summer, additional shelving for 20,000 volumes was put up in the Library, the wood-work of the Library Hall painted, and the ceiling and walls, that had been left unfinished since the building was occupied, were decorated. The work was done under the supervision of Mr. Holland C. Anthony, architect. Although causing considerable inconvenience at the time to the regular Library work, the Library was kept open to members through it all, excepting for two days and a half, when the floors were being varnished. The total expense was about $4,000.

The only improvements that are in contemplation for this summer will cost from $1,000 to $1,500. When these are made there will be no occasion for any unusual outlay on the building for several years, beyond what is necessary to make good the ordinary wear and tear. It is estimated that the number of people who enter the building daily is about seven hundred.

In order to understand clearly the financial position of the Library, the report of the Treasurer of the Board of Directors, which you have heard, needs to be supplemented by some information as to the report of the Treasurer of the Board of Trustees.

The invested funds of the Library are in the control of the Board of Trustees, who pay over the income derived from them to the Treasurer of the Board of Directors. These funds are at present invested about as follows :

$70,000 in the adjacent Office Buildings, yielding a net return annually of about.....	$5,630
12,000 in Bond and Mortgage on Brooklyn Real Estate.....	670
2,000 on deposit in the Brooklyn Trust Company.....	40
$84,000 Total principal.	Total income.. $6,340
The receipts from annual members are about.....	12,000
The receipts from classes and other sources.....	360
<hr/>
Total actual income.....	$18,700
<hr/>

The expenses of the Library, to do its work adequately, are :

Salaries (including the E. D. Branch).....	$9,000
Periodicals and newspapers.....	1,500
Binding... ..	1,000
Gas, fuel and water.....	2,500
Maintenance of building and furniture.....	800
Janitor and cleaning.....	1,500
Insurance.....	500
Maintaining Branches.....	700
Stationery, postage, bulletins, advertising and miscellaneous. ....	900
<hr/>
	$18,400

<hr/>
Total expenditure.....	$23,400
Income.....	18,700
<hr/>
Estimated annual deficit.....	$4,700

According to the terms of the subscription, on which $82,425 has been collected during the past two years, $10,000 was to be set aside for repairing and completing the building, and $10,000 for book purchases. The report of the Treasurer of the Trustees shows that during the past two years he has paid over to the Directors $8,581.09 for the former purpose, and $10,057.87 for the latter. Now that this source of supply has been exhausted, the Directors must again face the question of obtaining funds for the necessary book purchases. In order to meet the pressing demands that are made upon us, we must invest annually in books from $5,000 to $8,000, and we could spend advantageously $20,000 a year, which for the principal Library in a city of the size and intelligence of Brooklyn does not seem a very large sum.

If it prove impossible to raise an Endowment Fund, the interest on which will enable us to make the necessary book purchases, we must at least have an absolute donation of $40,000 or $50,000 to be expended principal and interest in books, which would enable us to meet fairly the requirements of the situation for the next ten years. It is of the utmost importance to the well-being of a library that its growth should be regular, symmetrical, and homogeneous. Alternations of activity and torpidity are extremely undesirable. While ever strengthening its foundations in the literature of the past, we must also steadily add at the top what the present supplies of value. We are building for the future as well as for our own use, and much of the work a Library does has a future rather than a present value. It must all the time be acquiring and preserving books, pamphlets and periodicals that will seldom be called for, but when they are wanted, are wanted badly, and can only be looked for in a public library.

The work that has been outlined is only what is pressing and imperatively necessary. How much greater would be the utility and the influence of the Library if it could be made a great Public Free Library scarcely needs saying, but unfortunately a great deal of money would be necessary to produce this consummation—the income on a million dollars at least. At present the city spends $1,000,000 a year on its public schools, but who can doubt that that money is well spent, that the city as a whole has received a full return in a more intelligent, orderly and useful population than it would otherwise have possessed? Does not the expenditure for public schools ultimately lessen rather than increase the rate of taxation? We believe that an expenditure of $60,000 or $70,000 per annum to make this Library a free public library would make at least an equal return, dollar for dollar, with that spent on the public schools. It would daily minister to the education and enjoyment of thousands; would increase the value of the labor of our working classes; would knit together more closely the different parts of our city, and would raise appreciably the average of intelligence in the community.

According to a recent writer, the expenditure in the city of New York by the city charities, other public charities, churches and individuals, for the relief of the poor, is not less than $8,000,000 annually. While these institutions do a work that appeals very strongly to the human heart, as is shown by the amount of money they receive, is it not certain that the same amount of money could be better invested in education as a preventive, rather than in charity as an alleviative of pauperism? Instead of trying to dam the flood, we must seek to dry up its sources, otherwise its volume will continually increase.

The report of the New York Society for the Suppression of Vice, in calling attention to the cheap papers and pamphlets containing stories of the real or unreal in criminal life says: "The practice of flooding the country with the blood and thunder literature of the day is cursing society and breeding criminals in every walk of life. Our Courts are almost literally thronged with boy and girl criminals. We do not claim that all of these are the direct result of evil reading, but from our observation we believe that a vast majority are."

As a preventive of pauperism there is no such potent factor as education, and as a promoter of education we claim that, after the public schools, and supplementing their work, there is no such effective educator as a judiciously selected and well administered Public Library.

HISTORICAL SKETCH

OF THE

BROOKLYN LIBRARY,

BY MR. JAMES P. WALLACE.

Read by request at the Annual Meeting, on the Evening of March 27, 1884.

MR. PRESIDENT, AND MEMBERS OF THE BROOKLYN LIBRARY—The silver wedding of this institution occurred a year ago, when our President, Mr. William Augustus White, gave a brief account of its origin, its growth and its needs. Since then a desire has been expressed for a more extended statement, which is presented this evening, gathered from the records of the Library and from the memory of the principal actors at the time. Mr. Lewis Roberts, who was our first President, in his annual report presented January 13, 1859, used the following words: "As early as October, 1857, the subject of organizing a new library association, to be controlled and managed by the young men of Brooklyn, was discussed in private by two friends of the enterprise, and at their personal solicitation about twenty gentlemen met at the Atheneum, as a preliminary step to more formal action on the subject." It is known to all the early members that the two friends whom Mr. Roberts was too modest to name, were Mr. Roberts himself and Mr. James P. Wallace, who is still a trustee of the Library. This is evidenced by the two portraits on the walls of the directors' room, and by letters relating thereto, which are printed in the first and second annual reports. The circumstances were as follows: The Atheneum at that time contained the principal library of Brooklyn, of about 4,000 volumes. It was managed by a Board of Brooklyn's best citizens, who manifested a sincere desire to promote the public good. For some reason the public did not take much interest in the enterprise, and it was in a languishing condition.

Mr. Wallace conceived the idea that, if the Library could be turned over to the control and management of young men, they would increase its growth and make it more useful. He held many interviews with stockholders and Trustees of the Atheneum, and succeeded in securing the approval of most of them, provided an organization of young men could be formed strong enough to give assurance of success. Mr. Wallace then proposed the subject to Mr. Roberts, who entered enthusiastically into the scheme, and they together set to work, with a will, to talk it up with other young men. The meeting of twenty gentlemen referred to was held November 19, 1857, with Mr. W. W. Tufts in the Chair, and Mr. A. E. Orr, as Secretary. Mr. Wallace explained the object of the meeting and the proposed plan. After an interchange of views, it was decided to call a public meeting on the 30th of the same month. A committee was appointed to make arrangements, consisting of Messrs. Lewis Roberts, James P. Wallace, John S. Ward, Charles A. Silliman and Charles Condit; and all the gentlemen present promised to do all they could to secure a large attendance. Messrs. H. P. Journeay, R. W. Ropes, Sidney Sanderson, Charles A. Townsend and Dr. A. Cook Hull are recorded as speaking in favor of the enterprise. The activity and zeal of the young men were shown by their obtaining in ten days over six hundred signatures to the call, and by their distribution of a thousand cards of invitation. That meeting was held in the hall of the Atheneum, and largely attended. Mr. Wallace was invited to the Chair. There were thirty-five Vice-Presidents, of whom Mr. James H. Frothingham and Mr. Alexander E. Orr are still active in the management of the Library. Rev. Doctors Storrs, Farley, Cutler, and Lord, and Professor Raymond accepted seats on the platform and made encouraging remarks. Mr. Roberts presented the plan proposed by the informal meeting, which was to organize similar to the Mercantile Library of New York, which was approved. A committee was appointed to draft a constitution, another, of one hundred, to obtain members and donations, and another to arrange for the next meeting. Over $1,300 were pledged by those in attendance, and the Chairman announced that the Mercantile Library Association of the City of Brooklyn was a fixed fact. That announcement was received by a round of applause such as no other than an audience of enthusiastic young men could give. On the 17th of December the meeting was held to receive the reports of the committees. The hall was well filled. Mr. Albert B. Capwell presided. Mr. Charles S. Farley and Mr. George R. Bowman were appointed Secretaries. The Committee of One Hundred reported through its Chairman, Henry Hill, that the number of subscribers was 826, and the amount of cash received was $8,865. That was good work for seventeen days. Mr. Roberts submitted a draft of a constitution, which, with a few amendments, was unanimously adopted, and arrangements were made to hold the first election on the 23d of the same month. Rev. Dr. Farley then addressed the meeting, congratulating them on the success of the movement.

ELECTION.

The election was held at the time appointed, and was a memorable affair. There were a great many young men anxious to manage the new institution, who divided into two parties, denominated regulars and independents. The constitution provided that the payment of one dollar initiation fee, and half a dollar more for one-quarter of a year dues, constituted a member. There was great activity on both sides to procure new members, favorable to their respective nominees, and a considerable sum was received into the treasury from that source. Electioneering was carried on according to the most approved manner of experienced politicians. An election for President of the United States did not just then seem half so important. Excitement ran very high, but there was no disturbance. The result was a small majority for the regulars, with Mr. Lewis Roberts for President. Mr. Wallace was not a candidate for a position on the Board, but by invitation he sat with the Board on occasions.

LOCATION.

As soon as the election was over, a party was organized in opposition to locating in the Atheneum. They obtained from Mr. A. A. Low an exceedingly liberal offer to erect on Montague street a building adapted to their purpose. That offer would probably have been accepted, except that the Atheneum was fitted up with a library and reading room respectable for that day, and could be occupied at once. A lease was finally agreed upon, bearing date February 12, 1858, for the whole second floor of the Atheneum, with its books and furniture, for five years, on terms that were equal to rent free ; and the Atheneum agreed to add $800 worth of new books to the Library annually during that term. The liberality of that lease was owing in part to skillful diplomacy, partly, perhaps, to the demonstration in favor of another location, and largely to the influence of the public-spirited President of the Atheneum, Hon. J. S. T. Stranahan, who warmly espoused the cause of the young men from beginning to end.

RESULTS OF THE FIRST YEAR.

The library and reading-rooms in the Atheneum were publicly opened May 7, 1858, with everything in a new dress. The hall was well filled by members and their friends, and there was great rejoicing. A separate reading-room had been handsomely furnished for ladies, showing that the Library began, as it has ever continued, on the principle that good accommodation for ladies is the surest road to success, especially in Brooklyn. At the close of the first year President Roberts reported : Cash receipts from all sources, $14,265.07, of which $9,000 had been expended for books and periodicals. There were 11,400 books on the shelves, and a membership of 1,511, of whom 100 were ladies. Ten different gentlemen had delivered lectures before the Association, from which there was a net gain of $1,345.64. Rev. Dr. Storrs, Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, Rev. Dr. E. H. Chapin and Hon. George W. Curtis declined to receive compensation for their lectures, and the Board gratefully voted them honorary memberships.

Classes in French, German and Spanish languages and in book-keeping were organized, and steps were taken to make the rooms head-quarters for the exhibition of fine arts. Mr. Wallace visited most of the Brooklyn studios, and secured a meeting of artists, at which he explained the proposed plan, and obtained their approval. In the following year the first Art Reception in Brooklyn was held in the rooms of the Library, and from that has grown our Brooklyn Art Association. This much prominence is given to the origin and first year of the Library, because it was the foundation of all that has followed; and because it will aid to preserve the memory of some who were active in building that foundation. It would be grateful to name them all, but that would exceed our limits.

FIVE YEARS: 1860-1864.

The presidency of Lebbeus Chapman, Jr., James H. Frothingham, James Thorne and Adrian Van Sinderen, respectively, covers the next five years to March, 1864, with moderate growth. These years embrace the depressed period at the commencement of our late war, and it is a marvel that the institution did not go backward. That it even survived is evidence of the enterprise of the young men and of its adaptability to the wants of the age. Among the good things accomplished during those five years are the following: They procured a charter from the Legislature. They received their first donation for a permanent book fund of $5,000 from Mrs. Maria Cary, of precious memory, who showed her continued interest in the Library by a legacy of another like sum twenty years later. They also renewed the lease from the Atheneum for three years more on similar terms, except that the Atheneum was to add only $200 worth of new books per annum instead of $800, as before. President Van Sinderen reported at the close of this term that all departments of the Library had been sustained; that there were 17,907 books on the shelves and 1,727 members, of whom 356 were ladies. This shows that the places of the young men who had gone to the war were more than supplied by the fair sex.

MR. WOODRUFF'S FIVE YEARS: 1864-1868.

Mr. Franklin Woodruff became president in March, 1864, and by annual re-elections held the office until March, 1869. He was supported by an able Board, and under its administration the greatest advance of the Library was accomplished. The lots forming the present site were purchased, the money was collected, the edifice we now occupy was erected and paid for, and $50,000 was subscribed for the purchase of books. The history of those five years is given in the proceedings of the opening of this building, and was fully reported in the Brooklyn daily papers.

THE OPENING OF THE NEW LIBRARY BUILDING IN 1869.

From that source we learn that the opening occurred on the 18th of January, 1869, and that the Library building was thronged with the best people of Brooklyn, including the intelligence, the wealth, and the loveliness of the city. Conterno's band furnished inspiring music. Mr. Franklin Woodruff, President, opened the ceremony in a short address of welcome. Mr. James H. Frothingham, chairman of the Building Committee, made a report, from which the following are extracts: "In the spring of 1864 the Board of Directors opened a subscription, and individual members purchased the ground on which this building now stands. They sought and obtained the counsel of large minded men outside their organization, and their own views were thereby enlarged. To give clear direction to the movement was left, however, to the sagacity and munificence of one man, who, coming forward unsolicited, commended with enthusiasm the project, and offered to give $5,000 on the simple condition that a building should be erected worthy to be the library of a great city, and that it should be finished without debt or incumbrance. This act of Hon. S. B. Chittenden, which I mention with unfeigned gratitude—and the impression is as vivid to-day as then—inspired the work. Preliminary plans were obtained and the amount to be raised was fixed at $120,000. It was to be asked as a gift to promote a cause that should be near to the heart of all good citizens. Response was genuine and generous, the conditions were wise, and the cause was good. In January, 1865, the subscription reached $60,000. Mr. Woodruff had increased his gift to a sum which few young men have ever at command for purposes of benefaction, and with a depth of feeling and appreciation which we have not forgotten. Mr. H. B. Claflin had responded gladly with a like sum of $5,000, and by the middle of February the list was $80,000. Then Mr. A. A. Low imparted new impetus to the effort by his original subscription of $5,000, and later, when there seemed perhaps a pause, Mr. Chittenden again came forward to double his original gift, provided the entire sum was secured before the month of June. The subscription reached $125,600 before the time named. (It sounds almost like romance, and those who have looked upon the duty of soliciting as unqualified drudgery have little idea of the luxury of success.) The Legislature of the State by a new charter had created a permanent Board of Trustees, with exclusive control of the funds and property of the Association. This new body took charge of the collection and appropriation of the subscriptions. The procurement of plans and the selection of an architect occupied the summer of 1865, and resulted in the appointment of Mr. Peter B. Wight. At that time began the rapid inflation of prices and an enhancement of the cost of building, which for a long time threatened the indefinite postponement of our building. It is needless to record the manifold expedients employed to overcome this embarrassment, the end of which was the entire abandonment of the original plans after more than a year of delay, and the adoption of those which have since been executed. On the 27th of June, 1867, ground was broken and the work of building fairly began. There has been no important delay in any portion of the work since then, and the Library is but to-day finished. We had hoped to be able to say, in dedicating this building, that it was absolutely paid for. We cannot do so to-night, but we can and do declare that the original condition shall soon be satisfied, and that the good faith in which we began shall be maintained. We have expended $227,000. Our collections and available funds, including mortgages on our office buildings, amount to $207,000, leaving $20,000 still to be raised. We have done what we could to advance the civilization of our age."

At the conclusion of the report addresses were made by Mr. A. A. Low, Rev. R. S. Storrs, D. D., Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, Mr. Samuel McLean, Mr. Abraham B. Baylis and Hon. S. B. Chittenden. Mr. Chittenden said: Why should not this pittance of $20,000 be subscribed here to-night? Is not the occasion worthy the effort? Have not these gentlemen who have carried the hat around three years, and spent their days and nights in the work, proved themselves worthy of your confidence? If the $20,000 be subscribed within thirty days, I will add $2,500 to my original subscription. One thing more: I tell you this work is not more than begun until at least $50,000 is pledged for new books. And I have one word to say about that. If that $50,000 can be pledged within sixty days, payable in quarterly or yearly installments, for the benefit of this Society, provided that the other proposition I made is secured, I will pay $5,000 a year for four years, making $20,000 toward the $50,000, if I live, and if I don't live, I will bequeath it to my children as a family obligation. [Tremendous applause.]

Before the meeting adjourned $12,625 was subscribed towards the deficiency, of which Mr. A. A. Low contributed the sum of $5,000, and several gentlemen announced themselves ready to contribute largely to stock the Library with books. President Woodruff pledged himself to secure the balance, and both subscriptions were completed before the time named. That act of Mr. Chittenden's is regarded the most notable event in the history of the Library. When all have done so well it is difficult to name any one without apparent injustice to others, but the men of that day will agree that this work could not have been consummated had it not been for the liberality of President Woodruff, of Mr. A. A. Low, and Mr. Chittenden, and even with the stimulus of their liberality that it could hardly have succeeded without the inspiring zeal and courage of Mr. Frothingham.

FOURTEEN YEARS: 1869-1883.

After opening the Library there was a period of thirteen years, until 1882, of good work and steady growth, during which Messrs. John R. Kennady, George L. Nichols, Adrian

Van Sinderen, William B. Kendall, and James H. Frothingham, respectively, were presidents. That period was distinguished by a judicious purchase of new books with the $50,000 which had been subscribed for that purpose. Mr. S. B. Noyes, the librarian, was sent to Europe to afford him better opportunity for selection, and his purchases have received general commendation. During that term the name of the institution was changed by an Act of the Legislature to "The Brooklyn Library." This is most important in many respects. It is significant of the growth and general scope of the Library and of its adaptation to the wants of the whole community. That term is also distinguished by the completion of the catalogue compiled by our librarian, Mr. Noyes, with some assistance from Mr. Van Sinderen. A friend writes of the catalogue that "it reflects the highest credit upon the capacity, discrimination, and untiring industry of its author; and its fullness of detail, its clear and comprehensive arrangement and the thorough knowledge of the requirements of such a work evinced by its every page continue to call forth the most flattering encomiums from critics qualified to estimate and appreciate its excellence." At the close of this term of thirteen years, to March, 1882, President Frothingham reported 61,163 books on the shelves and 2,770 members. Under Mr. Frothingham's presidency was initiated the movement which was carried to a partially successful conclusion in the following year under President White, and which resulted in paying off the indebtedness of the Library, in substantially completing the building, and in placing a considerable number of books on its shelves, although leaving the provision of an adequate endowment fund for book purchases still a question for the future. What was done, however, and which will worthily commemorate the silver wedding anniversary, was largely due to the liberality and influence of our worthy President, who was nobly supported by the members of the Board of Directors and the Board of Trustees, and other generous and true friends of the Library, and especially by the untiring and persistent efforts of Mr. Frothingham.

The First Annual Report of President White, March 29th, 1883, shows 74,793 books in the Library and 3,107 members.

It also shows the circulation and the use of books in the Library for reference to have amounted to about 150,000 volumes, a result of which we may justly be proud. His Second Annual Report, to which you have listened to-night, shows still further progress.

TWENTY-SEVENTH ANNUAL MEETING.

The Twenty-seventh Annual Meeting of the Brooklyn Library was held in the Ladies' Reading Room of the Library on Thursday evening, March 26th, 1885, the President, Mr. W. A. White, in the Chair, and Mr. S. B. Chittenden, Jr., acting as Secretary.

The Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

The Treasurer, Mr. James L. Morgan, Jr., read his report, which was, on motion, accepted.

The President then read the Twenty-seventh Annual Report of the Board of Directors, which was adopted, and 1,000 copies ordered printed.

DR. ROBERT F. LEIGHTON, of the Central Grammar School, then spoke of the relation of a public library to the public schools, and said that the opening of the library to the teachers and pupils of the Grammar Schools of the city would have a very good result, as both the classes alluded to lacked books for reference to supplement their text-books. If the vast storehouse of knowledge which the library contained could be opened to the teachers and scholars, the influence would be most beneficial, and the educational value of the public school system would be largely increased. As a factor in public education the value of a public library could not be over-estimated. Any method of education is seriously at fault which does not incite the pupil to a desire for further knowledge. The pupil should be taught not only how to read, but what to read. The literary taste should be trained in the right direction in youth. A boy who has fixed a standard by reading Scott's novels or Miss Edgeworth's tales, or the works of Thackeray, Dickens or George Eliot, will never be dazzled by the "Red Rover of the Spanish Main" or the "Midnight Marriage." The object should be to cultivate a love of reading. Gibbon and Macaulay and Bancroft should not be the only books offered to the pupils, for the reason that many of them could not at first appreciate the great masterpieces of wit and eloquence and knowledge. Their minds would have to be first cultivated. Rightly used, a public library would be a great trainer of the literary taste of the youth of a city.

The library could also collect books on useful arts and trades which pupils would have access to, and they would thus be better prepared on entering life to take care of themselves, and there would be less danger of poverty and distress. It is very important to establish in youth the habit of learning intelligently and not by rote. Once acquired, this habit would be continued through life. The opening of the library to scholars would mean the end of the old method of teaching from a book, and the beginning of a new era of original thought and investigation. It might also be feasible for the teachers to take their classes occasionally to the library and instruct them in the methods of best utilizing the facilities it offers. In Boston, the experiment of utilizing the Public Library in connection with the Public Schools was first tried with a single school, and found to work so successfully, that it was subsequently extended to all.

“I am interested in this meeting to-night, because I see here in this great city one of the finest opportunities on this continent to build up a great library, having, as you do, all the advantages of the metropolis. I am personally interested, too, because my own library is so near that all your development has for me an immediate and selfish interest. You stand midway between the College library, which I now represent, and the free public library, which is oftenest discussed. I am not sure but that your plans for the future may enable you to combine the advantages of both. Dr. Leighton has been saying to you the very things I had in mind to say not so well, and I would emphasize his plea, but I am no longer content to speak of the library as ‘related to the school,’ or as ‘resembling’ a college for the people. It is the crown of the school system, without which it is incomplete. It is the true university, not only of the people, but of the scholar. Of old, Paul sat at the feet of Gamaliel, and oral teaching was the main thing in education, but since that wonderful thing, a printed book, came into being, a steady change has been going forward. The best thoughts of the best thinkers on every subject find their way into print, and while we shall never be able to wholly replace the personal inspiration of an enthusiastic teacher, yet, year after year, more and more that, our fathers said, could never be put in a book, is made available in print, and the living teacher is becoming more and more a luxury rather than a necessity after the learner has been taught to read. It is even now possible to make a splendid university out of a great library, without professors but with good librarians and the most perfect catalogues, indexes, and various helps to readers; but it is wholly impracticable to make a university without the books.

“Your experience will bear me out in saying that men and women and children are more and more getting their ideas, motives and opinions from the printed page and less from the rostrum and pulpit and living voice. If we are to influence these lives and make them better worth living, we must in some way guide this reading, and this can be done generally, effectively and economically, only by means of the library. We must contrive that people read more books, better books and by better methods. With this conviction, in 1876 a hundred of the leading librarians of the country met in conference at Philadelphia. The time was ripe for such work. On the day of the first meeting, there came from Washington the first volume of the famous ‘U. S. Report on Libraries,’ a public document of 1276 pages, which was a cyclopedia to libraries. On the same day there came from New York the first number of the Library Journal, now in its tenth volume, and which has been to working librarians of more value than all other technical books on libraries together. Then the conference unanimously resolved itself into the American Library Association, which sums up its creed in its motto: ‘The best reading for the largest number at the least expense.’ So came into prominence what we fondly term the ‘modern library idea.’ The old school librarian was a jailer who guarded his books, often from being read: he pointed with pride to his books, kept so many years unworn, perhaps with leaves uncut: he was a literary miser. Often the office was a refuge for the incompetent who must have some place, and had been proved utterly unfitted for anything else.

"The modern librarian is active, not passive. He is as glad to welcome a reader as the earnest merchant a customer, and a good book actually worn out with legitimate use affords him most pleasure. He magnifies his office, and recognizes in his profession an opportunity for usefulness to his fellows inferior to none.

"Happily, there were exceptions to the first class, and of the second the numbers are all too few; but I am speaking now of types. With such ideals, men of high grade are entering this new profession. I have in mind successful clergymen and teachers who are ready to resign good places to accept librarianships, not because the work will be easy or the salary good, for there is no field which so combines the longest hours of hardest work with inadequate pay. But it is because the clergyman sees in a library, administered on the highest plane, all the city for his parish and half the population for his congregation, and the teacher sees in such a library, classes who graduate and leave his influence only with death.

"I know that these ideals are very high, but only he who studies this library question deeply, night and day, and in all its bearings, can comprehend its infinite possibilities.

"We can educate our people through the library, and, except for the wealthy, we can't do it in the schools. The highest hope we have for our schools for the masses is that they may teach to read, not merely to pronounce the words like a parrot or as a bright child may be taught to call the words of Italian, or any sensibly spelled language, in a day, but to drink in the author's meaning from the printed page and reproduce the author's thoughts. If we accomplish this, we must be satisfied to let the pupils go out and earn their bread. Massachusetts is proud of its schools and the medals awarded her for progress in education, but even there illiteracy is increasing. To a country dependent on the wise use of the free ballot, such facts are startling and portend danger ahead. Whatever a man's financial standing, if his expenses each year exceed his income, bankruptcy is somewhere ahead, and if illiteracy is growing from whatever cause, it is high time the tide was checked.

"So I say the problem before the schools is to teach the masses to read intelligently, and the library must then take up and carry on the work of education not as the ally of the schools, but as the necessary completion, the true People's University. This fact is recognized in different degrees all over the country and new libraries are springing up almost daily, indeed I think the average, small and large, will be quite as high as 365 per year. The time is coming when one will ask in every village—not: 'Is there a library?' but 'Where is the library?' As they now ask, 'Where is the school house or post-office?' One of the best assurances that this development will go on is in the fact that people who have no interest in education or culture, are finding out that libraries pay selfishly, that a good library, where every workman in the city, whatever his calling, may get the best obtainable information and help about his work, will in the end vastly more than pay expenses in material wealth.

"Your President has asked me to tell you something of our work at Columbia. Time will allow but the briefest mention of a few points, but we shall always be glad to see or give information to any of you who may be interested. We are trying to work out the modern library idea in a university library. Columbia College stands in the very centre of New York. Our building stands in the centre of our block, surrounded by the various schools of the university, and we consolidated into this one collection the eight different libraries belonging to the College. The Library has now received the rank of a university department, and stands beside the Schools of Arts, Law, Medicine, Political Science and the various schools of Applied Sciences, and the librarian is no longer put at the end of the list of officers, next to the janitor.

“ We hold that the college library should be like the college pump, accessible whenever wanted, and not, as in many colleges, for an hour or two on certain days of the week. We open all our departments from 8. A. M. to 10 P. M. throughout the year, including holidays and vacations, for often these days of customary closing are the only ones when busy men have a chance to use the library.

“ We hold that double value is gotten from books that can be handled freely, and since theory and experience agree that readers trusted prove themselves worthy of confidence, we open for reference, not ten to one hundred volumes, but thirty thousand, of the most used books with which we line the walls of our great reading room.

“ We hold that if it pays to give cooks and coachmen and carpenters labor-saving tools, in order to get more and better results in a given time, it will pay to give professors and students every practical aid in order that they may do more in their more valuable time, and we esteem no detail too small to merit our attention if it facilitates the work of our readers. We have convenient small study-tables, with slides and electric student lamps, rubber-tipped chairs, paper for notes, ice-water, wash-rooms, messenger and telegraph calls, check-room for coats, bags and packages, speaking-tubes, electric-bells, etc.

“ If we cannot, for some years, offer the most complete equipment of books in the country, we mean speedily to offer the most perfect facilities for using such as we have, and to carry steadily forward our rapid growth, which the last report showed to be fifty times the average of the past twenty years. Gifts to the Library and use have increased in an equally marked ratio ; for there are in New York, as there are in Brooklyn, plenty of men and women of influence and means who will give their interest, their books and their money to a library when they learn that it is really doing all that the best managed library can do to make itself useful.

“ There is also a field of direct instruction in which we hope to do very practical work. It has often been proposed to teach college boys certain important things connected with books and their use, and in every class there are students who coax desultory hints and suggestions out of their professors. But I believe no college has yet really given the systematic instruction needed.

“ Without attempting any antiquarian or technical instruction, much can be done under ‘ Bibliography,’ in giving a working knowledge of what reference books there are, their comparative merits in respect to given subjects, and how to use them to the best advantage. The average college student, not to say graduate, is ignorant of the greater part of the bibliographical apparatus which the skilled librarian has in hourly use, to enable him to answer the thousand queries of the public. A little systematic instruction would so start our students in the right methods, that for the rest of their lives all their work in libraries would be more expeditiously accomplished and vastly more efficient.”

Mr. Dewey then spoke of the importance of learning to preserve for future use the results of reading. He said that it was intended in about two years to open a school for the training of librarians with a short, practical course, designed to give men and women of the right material and ideas a good start, which shall enable them to go on and work out the modern library idea.

In conclusion, he said :—

“Thoughtful hearers will see in these methods of study suggestion of plenty of practical work, and those interested, in the Circular of Information, issued by the library, fuller information.

“In this wholly extempore way I have outlined some factors of the modern library spirit, which aims to turn each of the 5,000 public libraries of the United States from a cistern into a living spring ; to go on establishing new, and improving old institutions, till we shall put in the power of all our people the means of best gratifying that thirst, delirious yet divine, to know.”

The next speaker was the REV. DR. CHARLES H. HALL, who, on being introduced, regretted that he had not accepted the President's invitation to speak before Mr. Dewey, as it was difficult to say anything instructive on the subject in addition to what had been said by the able specialist who preceded him.

When a stranger comes to Brooklyn he naturally asks, “What are the principal points of interest in your city?” We take him first to the corner of Fulton and Greene avenues, and we show him our statuary. Then we take him to Gowanus and show him where our navy ought to be, and after that with some pride we show him our two libraries. Our libraries are good ones, but one of them, as its name indicates, must always be a historical library. The Brooklyn Library is the library for the citizens of Brooklyn in the future, and the people look to this library for development into something larger, and more largely useful.

Dr. Hall contrasted the efforts of the citizens of Brooklyn and those of other cities concerning their libraries, and not much to the credit of the former. The Murphy library, he said, had been permitted to be taken from Brooklyn, and a valuable collection of theological books had recently been scattered. Brooklyn was too apathetic in regard to her libraries. People were apparently willing to lie down and admire what they had done in the past, rather than get up and grapple with the task which lay before them to provide for the future. He suggested that for specialists the rules in regard to the taking out of books should be altered to a certain extent, so as to allow them to take out a score of books at a time if necessary. It happened not unfrequently that he had to go to New York for a special book. The library ought to have money enough to buy such books as the clergy needed in preparing their sermons.

Brooklyn must wake up to her duties in this respect. Mr. Vanderbilt was putting up a $300,000 mausoleum for himself and his family—a likely way to insure long remembrance. Yet how much longer would those citizens of Brooklyn be remembered, and how much more good would they do, who should spend $300,000 each in branch libraries on the Hill and in the Eastern District. Though not an enthusiastic admirer of some of Boston's traits, he did admire and applaud her public spirit. He wished that Brooklyn had more of it.

MR. JAMES H. FROTHINGHAM, in behalf of about a hundred gentlemen who had contributed the necessary funds, then presented to the Library an excellent portrait of the Hon. Simeon B. Chittenden, painted by Mr. Eastman Johnson. Mr. Chittenden had, Mr. Frothingham said, made the Brooklyn Library as it exists to-day possible. It was his munificence which gave impetus to the movement, which resulted in the erection of the present library building.

The President accepted the portrait in behalf of the Library, and said it was a noble portrait of a noble man, one who gave wisely as well as freely, and who, by his benefactions and public spirit, had done much to make, not only the Library, but Brooklyn, what it is to-day.

MR. EDWARD CARY spoke for the members of the Library, and said, in closing :—

“ This keen and penetrating conception of how best to aid the Library is characteristic of all he (Mr. Chittenden) has done for Brooklyn ; and he has done much. We accept this beautiful portrait. We have a right to hand it down to our children and our children's children, as an expressive reminder of a noble type of the men who have worked out such glorious achievements in our land for order, and progress, and culture, and all that we call civilization.”

The meeting then adjourned.

OF THE DIRECTORS OF THE BROOKLYN LIBRARY.

To the Members of the Brooklyn Library :

Before passing to the details of the work done during the past year in the Library, we must first say a few words in regard to the great loss the Library has recently sustained in the death of the man who did most to make it what it is.

Stephen B. Noyes was born in Brookfield, Massachusetts, August 28th, 1833. After graduating, in 1853, at Harvard, where President Eliot and Justin Winsor, now Librarian of Harvard, were among his class-mates, he served his apprenticeship as Librarian in the Boston Athenæum, under the tutelage of Ezra Abbot, and came to Brooklyn in 1858, to take charge of the Mercantile Library, then just incorporated. With the exception of the years 1866 and 1867, spent in the Library of Congress, at Washington, he passed the rest of his life in building up this Library, till it has grown from the 4,000 volumes, which he found in the second story of the Athenæum, to a collection of 84,000 volumes, carefully selected and well catalogued, in a building of its own, and with the promise of increasing usefulness and development.

Mr. Noyes possessed a wonderful knowledge of books, not merely a bibliographical acquaintance with them, but a real knowledge of their contents; and this knowledge was always entirely and freely at the service of every seeker after literary information. In the twenty-five years of his residence here, he has been in this way a great educational force in the community; and, in a city which is not strongly endowed with advanced educational institutions, his loss will be severely felt. This knowledge of books, combined with a power of untiring application and good practical judgment, enabled him to give the Library a catalogue which all authorities on the subject agree in regarding as a model of its kind.

By his fellow workers in the Librarian's profession his loss is also keenly felt. We quote from letters recently received, to show their appreciation of him.

Mr. Justin Winsor, Librarian of Harvard University, wrote:

"I have been closely observant of his course as a librarian; and there has not been one of his utterances, as such, but I have listened to it with respect. He was very competent in his calling, and in one of the most patent phases of a librarian's proficiency, he proved masterful and an exemplar, and his Brooklyn Catalogue has achieved an excellent reputation. For a Library of the grade of that over which he ruled, it is the best sample yet produced of that indispensable key, a catalogue. Since we both grew riper in our work, I can recall more than one talk which I have had with him, and they have left in my mind the impression of his strong good sense, and an urgent devotion to make his labors successful in the highest sense. His loss is signal to his fellows in the work, as well as to you who knew him closer."

Mr. S. S. Green, of the Worcester Library, writes:

"He was one of the best librarians in the country. Enthusiastic in regard to his work, he brought to it a well educated and technically trained mind, and great aptitude for the duties he had to perform.

"He took a broad view of his responsibilities, and in a loving spirit turned all the facilities at his command into instruments for the education of inquirers. There are comparatively few highly accomplished librarians in the country. Mr. Noyes was undoubtedly one of the few."

Mr. C. A. Cutter, of the Boston Athenæum, says:

"We all hoped to receive from him more of that remarkable catalogue which general consent has pronounced to be one of the most useful ever printed, and we had expected him to build up a great Library in Brooklyn, worthy of the second city in the greatest of our States. His place will not easily be filled."

It will not be an easy task for the Library, with the limited means at its disposal, to find a worthy successor to Mr. Noyes, and we should not attempt to fill his place till we can do so with a successor who, by combining Library experience with literary knowledge and executive ability, will fully maintain the reputation of the Library, and adequately develop its work in the large field of usefulness that lies around it.

In giving the history of the work of the Library for the year, we will adopt the order of arrangement of the Treasurer's Report, which you have just heard read, and will endeavor to explain the various items of receipts and expenses, so that their significance may be fully understood.

MEMBERSHIP.

Annual members (who have paid to March 1, 1885).....	2,076
Extra annual subscriptions at $3 .....	275
Life members by payment of $100.....	566
"                    "          $50.....	41
Permanent members by payment of $500.....	287
Total membership.....	3,245

This shows a gain over last year of 45 members, and is the largest number the Library has ever had, except in the year 1876. The gain in receipts from membership over last year is $360.44.

During the year, the following Life Members have died : Rev. Dr. N. H. Schenck, Jeremiah Curtis, Gen'l. H. B. Duryea, W. A. Gellatly, Abel F. Goodnow, John R. Kennaday, Geo. L. Kent, Caleb Nickerson, Richard P. Buck.

In the opinion of the Board, the number of members might be materially increased by some concerted action on the part of those who are already members. The advantages offered by the Library are so great as to make the expenditure of $100.00 for a Life Membership certainly a desirable investment. To those who are already members, it returns an annual interest of five per cent. in saving the annual payment of $5.00; while to others we are sure it will make a return of usefulness to themselves and others so great that they will never regret it.

The Board, therefore, recommends to the members the appointment from their number of a Committee of Fifty or One Hundred, for the purpose of increasing the membership; and while an addition to the number of Life Memberships will be especially welcome, and Permanent Memberships still more so, any addition to the number of Annual Memberships will also be thankfully received, and will materially invigorate the work of the Library.

PROPERTY OF THE LIBRARY.

The property of the Library is vested in the Board of Trustees, who pay over the net income therefrom to the Board of Directors. The income of the various funds during the past year has amounted to $6,402.53.

The present value of the whole property of the Library is estimated as follows :

Library building.....	$152,000 00
Furniture and fixtures.....	11,000 00
Books.....	110,000 00
Adjacent office buildings.....	70,000 00
Invested on bond and mortgage.....	12,000 00
Total value.....	$355,000 00

And it would probably cost more than this to replace it.

The Directors state their conviction, based on careful observation of the work done by, and the needs of, the Library, that it is more important to have the growth of the Library continue regularly and symmetrically than to abstain absolutely from incurring a debt. For the small existing indebtedness, there are valuable and useful assets in the shape of books on our shelves, to show as a set-off; and there is no hidden floating debt, as every bill against the Library, up to the 1st of March, has been paid.

We may fairly expect that the present period of business depression will not last many years longer, and that when the community is again prosperous, the needs of the Library will receive proper recognition.

CLASSES.

Classes have been carried on in French, under the charge of Prof. L. J. Simonin ; German, under Prof. W. A. Stamm; Spanish, under Prof. Ramirez, and Phonography, under Prof. T. J. Ellinwood. The class in Italian, which had been discontinued for several years, was resumed under the charge of Prof. Frederic Garlanda. The net income from Classes was $351.60, a gain of $12.81 over the year previous.

SALARIES.

The expenditure for salaries is somewhat more than usual, owing to Mr. Noyes' absence from the Library for half the year. The salaries paid by the Library seem very moderate, considering the amount and quality of the work given in return.

We believe that the present employees of the Library are popular with the members, and deservedly so. We are under special obligations this year to the Assistant Librarians, Mr. Willis A. Bardwell and Mr. Charles A. Horn, for the cheerful and unwearying application with which they have met the additional work thrown upon them by Mr. Noyes' long illness.

BOOKS.

The additions to the Library have been in detail :

Total net additions for the year.....	3,731
Total number of volumes now in Library.....	83,888

The average cost per volume of the books actually purchased during the year was over $1.50, showing that the additions have been of a high average quality.

The collection of books continues to be made, as it has been from the beginning, on an encyclopedic plan, embracing all departments of thought and research, yet avoiding all that is valued only for sumptuousness or rarity.

The Library has 244 friends to thank for donations of printed matter. The substantial quality of the books donated is rather remarkable, out of 558 volumes only 6 being Fiction. There were also given 805 pamphlets and 759 numbers of magazines. These are all extremely welcome. Single numbers of magazines often fit in to complete a series; and pamphlets, unless preserved in a Public Library, are apt to pass out of existence altogether. To the historian of the future our collection of pamphlets may prove the most useful part of the Library.

Duplicates of books are frequently valuable for exchange with other Libraries. We have made arrangements for sending such books and magazines as we have no use for in the Library to the County Hospital at Flatbush.

Among the principal individual donors to the Library during the past year are Mr. D. Torrey, who gave a valuable collection of literature on the subject of railroads; Mr. C. P. Dewey and Mrs. M. L. Pike. To Hon. Darwin R. James we are indebted for the gift of many public documents; and the publishers of the Eagle, the Union, and the Times, of this city, have continued to favor us with bound files of those most useful publications.

Fourth Quarter.....	25,920	27,437
Total for the year .....	103,669	106,948

These figures show a gain for the year in circulation of 3,279 volumes over the preceding year. The only falling off was in the second quarter (during the months of April, May and June), and seems fairly attributable to the financial disturbance which reached a climax about the middle of May.

The largest number of volumes put in circulation on any one day was 660, on November 29th; the smallest, 165, on August 20th.

The average number of books taken out by each member during the year was 33. The use of the Library by the annual members is more active than by the Permanent and Life Members, and would doubtless average, except in July and August, a book a week to each annual member.

REFERENCE DEPARTMENT.

The use of books in the Library for reference is as useful a part of the Library's work as the home reading. A year ago shelves were erected on two sides of the Library hall, on which were placed for direct access by members, such books of reference as are most frequently wanted, such as encyclopedias, dictionaries, atlases, bound volumes of Brooklyn and New York newspapers, etc.

The facility of access by all members to these very useful books has been so much appreciated, that recently shelving has been put up on the two remaining sides of the Library hall, for additional books of the same character. Among those now added, are several of the best Catalogues of other Libraries, Larousse's Dictionnaire Universel, Statutes of New York from 1850, Revised Statutes of the United States, Directories of other cities, a file of the New York Herald in 109 volumes, from 1852 to date, the Census Reports, Political Almanacs, etc., etc.

If there were no other books in the Library but the 1,000 on these open reference shelves, we believe that the members who use them would get their money's worth of usefulness from the Library. The total number of books consulted in the Library is estimated at 55,000, making a total use in circulation and reference of 162,000 volumes during the year, exclusive of the use of periodicals and newspapers in the Reading Room.

It is the aim of the Directors to maintain for the Library the reputation it has won of being one of the best "working" Libraries in the country; that is to say, a Library where men who have literary work to do can do it to the best advantage.

In this connection, a reference is appropriate to an enterprise that has been for some time under way in the Library, and we hope will soon be put in shape to be available to our members. Its object is to utilize our files of newspapers (except those of this city and New York) by clipping from them all items likely to be of interest for reference, classifying them under several hundred general heads, and subdividing these again into minor subjects. Mr. H. K. W. Wilcox suggested it to Mr. Noyes about a year ago, and has since been in charge of the work, a separate room having been placed at his disposal. He liberally donated to the Library a large collection of newspaper clippings of his own, extending over the last twenty years. The plan met with Mr. Noyes' cordial approval. Mr. Wilcox has now accumulated a large amount of interesting material, and the Library Committee are considering the best way of making it accessible, whether by mounting and binding, or by the use of boxes. Probably the latter would more readily allow of the constant additions necessary.

BINDING AND BULLETINS.

During the year, 277 volumes have been added to the Library, by binding up periodicals, newspapers, pamphlets, etc., and 1,987 volumes have been rebound. The total expenditure for binding has been $1,683.39. The cost of binding the 109 volumes of the New York Herald was $3 per volume.

The number of volumes placed in paper covers was 17,425.

Bulletin No. 20, of additions to the Library, was published on December 1st, 1884, and Bulletin No. 21, on March 1st, 1885.

Hereafter the Bulletins will be published regularly in the months of March, September and December. The Bulletins have been sent free to all members, and to several thousand others, at a total cost of about $700.

CATALOGUES.

The Catalogue of our Library continues to be in fair demand. During the year fifty-three copies have been disposed of. One copy went to Italy, for the use of the Commission of the Italian Government, engaged in re-organizing their Public Libraries, and another to Japan. The apparent net cost of the Catalogue to our Library has been about $7,000.

LIGHT.

The consumption of gas in the Library Building for the year ending March 1st, was 870,000 feet, at $2 per 1,000, costing $1,740. The cost of gas for the Eastern District Branch was $146.60. We have paid this year a bill of about $900, for gas consumed during the year previous, thus swelling the total expenditure for gas to $2,724.60.

READING ROOM.

The average daily attendance at the Reading Room is estimated at 300, making a total of over 90,000 for the year.

BUILDING.

The Building has been maintained in good repair. A large safe for the safe-keeping of the books of accounts, etc., of the Library, has been purchased at an expense of $315.

Additions, as already stated, have been made to the shelving in the Reference Hall, and shelving is now being placed in one of the front rooms in the top story of the building, where it is proposed to place the files of unbound newspapers which now encumber the shelves and the floor, on the upper story of the Library hall.

No other especial expense on the building is in contemplation, but, if our means permitted, it would be a great comfort to students in the Reference Department if all the floors in the Library hall were covered with linoleum, so as to prevent the noise now caused by walking over the wooden floors.

BRANCHES.

The local deliveries at drug stores in various parts of the city have been continued, as this system is found very useful by our members who reside at a distance from the Library.

The expense of these deliveries is estimated at : Car fares, $130 ; boys' time, $100 ; total, $230.

The number of volumes delivered in this way was 5,211.

EASTERN DISTRICT BRANCH.

There has been a moderate gain in the use of this Branch. The number of readers there during the year was 12,371, against 10,226 last year. Increase, 2,145.

The circulation of the Branch has been :

Drawn from the Main Library,.....	2,104
“ “ its own shelves,.....	3,858
Total.....	5,962

The cash receipts at the Branch have been $787.58, and, in addition, a number of members who use the Branch have paid at the Main Library. The total receipts at the Branch might fairly be estimated at $1,000. The expenses have been about $1,250. The rent of the room is met by the Brooklyn Library Association of the Eastern District, and for the ensuing year is at the rate of $480 per annum.

The thanks of the Library are especially due to Mr. Geo. V. Tompkins and Mr. J. P. Reeve for the interest they have shown in the welfare of the Branch.

The only bequest made to the Library during the year was by a resident of the Eastern District, Mr. Loftis Wood. The 7th section of his will is as follows :

“I direct my said trustees, after paying out or setting apart the several amounts above mentioned, to pay out of the residue of my estate, remaining undisposed of, the sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000) to the Brooklyn Library, and I request that said sum be invested by the trustees of said corporation, and the income applied to the purchase of books and periodicals for said Library.”

It is expected that the payment of this bequest will be made in May ; and as it comes from an Eastern District man, it seems proper that the income from it should be expended for the benefit of the Eastern District Branch. If it were possible for our friends in the Eastern District to bestir themselves, and make this $10,000 the nucleus of a Building Fund of $50,000, they might confer a great benefit on that section of the city by the erection of a Branch Library Building.

Beginning with a modest structure, that would cost, perhaps, $20,000, with land adjacent for future expansion, and a well selected library of 10,000 volumes, there would certainly be from the start a very useful work done, and the future would doubtless build further on the foundations thus laid.

We have confidence that before very long the enterprise and public spirit of the citizens of the Eastern District will bring this thing to pass.

THE LIBRARY AND THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

At a recent meeting of our Board, an important resolution was adopted, appointing a Special Committee to confer with the Committee on Libraries of the Board of Education, and giving them power to conclude an arrangement by which the use of the Library and its Branches should be given to the Teachers of the Public Schools, and, under their supervision, to some of the more advanced pupils, for one year, for the sum of $3,000.

The experiment proposed is, it will be observed, merely a tentative one. If, at the end of a year, it is not found to work to the mutual satisfaction of the two Institutions, it can be discontinued.

As the number of teachers in the Public Schools is about 1,600, and the number of pupils in the Central Grammar School, alone, about 500, of the average age of seventeen, it will be seen that we are entering on a large field, and that the expense for additional copies of books, additional employees, etc., may prove onerous to the Library; but the probable advantages to the whole city are so great that we should not look at the subject in a niggardly or timorous spirit.

The education of our teachers ought not to stop when they graduate from the Central Grammar School. They must keep on learning in order to teach with the best results. The total expenditure by the city on its Public Schools is over $1,300,000 yearly. How insignificant, in comparison, appears the expenditure of $3,000 for the use of a Library of 84,000 volumes, and yet, how greatly it will probably add to the value of all the rest of the expenditure! The mechanic who has the best outfit of tools will do the best work. Books are the teacher's tools, and a collection like ours, intelligently used, will be of great value to the teachers, and, through them, to their 65,000 pupils.

MR. JAMES H. FROTHINGHAM,
AT THE
FUNERAL SERVICE OF STEPHEN B. NOYES,
MARCH 15, 1885.

It is permitted to few of us to hold any considerable place in the service of our fellow men or to contribute largely to the advancement of the community in which our lot is cast. To some the opportunity is wanting, to others the suitable gifts, to others the willing mind. Immersed in the whirl of the great cities, engrossed in the bewildering competitions of business and in the pursuit of livelihood or of riches, we are fortunate in uneventful lives, and happy if we preserve kindly and just relations with those around us to the end. It was a singular chance, therefore, that led the young Harvard graduate of thirty years ago to a congenial task in the service of a newly-organized library in our city, for in that task there lay for him opportunity,—he had inherited from a scholarly parentage the sufficient gifts—and never, surely, was there brought to any service a more willing mind. The service thus begun enlarged as time went on and became a life-work, and in that life-work, faithfully and lovingly done, Stephen Buttrick Noyes became a man widely known and universally esteemed, an authority in his chosen profession, a power in the intellectual life of this community and a benefactor to us all.

Mr. Noyes clearly perceived that in the young library to which he had come was the germ of a great institution, one that should become a prominent factor in the educational work of the growing city, and to realize this idea he gave himself unreservedly for twenty-seven years, counting, as he always did, the brief period passed in the Congressional Library at Washington as but preparation in a larger field for his work here. He lived to see the idea and the hope of his youth an accomplished reality, and to enjoy, with infinite modesty, the praises and thanks of many men, far and near.

To his mind every great library was as a seat of learning, to which all should freely resort, whether old or young, whether wise or unlettered, and from which all should be able to draw wisdom according to their several needs and capacities; and the difficult problem he at last set himself to solve was how best to convert the great collections of books here and elsewhere—those treasuries of the garnered wisdom of all times—into present, vital force, available to all; how to unlock the doors and to bring the precious books off from dusty shelves and into the active use of living men waiting to be enlightened and helped.

And so, after years of labor and of thought, and when the library had grown large and comprehensive enough to serve his purpose, he produced a catalogue of the books about him—a catalogue soon famous—a marvel of comprehensiveness, of accuracy and of utility, a key to the books of his own collection and almost equally so to every collection of good books in America, a book which for years to come will remain a boon to every student in the land.

Mr. Noyes was a man in many ways remarkably equipped for his work—a man in whom a rare combination of admirable qualities served to attract everyone, and permitted close scholarly pursuits to go on side by side with the most varied and incessant helping of other people in their work. His patience and good nature were inexhaustible; his kindly ways permitted the simple, bashful child to come to him as unrestrainedly as the trained scholar; he laid down his pen and lent a willing ear to one as readily as to the other, and so happily ordered was the varied information of his mind that to every comer he seemed at once at home, and as it were freshly read in the topic latest brought to his attention. He grudged no labor or trouble that might help another; he was always ready with helpful suggestion; he manifested no vanity or self-consciousness, for those things were not in him, and so he grew into the pleasantest and most satisfying relations with hundreds of personal friends in every walk of life, and with hundreds besides who always thought of him and will always remember him as a friend. In the selection of books his views were broad and catholic. His tastes were absolutely pure and clean. Regarding every volume as a distinct personality, with influence for good or evil, he was still a mild and unprejudiced censor, but always a virtuous one. So there grew up around him a noble collection of good books; so there went on around him a constantly increasing industry of studious men and women and youth; so step by step the institution which he animated reached out its agencies over the whole city, and made its influence felt and honored on every side. In the midst of such congenial surroundings, animated by high aims and encouraged by their gradual fruition, Mr. Noyes passed his tranquil life and achieved his useful work. Others will succeed him, and the work will go on, but all must build upon the broad foundations he has laid.

It seemed fitting at this sad time, when all are oppressed with the sense of a great loss, that some one should speak on behalf of those who have been associated with Mr. Noyes in his life work, who have always loved him for his goodness and his faithfulness, but who more than ever, in this parting hour, realize that theirs have been but the helping hands, and his the inspiring mind. Hence these gladly uttered but insufficient words. His work will long survive in the richer and better lives of thousands, and the library he created will remain a monument to his useful life when we, his friends, shall have ceased from remembering and from being remembered.

TWENTY-NINTH ANNUAL MEETING.

The Twenty-ninth Annual Meeting of the Brooklyn Library was held in the Ladies' Reading-room of the Library on Thursday evening, March 31st, 1887, the President, Gen. Alfred C. Barnes, in the chair, and Mr. James L. Morgan, Jr., acting as Secretary.

The Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

The Treasurer, Mr. James L. Morgan, Jr., then read his report, which was, on motion, accepted.

The President then read the Twenty-ninth Annual Report of the Board of Directors, which was adopted, and 1,500 copies ordered printed.

REV. DR. J. GLENTWORTH BUTLER then spoke briefly and in substance as follows :

It would be well if the intelligent citizens of Brooklyn more generally understood and appreciated this Institution, which has grown in a few years, under wise, generous, fostering care, to such grand proportions, and is so admirably equipped for great and increasing usefulness. Externally, the building is an architectural honor to the city, while its internal arrangements are adjusted on a liberal scale to each of the varied needs for which it provides. For the number of its volumes, the Library itself is not surpassed by any other in the high quality of its standard material in every department of study—Biblical, scientific, historical, literary and geographical. This result has been mainly attained through the eminent ability and special qualifications of the late Mr. Stephen B. Noyes, the widely-known Librarian of many years. The admirable working methods, originated by Mr. Noyes, and embodied by him in the manifold details connected with the classification, arrangement, and distribution of the books, have now been wrought into a well-nigh perfect system. And this orderly, smoothly-working system, aided by the incomparable catalogue, the almost life-labor of love of Mr. Noyes, with its subsequent serial appendices, and seconded by the courteous, ready service of intelligent, sympathetic Librarians and helpers, meets every expressed need and desire of visitor or frequenter pleasantly and effectively. These simple outline facts touching our Brooklyn Library seem fully to justify the aim of its Board of Directors to secure at as early a period as practicable a more adequate endowment, to the end that it may do a wider and more productive work. And these facts suffice to show that no other kindred interest in this City of Institutions, Literary and Beneficent, deserves a higher place in the estimate of our citizens, or calls for more generous donations to expand its already wide helpfulness. A word respecting what is known as the Free Library project. It would certainly seem that the real utilities of the scheme as proposed, may far more wisely be embodied in this existing institution, with its immense outlay in buildings, books and material already paid for, and with its established permanence, its judicious management and sufficient safeguards, than to expend a million or more in a new erection of structures and creation of trusts. Assuredly the income of one-half, or even of one-quarter, the amount necessary for ground, building and books alone, here judiciously appropriated to the free use of persons of every age and occupation, who might desire the help of Library or Reading-room in broadening their views or increasing mental culture in any direction of study, must yield the widest, best attainable results.

REV. DR JESSE B. THOMAS said : I have been for more than twenty years a grateful recipient of the benefits of this Library, as well as an observer of its growth and work. It has often been remarked that Brooklyn is not so richly endowed in the matter of libraries as many other of our cities, as Baltimore, for instance, with her Peabody, Maryland, Johns Hopkins, and now her magnificent Enoch Pratt Foundation. This is, perhaps, the less explicable when we remember that Brooklyn is pre-eminently a domestic and leisurely city, and ought to be correspondingly studious and literary. It is, however, a considerable advantage, so far, that there has been no division of interest among competing institutions, and that this institution has been so prudently located at the nucleus of lines of railroad, and so wisely and comprehensively planned for future expansion, both in itself and through its out-stations.

The mention of Mr. Beecher's name in the Report, recalls the suggestion that had arisen in my own mind before noticing the remarks of Rev. Dr. C. H. Hall, tending in the same direction—that Mr. Beecher would have been far more pleased with a living and fruitful monument than a dead one, however beautiful. Instead of attempting the enormously expensive and divisive expedient of founding a new library, however, I had hoped, and still hope for a generous movement to enlarge the resources and sphere of this institution, enabling its directors to extend its privileges to the verge of freedom, if not to absolute freedom itself. Then let a bust, in snow-white marble, from the vestibule greet every visitor, and connect his memory in a perpetual benediction with the work of elevation and enlightenment to which in life he so much contributed. Let the bronze statue look upon the drifting multitude without, but the purer and more fitting face look on the more earnest group within.

Allusion has been made to the unique and incomparable catalogue prepared under the care of the late Mr. Noyes. It deserves all the praise that has been given it. I would add, that the modest, alert, intelligent co-operation of the Librarian and his assistants makes it an easy and pleasurable thing to find whatever the shelves contain, and render the Library itself an inviting place of intellectual resort.

TWENTY-NINTH ANNUAL REPORT

BROOKLYN LIBRARY.

---

To the Members of the Brooklyn Library :

Before entering upon the details of our year's work, the Directors desire to congratulate the members upon a slight but perceptible improvement in the business done, and the interest felt, in this important institution.

Against many disadvantages, and the flood of cheap literature, which tempts readers, whose tastes are not especially elevated, to purchase rather than subscribe, the Library holds its own, and makes some headway. This is largely owing to the judicious use made of the very moderate income, and to the general faithfulness of the Library Staff, headed by the Acting Librarian, Mr. Bardwell, who has carried on with signal ability the executive portion of the duties of his lamented predecessor, Mr. Noyes. His assistants, all of whom deserve kindly mention, are as follows: Mr. C. A. Horn, first assistant, Mr. J. D. Crichton, Misses E. G. Van Ingen, F. S. Bostwick, L. F. Tweedy, S. A. Beatty, F. S. Beale, M. M. Wylie, and Misses I. L. Brown and G. E. Gilbert, late of Columbia College Library, in charge of the new Card Catalogue.

CIRCULATION.

The circulation of books for home reading during the year ending December 31, 1886, has been, as compared with 1885:

	1885. Volumes.	1886. Volumes.
First Quarter.....	32,043	32,018
Second Quarter.....	27,849	29,315
Third Quarter.....	20,890	21,179
Fourth Quarter.....	28,311	29,640
Total for the year.....	109,093	112,152

These figures show a gain of 3,059 over the preceding year.

The Book Delivery and Reference Departments were closed as in 1885 during the months of July and August at 6:30 P. M., effecting a saving in gas, and without serious inconvenience to subscribers as far as ascertained.

The largest number of volumes circulated on any day during the year was 684, on January 23d ; the smallest, 152, on August 14th. Average number of books taken out by each member was  $33\frac{1}{2}$ .

THE REFERENCE DEPARTMENT

contains 1,100 volumes. Estimated number of volumes consulted, 75,000 ; an average of 78 times for each volume.

It is expected that the Department of Newspaper-clippings will be more thoroughly classified and arranged during the coming year, so that it will be more convenient for reference than heretofore.

READING ROOM.

During the year the attendance in the Reading Room has been from 90,000 to 100,000. The rooms have been open every Sunday afternoon, excepting in July and August. Total number of visitors for 43 Sundays was 4,335, against 4,154 for the previous year. Largest attendance, March 21st, 137 ; smallest, December 5th (a snow-storm), was 55 ; average (on Sunday), 100.

BOOKS.

DONATIONS.

The Library has received during the year from 276 donors, 1,969 volumes, 871 pamphlets, and 1,972 numbers of magazines, etc. Some of the important donations are :

From the Department of the Interior at Washington, in addition to the regular publications for the year, 125 volumes of Senate, House and miscellaneous documents, such as were needed to complete our sets.

From the Union for Christian Work, Brooklyn, 868 volumes, chiefly Government reports and documents.

From Mr. Moncure D. Conway, 75 volumes.

" Mr. William A. White, 100 volumes, and about 400 volumes standard music, operas, etc.

From Mrs. J. B. Thompson, 94 volumes.

" Mr. Moses King, 49 volumes.

" Mr. John B. Noyes, 43 volumes.

" Mr. Chas. A. Denny, for the estate of Mr. Asa

Bigelow, 14 volumes New York City Directories, of various dates, the latest being 1841 ; a valuable collection.

From the Brooklyn Eagle, Union and Times, bound volumes of their papers for 1886.

From Hon. Darwin R. James, 19 volumes, including Tenth Census, and other valuable documents.

From Miss A. V. Lott, 12 volumes.

“ Gen. A. C. Barnes, 27 bound volumes of reviews and periodicals, some of which were very valuable in the completion of sets.

From Mr. Chester P. Dewey, 27 volumes.

“ “ Archibald Kennedy, 75 volumes.

“ “ H. Allen Smith, 20 volumes.

“ Mrs. Mary Low Huntington, 71 volumes, including many theological works.

Since the last report the following deaths among Life and Permanent members have been recorded. Life Members: — Nathan Southwick, Nathaniel Putnam, James McChesney, William P. Libby, Thomas Webster, Archibald Baxter, Rev. R. W. Clark, Miss Sarah A. Duryea. Permanent Membership:—James F. Whitney, Thomas T. Buckley, a member of the Board of Trustees of the Library.*

---

*In Mr. Buckley's death the Library loses one of its earliest, most constant and most devoted friends. He was, with obvious propriety, named as one of its original Board of Trustees, over which body he presided for many years, only relinquishing his duties from the failure of his health.

Much that is of permanent excellence in the foundation of our institution is due to his judgment and active aid, whilst his personal kindliness endeared him in an exceptional degree to all who from year to year were here associated with him.

Also the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, who was an honorary member.

Twelve new certificates of Life Membership have been issued, four of which were in place of two Permanent certificates surrendered.

DRUG STORE DELIVERIES.

Circulation through nine deliveries has been 5,536, against 6,301 for the previous year; a decrease of 765. Two of these deliveries have been discontinued, there seeming to be insufficient demand for them, owing partly to their being located near other branches which could easily accommodate the business without their aid. A weekly delivery is now established at the Post Office in Bay Ridge, for the accommodation of the residents of that section.

CLASSES.

Classes have been held, in French under Prof. L. J. Simonin and Prof. F. Berger; Spanish under Prof. J. Ramirez; Phonography, under Prof. T. J. Ellinwood, and German under Prof. Wm. A. Stamm. Net income, $489.66, a gain of $79.13 over the year previous.

FINANCIAL SITUATION.

In addition to the cash expenditure during the year, amounting, as per the Treasurer's Report, to $21,710.17, there has been an increase in our indebtedness, for books and other purposes, amounting to about $1,350, which should be added to the cash expenditure in order to obtain the correct financial history of the year's business. The following is a correct summary :

EXPENSES.

Books, Periodicals and Binding .....	$7,023 23

Salaries .....	8,353 55
Printing, Stationery, Interest, etc ... ..	1,584 49

“ “ Donations .....	300 00
	$19,879 02
Deficiency for the year.....	$3,185 90

About one-half of this deficiency was owing to the cost of the new Card Catalogue, an expense we shall not have during the ensuing year. It is estimated that next year there will be a gain in income of $500, and that the deficiency will be about $1,100.

WEEKLY LISTS OF ADDITIONS.

Especial thanks are due the newspaper press of Brooklyn, for their constant kindness in publishing Weekly Lists of books added to our shelves. By this means the public have been kept informed of the works that were being put in circulation. These Weekly Lists of additions have been particularly useful in the absence of our Bulletins, usually published three times a year, but which have been discontinued since March 1886, pending the construction of the

CARD CATALOGUE.

This Catalogue comprises the additions to the Library since the publication of the printed Catalogue, and is a complete list, arranged under the three divisions of authors, titles and subjects, of all works added from that period to the present time. An important feature of the card catalogue is its elasticity—all books being catalogued as soon as received, and the cards therefor promptly incorporated, thus supplying a continuous catalogue, which is strictly alphabetical and complete to date—an impossibility under any other system of cataloguing.

NECESSITIES.

What the Library needs most of all is a further Endowment, which will render it independent of the cares and deprivations incident to the present enforced economy. Several efforts have been made to lift it from this embarrassment, and considerable sums have been donated at different times by our public-spirited citizens, but—the amount never having been sufficient to afford a liberal support, notwithstanding constant encroachment upon the capital—only to be followed by another appeal for help.

In the history of the Library there has never been a year without a deficiency, although from time to time these accumulated deficiencies have been wiped out by appeals to the public. If a Permanent Endowment Fund of sufficient size cannot be raised, we shall be forced again to ask the public-spirited citizens of Brooklyn for at least enough to meet the pressing wants of the next few years.

The quality and quantity of work done by the Library is, of course, most patent to those who have the management of its affairs, but certainly a good deal of it must be evident to all who enter the Library building.

As an educational institution we believe that during the past year its standard has been fully maintained and even advanced. Witness the large addition of books on such subjects as biography, travels, fine arts, encyclopædias, dictionaries, etc.

REFERENCE DEPARTMENT.

The consultation of over 75,000 volumes in our Reference Department amply demonstrates the exceeding usefulness of this growing feature of our Library. Such books as these we must buy, even if we have to borrow money to pay for them.

We have confidence that when the time comes for us to again appeal to the public, we shall be placed in a position to not only maintain, but also enlarge and extend, our work.

On behalf of the Board of Directors,

ALFRED C. BARNES,

President.

THIRTIETH ANNUAL MEETING.

---

The Thirtieth Annual Meeting of the Brooklyn Library was held in the Ladies' Reading-room of the Library on Thursday evening, March 29th, 1888, the President, Gen. Alfred C. Barnes, in the chair, and Mr. W. A. White acting as Secretary.

The Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

The Treasurer, Mr. James L. Morgan, Jr., read his report, which was, on motion, accepted.

The President then read the Thirtieth Annual Report of the Board of Directors, which was accepted, and 1,000 copies ordered printed.

The following letter from Mayor Alfred C. Chapin was then read :

MAYOR'S OFFICE, BROOKLYN, March 29, 1888.

ALFRED C. BARNES, President of the Brooklyn Library :

SIR : An imperative engagement elsewhere forces me to be absent from your interesting meeting. This is a cause of especial regret to me, as I take decided pleasure in hearing of the continued growth and expansion in usefulness of your admirable institution.

In a democracy such as ours it is important that every man should at least know how to read, and every one who can read is concerned that there should be libraries and that they should be made accessible to all. Until a comparatively recent date hardly any literature except that of the law had been comprehensively indexed, digested, codified or otherwise exhaustively analyzed. Of late, in different libraries great progress has been made in the laborious but most useful task of so mastering and arranging their resources as to make it practicable to easily guide the untrained mind to its object. The degree to which the contents of the Brooklyn Library have been systematized and made readily available has won for its competent custodians a high and deserved position in their profession. At the same time, they have placed the general community under strong obligations for the service which has thus been rendered. In two respects worth noting such work is most timely. It is timely in one respect, because the characteristic of this age is an immense enlargement of the field of physical knowledge. The stimulus that comes from the restless activity of popular government and the spread of democratic ideas has so called forth the inventive genius of man that the material progress of our era is a theme of unceasing wonder. As a consequence the details of daily life are bewilderingly varied and multiplied. We accept this condition of existence gladly, and sometimes even say boastfully that fifty years of Europe are better than a cycle of Cathay. But some substitute must be found for the tranquillity and simplicity of the ruder past. That substitute is method, organization. It rules in every department of thought or activity, and in the library makes that attractive and inviting which otherwise would be a discouraging wilderness of bound volumes.

The work of your officials is timely again in its connection with the growing inclination of men to voluntary co-operation. The very rapidity of development already referred to magnifies the mass and dwarfs the individual. It also brings each man in contact with his fellows in numerous relations. Civil liberty—that is, the adjustment of each citizen's place so that he may perform his duties and maintain his rights without undue friction—has become so intricate and involved a matter that earnest men are everywhere pushing forward to supplement Government in its efforts to solve the problem thus presented. Furthermore, the stress of competition has caused thoughtful men to recoil from and to seriously check the impetus of their own selfishness. We see, therefore, many species of organizations springing up to educate the citizen and to secure for him some absolute reliance apart from and outside of himself.

It is conceded, tacitly at least, that the growth of the stupendous apparatus of our highly wrought civilization, especially as exhibited in large cities, is marked by overwhelming vicissitudes whose effects the ordinary man can neither foresee nor escape. For these reasons men have come together for mutual support. They have learned that benevolence is a wiser selfishness than selfishness itself. Such organizations as the Young Men's Christian Association and many other benevolent, charitable or progressive associations of our city attest that part of the considerations just presented are appreciated by the liberal minds of Brooklyn. Such other organizations as the mutual benefit societies, which seek to adjust fortune's inequalities and to secure for each member the equivalent of average success, are proof that large numbers of men recognize their probable inability to cope singly and successfully with the perils common to us all.

While joining forces for other purposes we should surely combine to build up libraries and to make them of the fullest use. Since we cannot all either own every book or read everything that is printed, we must put our books together and employ skilled and patient agents to read, to collate and tabulate the collection. Because the effects of such work are necessarily diffused, appreciation of it may be less definite, but its value cannot be calculated.

You do not need to be reminded that your special field seems to be one of much promise. Here in Brooklyn we should try to preserve something of that philosophic temper which is content with moderation, something of that serenity of mind which is not easily drawn from the sure joys of home and the deeply rooted pleasures found in reading and study. Of all the passions, innate or acquired, love of study is most enduring and least consuming. When we contemplate such a life as that of George Ticknor, the wisdom of the advice given to him by Judge Prescott—"Always have ten years' work laid out before you if you wish to be happy;" his own wisdom in never failing to fulfill the injunction; his interest in the Boston Public Library; his death at four score, while still engrossed in the love of learning; or, when we contemplate among the living the historian Bancroft, devoted at more than four score to the studies begun so long ago, argument is not needed to demonstrate that no other allurements are as great, no other rewards are as certain and abiding as those found in the field of labor upon which you have so honorably entered.

No effort should be spared to bring your work to the knowledge and opportunity of every one. You have acted wisely in establishing branch offices for application and distribution. Brooklyn shows a constant tendency to grow upon its borders rather than to fill up or to grow by piling story upon story. This fact makes it especially desirable that such agencies as yours should reach out to its farthest limits if they can do so.

Again regretting that I cannot be with you, I am,

Very respectfully,

ALFRED C. CHAPIN.

The Rev. John W. Chadwick congratulated the Directors and friends of the Library on its general prosperity as shown by the report. "But how little of the good actually accomplished can be shown by such a report however carefully prepared? Think of the pleasure and the help involved in the use of 108,000 books by different individuals and families! I can judge a little by our experience, and I am glad of an opportunity to express my gratitude to an institution which has done more for me than all the other social institutions of our city. In Mr. Noyes I had a personal friend, and I often thought that as my friend, not merely as librarian ex-officio, he did many things for me. But I am now persuaded that he did nothing for me that he would not gladly have done for any patron of the Library. And while I can claim no special intimacy with Mr. Bardwell and his assistants, I find them all as ready to put themselves at my service as ever was the friend whose work has made our library well and honorably known all the world over."

"When I was in England a few months ago, no place in which I found myself gave me a more genuine thrill of satisfaction and delight than the great rotunda of the British Museum. What a magnificent array of books! And yet I was informed they only numbered 80,000, ten thousand less than we have here. Of course the 80,000 in full view in the rotunda are but a fraction of the whole amount in the museum. I only mean to indicate what a show we could make if we could have all our books spread out on one continuous surface instead of tucking them away in alcoves."

"The experience of free libraries is convincing that our usefulness would be more than doubled if we could reduce the subscription fee of the Brooklyn Library to one-half its present amount. I do not believe that the wealthy men of Brooklyn will long be able to resist the silent eloquence of such work as this library is doing, and the example of the Pratts of Brooklyn and Baltimore and other cities. We want the Brooklyn Library under its traditional control more liberally endowed, and I should think our millionaires would tread upon each other in their endeavor to be first in forwarding the happy day."

"We do not want a library under municipal control. We have enough civil officers already, our civil service not yet being securely on a business basis."

MR. RICHARD R. BOWKER, a prominent advocate of international copyright, next made some remarks, of which it is a matter of regret that we have no report. He stated that about $5,000,000 had been given in the United States during the past year for the establishment and support of libraries. Year by year the gifts for this purpose are increasing. Rich men's money is drifting more and more in this direction. A library has two relations: of joy and of service. The Brooklyn Library is reaching nearer and nearer to its final goal—a free library. But, meanwhile, it is fulfilling the relation of service.

In these days of haste and waste we hear a great deal of nervous prostration. This emphasizes the need of all of us for some solace such as books. The average of wages to each wage-earner in this country is $1.50 per day. This does not leave much margin for luxury. We ought to do all in our power to make life worth living to them. They need free libraries. The environments of common life should be made comfortable and pleasurable. The true gospel of labor is, as Powderly has said in his last letter, for workers to cease to strike at other people, and to educate themselves.

DR. E. P. THWING desired to express his indebtedness as a clergyman and physician, to this library and its most attentive attendants. It is an exhilarating thought to contemplate the opulence of a single stream like this, which flows, as Columbus said of the Orinoco, "not from an island, but from a continent," the vast domain of literature, enriched by the wealth of centuries. Literature is the immortality of speech. The brazen stylus of Thucydides, the quill of swan held by Xenophon and Plato's pen of gold are lost, but their recorded thoughts are imperishable. Professor Thwing wished to make two suggestions: the need of more definite instruction, for our youth particularly, as to the choice and use of books; how to utilize the fruits of reading for ready reference, the revival of the lost art of conversation, and how thereby to make one's public utterances as spontaneous in style as they are opulent in measure, meriting the encomium passed on Aaron by his Maker, "I know that he can speak well."

The other suggestion was that the Brooklyn Library should be a Free Library with as large endowments and as few restrictions as possible. Related so vitally to our domestic, educational and civic life it deserves, and should demand the most generous recognition of its claims.

THIRTIETH ANNUAL REPORT

BROOKLYN LIBRARY.

To the Members of the Brooklyn Library :

Our Institution has added yet another year to its long record of usefulness. Our patrons have carried home the usual variety of new and entertaining reading, and the alcoves have sheltered the studious learner amid an inexhaustible wealth of bound and indexed knowledge.

The contribution which has thus been made to the sum of human happiness and the advance of human intelligence cannot be recorded, and we must content ourselves with the more material statistics which the faithful Acting Librarian, Mr. Bardwell, has been able to gather, as follows :

CIRCULATION.

A comparison of the circulation of books for home reading, during the year ending December 31, 1887, with 1886, shows the following result :

	1886. Volumes.	1887. Volumes.
First Quarter.....	32,018	32,536
Second Quarter.....	29,315	27,628
Third Quarter.....	21,179	19,832
Fourth Quarter.....	29,640	28,715
	<hr/> 112,152	<hr/> 108,711

These figures show a decrease of 3,441 from the preceding year.

The Book Delivery and Reference Departments were closed as usual during the months of July and August at 6:30 P. M., effecting a saving in gas and relieving subscribers and the attendants from the heat caused by it at this season of the year.

The largest number of books circulated on any day during the year was 735, on February 19th; the smallest, 162, on July 2d. Average number of books taken out by each member was 33.

THE REFERENCE DEPARTMENT

Contains over 1,100 volumes. Estimated number of volumes consulted, 85,000; an average of 77 times for each volume. This department of the Library is especially popular, it being difficult at times to accommodate all who wish to use it. The Department of Newspaper Clippings is being gradually classified and prepared for use. The arrangement will be by subjects, and on very much the same plan as the printed and card catalogues. The Class of Individual Biography is now completed in 30 volumes, arranged alphabetically by subjects.

READING ROOM.

During the year the attendance has been estimated at 100,000. The rooms have been open every Sunday afternoon, excepting in July and August. Total number of visitors for 43 Sundays was 3,641, against 4,335 for the previous year. Largest attendance, December 11th, 122; smallest, January 1st, 1888, (a rain storm), was 42. Average (on Sunday) about 85.

Since the last report the following deaths among Life and Permanent Members have occurred: Life Members:—Cornelius R. Elwell, James How, Wm. B. Hunter, Herman Koop, Richard H. Manning, Joseph H. Marvin, David Moffat, Alex. Munn, Jr., James Spence. Permanent Members:—Alfred S. Barnes, Seymour L. Husted, Mrs. E. E. Lowber, Wm H. Mellen.

We regret to record, also, the very recent death of a Permanent member, long a patron of the Library, Mr. Henry E. Pierrepont.

No new certificates of Life Membership have been issued and but two Permanent Certificates, both of which were to replace others surrendered.

EASTERN DISTRICT BRANCH.

The number of readers visiting the room has been :

Ladies .....	4,250
Gentlemen.....	7,236
Total.....	11,486

The number of books circulated has been :

From its own shelves .....	5,216
From the main Library.....	2,013
Total .....	7,229
Year previous....	7,804

DRUG STORE DELIVERIES.

The number of volumes delivered at the seven other branches, exclusive of the Eastern District, was 5,996, against 5,536 for the previous year, an increase of 460. The weekly delivery at the Post Office in Bay Ridge is continued for the accommodation of residents in that locality. Applications have been made by subscribers for stations at points in Gowanus, East Brooklyn and Greenpoint. It is a matter of regret that our finances will not at present admit of any increased expense in this direction.

CLASSES.

Classes have been held in Phonography and Typewriting under Prof. T. J. Ellinwood; French, under Prof. L. J. Simonin and F. Berger; Italian under Prof. P. Cianelli; German under Prof. A. Dreyspring; and Spanish under Prof. R. D. Cortina. Net income, $454.46, a decrease of $35.20 from the year previous.

CARD CATALOGUE.

This catalogue, giving a complete list, by author, title and subject of all additions to the Library since the publication of the printed catalogue, is kept complete to date, cards being written and incorporated for the books added to the shelves from week to week. Its use by subscribers is becoming more general, only a slight acquaintance with it being requisite to demonstrate its usefulness in imparting information regarding the most recent additions on any and every subject.

GAS.

A comparison of the amount of gas used in 1886 and 1887, shows a decrease of 175,500 cubic feet during the past year, which, in connection with the reduction of price has effected a saving of $478.72, as compared with the previous year. Notwithstanding this economical result the quality of light throughout the building has been satisfactory.

WEEKLY LIST OF ADDITIONS.

We wish to express again our gratitude to the Brooklyn newspapers for their continued kindness in publishing weekly lists of books added to our shelves. Only one bulletin, and this a selection of some 2,000 titles out of 7,600 added since the last printed bulletin, has been published by the Library during the year, so that the public have depended largely on the lists printed in the papers for information regarding new accessions. The Library is often mentioned in the public journals of Brooklyn and New York, and always in a kindly and helpful spirit that deserves its best thanks.

BUILDING AND FIXTURES.

Since our last report four new stacks of shelving have been put up in the attic for the accommodation of the Government documents and unbound files of magazines, etc. More shelving is required and should be provided at an early date. The Reading Rooms have been newly painted, and in lighter colors than formerly, with greater powers of reflection, making the light much better, both day-time and evening. A covering of linoleum for the floors of the Library and Reading Rooms would add to the comfort of the members by decreasing the noise which is unavoidably made in walking on a hard surface. This should receive attention as soon as our finances will admit.

ESPECIAL WORK DONE.

Aside from the usual routine work of the Library, the following may be mentioned as accomplished: The U. S. Documents, and the various State Documents and Reports have been removed from the gallery, thoroughly revised and rearranged on the new shelves in the upper story, the duplicates put away, and a separate catalogue of documents, etc., corrected to date, has been made for the use of readers and Library officials. Several of the classes have been removed from the main floor to the gallery, to the space formerly occupied by documents—thus leaving room for growth and expansion of crowded classes below. The new manuscript Inventory of Fiction in 6 vols. has been completed, the books rearranged and renumbered and placed in their new order on the shelves. By the new system of compiling, the authors' names are arranged in alphabetical order. Each author has a separate and distinguishing number, and all the works of each author are grouped under his name. Extra lists for references have been made of author-names and pseudonyms, and also of 4to and 24mo. vols.

The Pamphlets (of which a rough list was made last year) are now being carefully revised and additions incorporated. A new and complete catalogue written on slips is in progress. The arrangement is by subjects.

THE LIBRARY STAFF

Now consists of the following ladies and gentlemen, who have been untiring in their efforts and attendance :

Acting Librarian, W. A. Bardwell; First Assistant, Mr. J. D. Crichton; other assistants, Mr. J. B. Latta and Misses E. G. Van Ingen, F. S. Bostwick, L. F. Tweedy, S. A. Beatty, F. S. Beale, M. M. Wylie; and Miss G. E. Gilbert, late of Columbia College Library, in charge of the new Card Catalogue and Department of Newspaper Clippings.

FINANCIAL SITUATION.

"Economy" has been the motto of the Directors, and earnest endeavors have been made by them to restrict their expenditures to the amount of the income of the Library, but the great increase and variation which has taken place during the past five years, in the literary work accomplished within the Library by its members, and the extended demands of its readers of general literature, have both combined to render it impossible for the Board to curtail its disbursements without injuring the efficiency of the Institution. Each year the Directors have believed that the benefits offered by the Library would result in an augmented income, following an increase in the number of subscribers, but their labors appear not to have been appreciated, as the amount of initiation fees and annual dues, received during the past fiscal year, is $330.42 less than the corresponding receipts for the preceding year, and the income from all sources has been reduced $569.81.

Following a plan of rigid economy the expenditures have been lessened $1,542.98 during the same period, but the purchase of new books has been but little curtailed, being $3,176.08 for the year ending March 1st, 1888, and $3,537.61 for the preceding year.

The floating debt last year was about $1,650. The Treasurer reports now the amount at $3,353.37, contained in the following items :

Books.....	$1,744 39
Periodicals.....	498 35
Gas.....	806 72
Sundries.....	303 91
	<hr/>	$3,353 37

During the past five years the Library has borrowed upon its own credit various amounts, beginning with $2,000, and now amounting to $6,000. A portion of this indebtedness is represented by the payment of a temporary loan, amounting to $1,000, during the year 1887 ; but the whole amount may be accounted for by reference to the provisions made by the Directors to meet the continued and repeated demands upon the Library by its members.

NECESSITIES.

The Library needs, in order to prosecute its work satisfactorily, a larger membership. As in any business, a certain amount of patronage is required to cover running expenses, anything beyond that resulting in a profit ; so with a Library, the fund received from a given number of subscribers is requisite for actual cost of maintenance ; all receipts beyond this point can be used for the purchase of books. Were our membership 1,000 more than it is to-day, which seems possible in so large a city as Brooklyn, the expenses would be very little more than at present, and nearly all of the $5,000 of additional income could be invested in new books. Members who induce their friends to join can have the satisfaction of knowing that every dollar they bring in goes to increase the number of volumes for circulation.

To citizens of Brooklyn possessing large means, and to those who favor Free Public Libraries, we would say that were our permanent Endowment Fund large enough to admit of the expense, we should be ready and glad to take a step in that direction by reducing the price of annual subscription to $3, or as much less than that amount as our income would permit.

REMARKS.

From the foregoing resumé it is apparent that the patronage of the Library has waned somewhat. This is attributable partly to the flood of indiscriminate cheap literature, which continues to devastate the land, and partly to the establishment of several new free libraries for popular use.

There is good reason to hope that the wholesale reprinting, not of the best, but of the most trivial productions of foreign authors, will be checked by the passage of the international copyright bill now pending before Congress. Certain eyes that were blinded by self-interest are now opened by the same agency to the fact that American literary dishonesty in past years has brought its inevitable retribution in crippled home talent and a vitiated taste in reading. It is a pleasant announcement that all classes of persons, interested either from patriotic or business motives, have at last united upon a practical measure of reform.

We must speak in a different spirit of our new coadjutors, the Free Libraries. The city is to be congratulated on their advent, and the older Institution cordially welcomes their service to aid and supplement its own. The more Libraries, the more readers. In such a benevolent competition each must rejoice in the success of the other. Possibly some plan may be devised for an interchange of facilities or even a combination of resources, and thus the work can be done on the largest scale by the most popular method. Many of the friends of the Brooklyn Library have long desired to see it placed on a free foundation. The problem of Endowment must first be solved. Meanwhile the miserable limitations of finance alone are likely to bound our powers. A determined effort is needed to exorcise this imp of an annual deficit, which comes regularly at this season to stare us in the face. Fortunately the real estate owned by the Corporation is developing a somewhat greater earning capacity, and it is believed that several rooms in the building itself may be rented to advantage. For the rest, we recommend the most rigid economy in all matters which do not affect the reasonable duty of the Library to the community.

Without further expostulation, the guardians of this well-stored treasury of wisdom will continue to do whatever their means may permit in preserving and recruiting their charge, holding this great collection in all affection and reverence, for truly "Books are the legacies that genius leaves to mankind, to be delivered down from generation to generation as presents to the posterity of those who are yet unborn."

Respectfully submitted,

ALFRED C. BARNES,

President.

THIRTY-FIRST ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE
BROOKLYN LIBRARY.

To the Members of the Brooklyn Library:

From year to year the steady record of usefulness realized by this Institution has to be repeated. There are few salient or novel features to emphasize. The value of the work consists in its untiring continuity and the impressions made upon the hearts and minds of thousands, thus contributing to the information, the refinement, and the moral elevation of the community which it is our honor to serve.

The following details are contributed by Mr. Bardwell, who has for faithful and efficient service been promoted to the full rank of Librarian.

CIRCULATION.

The number of books issued for home reading during 1888 as compared with 1887, is as follows:

	1887. Volumes.	1888. Volumes.
First Quarter.....	32,536	31,548
Second Quarter.....	27,628	26,675
Third Quarter.....	19,832	19,320
Fourth Quarter.....	28,715	27,054
	<hr/> 108,711	<hr/> 104,597

This comparison shows a decrease of 4,114 volumes from 1887. The Book Delivery and Reference Departments of the Library were closed as usual during July and August at 6:30 P. M.

The largest number of books circulated in any one day during the year was 706, on January 14, 1888; the smallest, 31, on March 12th, the day of the Blizzard.

The average number of books issued to each member was 33.

THE REFERENCE DEPARTMENT

is increasing in popularity, its use during the past year having been greater than ever before; the convenient arrangement of so large a number of books of reference making it a favorite resort for study and research.

NEWSPAPER CLIPPINGS.

The Scrap or Newspaper clipping collection is in process of development. This department is designed to contain extracts relating to various topics of interest, and the material thus acquired will be arranged under subject headings according to the system used in the printed catalogue. The collection at present comprises 33 volumes.

Other volumes on topics relating to the history of Brooklyn, New York, etc., are in course of preparation.

READING ROOM.

The attendance during the year has been fully up to that of former years, and is estimated to be over 100,000. The Ladies' Reading Room has recently been rented to the Brooklyn Incandescent Electric Light Company, by which arrangement the income of the Library will be materially increased. The room has always been rather more ornamental than useful, having been used not so much for a reading as for a waiting-room, for which purpose it has, undoubtedly, been a convenience. It is hoped, however, that the loss of this room will not be seriously felt by our members, and that any inconvenience experienced may be more than atoned for by the contemplation of the large number of new books that can be bought with the sum received from its rental.

The substitution of the incandescent electric light for gas in the Reading Room gives very general satisfaction. The increased quantity of light and the improved ventilation must be evident to all who use the room.

Sunday attendance in the Reading Room shows a slight increase over 1887, the record showing a total of 3,783 visitors for the forty-three Sundays on which the rooms were open, against 3,641 for the previous year. It should, perhaps, be more generally understood that on Sundays the use of the Reading Room is not, as on week days, restricted to members of the Library, but is open to all who choose to visit it, the hours during which it is open being from 2 to 6 o'clock P. M., and on all Sundays, excepting those of July and August. The largest attendance on any Sunday in 1888 was 117, on March 25th; the smallest, 30, on September 2d. Average Sunday attendance, 88.

The number of books added by purchase during the year is 2,344 against 2,975 in 1887-8. While the number of volumes bought is less than in some former reports, owing to the limited fund for this purpose, improvement in the quality of the additions has been kept constantly in view by buying the best books of the day, leaving out some of less acknowledged merit.

Books are frequently purchased, when no good reason for their exclusion exists, at the suggestion of subscribers.

No new certificates of Life Membership have been issued ; ten Permanent Certificates have been issued, but all of them in place of others surrendered.

EASTERN DISTRICT BRANCH.

The number of visitors using the room has been :

Ladies.....	3,839
Gentlemen .....	7,589
Total .....	11,428
Against 1887.....	11,486

The number of books circulated has been :

From its own shelves.....	5,160
From the Main Library....	1,868
Total.....	7,028
Year previous.....	7,229

DISTRICT DELIVERIES.

The number of volumes delivered at the eight branch stations, exclusive of the Eastern District and including the Bay Ridge Station, was 5,330, against 5,996 for 1887, a decrease of 666.

CLASSES.

Instruction has been given in Phonography and Typewriting by Prof. T. J. Ellinwood; French by Prof. L. J. Simonin; German by Prof. F. Wilmowsky; Spanish by Prof. R. D. Cortina, and Italian by Prof. Giulio Dalumi. Net income, $541.96, an increase of $87.50 over the previous year.

From Phonography Classes.....	$339.96
“ French “ .....	107.00
“ German “ .....	35.00
“ Spanish “ .....	45.00
“ Italian “ .....	15.00

BULLETIN AND CARD CATALOGUE.

One bulletin of additions has been published during the year. This was issued on December 1st and comprised about 2,000 titles out of the 3,301 volumes added. The list is complete as regards works of fiction, with a selection from other classes. All additions are catalogued and the entries incorporated from week to week in the card catalogue under author, title, and subject.

WEEKLY LISTS OF ADDITIONS

have also been posted in the Delivery Room, and published in the Brooklyn newspapers, whose kindness to the Library has been constant and unwearied, and to whom we desire to express our grateful acknowledgments.

GAS, BUILDING AND FIXTURES.

No special improvements have been made during the year, with the exception of the introduction of the Electric Light in the Reading Room in place of gas, as before mentioned. The amount of gas consumed shows a decrease of 20,928 cubic feet in consumption, owing principally to the use of electric light for several weeks in place of gas, as stated. The total cost for lighting shows a decrease in cost of $22.82 as compared with last year.

More shelving should be provided at an early day, as some classes of books are becoming crowded and need additional room.

ESPECIAL WORK DONE.

Aside from the usual routine work of the Library the following items may be mentioned as having been accomplished during the year.

1. A slip-list of pamphlets in the Library, arranged by subjects, has been completed and is now ready for the use of readers; and an author-list of the same with cross references, has been added. This index will serve as a key to the pamphlets, which will be found useful in conjunction with the newspaper clippings, in supplementing the information contained in the bound volumes of the Library.

2. A new and revised inventory has been made of works in foreign languages in the Library (exclusive of German works). The arrangement is by authors' names, but to prevent confusion, the old shelf arrangement and numbering are retained.

3. The periodicals, newspapers, state publications and public documents kept in the stock room are being thoroughly re-arranged and shelved so as to economize space as much as possible: and a separate manuscript list of these books and periodicals is being prepared.

FINANCES.

In reference to the financial position of the Association the statements of the respective Treasurers of the Boards of Trustees and Directors will furnish all needed information. It is worthy of mention that during the past year, by careful management and strict economy, the usual annual deficiency has been avoided; a comparison of the receipts and expenditures for the year giving the following results:

Actual receipts for the year.....	$19,380.20
Actual expenses for the year.....	19,256.84

Showing balance on creditor side of account for year..... $123.36

In place of this satisfactory state of finances, a similar comparison of receipts and expenses for 1887-8 showed a deficiency of $952.23.

THE LIBRARY STAFF

now consists of the following ladies and gentlemen, who have been untiring in their efforts and attendance:

Librarian, Mr. W. A. Bardwell; First Assistant, Mr. J. D. Crichton; other assistants, Mr. J. B. Latta and Misses E. G. Van Ingen, F. S. Bostwick, S. A. Beatty, L. F. Tweedy, F. S. Beale, E. M. Johnson and A. H. Greene.

ENDOWMENT.

This subject continues to receive the attention which it deserves, but as yet no practicable way has appeared to realize the very large sum necessary to place the Library on a purely benevolent basis. The income of about $7,000 from the invested funds of the Institution and about $11,000 from memberships is barely sufficient for the service of its 3,000 patrons.

In a city of 800,000 people, this seems a meagre achievement. Who will put us in a position to throw wide our doors to every comer? The Library might properly be an integral part of the system of public instruction, and as such should be liberally subsidized from public funds. The present management would willingly surrender its functions to any other properly constituted authority representing the people, and equipped with adequate powers and resources. Failing this, there is a great opportunity for one or more of the liberal friends of education in Brooklyn, by a surpassing exertion, to put the Library on a free foundation forever, and so earn the gratitude of future generations, and also relieve the Directors of any further necessity for making their annual complaint, of which they are becoming almost ashamed.

CONCLUSION.

We cannot better illustrate the educational value of a Library than by quoting the words of an old writer, Richard Aungervyle, who died A. D. 1345. "Let us consider," he wrote, "how a great commodity of doctrine exists in books, how easily, how secretly, how safely, they expose the nakedness of human ignorance, without putting it to shame. These are the masters who instruct us without rods or ferules, without hard words in anger, without clothes or money. If you approach them, they are not asleep; if investigating, you interrogate them, they conceal nothing; if you mistake them, they never grumble; if you are ignorant, they cannot laugh at you."

The Library is a university, and every good book a professor or a tutor. Each member is a student, pursuing with more or less energy and method an elective course. It is almost a duty for those who appreciate such advantages for themselves to induce their friends to join us. New members make a very advantageous investment for themselves, and at the same time greatly increase the general facilities. Pending the realization of the large hopes above expressed, the annual subscription fees are of the utmost importance, and we solicit the good citizens of Brooklyn to augment them largely. Each five dollar fee buys several books. The Librarian will welcome all visitors and patrons, and try to prove to them the sincerity of our purpose to make this Institution a potent factor in the welfare of our city.

Respectfully submitted,

ALFRED C. BARNES,

President.

Memorial Notice

OF THE

HON. SIMEON B. CHITTENDEN.

---

The late Hon. Simeon B. Chittenden was one of the organizers of the Brooklyn Library, then called the Mercantile Library, and throughout his life was one of its warmest friends and supporters. At a joint meeting of the Boards of Trustees and Directors of the institution held April 17th, to take formal action upon his death, the following minute was adopted:

Simeon Baldwin Chittenden, born in Guilford, Conn., March 29, 1814. Died in Brooklyn, N. Y., April 14, 1889.

The Trustees and Directors of the Brooklyn Library, convened upon the announcement of the death of Hon. Simeon B. Chittenden, desire to place upon their records an expression of their profound sorrow at an event which brings to themselves and to the community, to their institution and to all institutions of learning and of benevolence in our midst, an irreparable loss.

Among the many and tried friends of the Brooklyn Library Simeon Baldwin Chittenden has always stood pre-eminent. Through all the years of its existence he has been its constant, unfailing benefactor. In all the larger movements of its development he has given life to its purposes, alike by the wisdom of his counsels, the timeliness and ardor of his co-operation and the munificence of his gifts. No project for enlarging its usefulness or extending its influence has found him weary of the cause or indifferent to the future, and up to the close of life, and in the midst of great personal infirmity and suffering, he found time and the desire to plan for us still larger benefits. Whatever the Library is to-day, and it may attain hereafter, as an educational power in Brooklyn, rest upon the foundation of his enlightened generosity.

Holding him thus in affectionate and honored remembrance for his manifold goodness to this institution, we must equally honor him for kindred services in the community, wherein for more than a generation he has held a distinguished place. Throughout those years, eventful in the history of the city and in the life of the nation, he has continually and conspicuously illustrated with many sided public and private virtue the attributes of good citizenship. To every great movement of his time he has lent with untiring zeal the creative energy of his strong will, his lofty purpose, his exalted patriotism and his unstinting charity. His impress is known on every hand, his influence survives in enduring works, his memory will be cherished in the grateful hearts of his fellow citizens.

THE THIRTY-SECOND
ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE
BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE BROOKLYN LIBRARY.

PRESENTED MARCH 27, 1890.

To the Members of the Brooklyn Library :

The growth of the public Library in the United States is an interesting study. The very first of its kind is supposed to have been the one founded by Benjamin Franklin in 1732, and his example set a fashion which was quite widely followed. Nevertheless, at the beginning of the present century all the public Libraries of the country contained not more than fifty thousand volumes, one-third of them theological.

But the spirit of Franklin will never cease to move among this people. The sapling which he planted proved the parent stock of a forest of Libraries. One grows wherever there is a population to gather around it. One of the towering trees stands in Brooklyn, and the rustling leaves of 100,000 books proclaim its importance and usefulness.

The early growth of the public library system was slow. It took one hundred years from Franklin's foundation to get a good start, but for the last half century the progress made has been surprising. Every city, town and village has its collection of books, free to all, or accessible upon the payment of a small fee.

When a Library is established the primary object is usually to furnish reading matter for amusement and entertainment. The idea of instruction comes later, and soon the Library is recognized as an adjunct of the school, and, in many cases, it is supported by taxation as a part of the system of public education. Its privileges are shared by all classes, rich and poor alike. Hence, it is a purely democratic institution. A recent writer has said, "The influence of these centers of intelligence makes better citizens of our young people, enlarges the thought of the older ones, and enables many, no doubt, to bear the ills of life better, and affords entertainment for many an idle hour."

The Brooklyn Library tries to realize all this, and it is pleasant to record in our Annual Report that the good work in our own particular parish is done, as ever, with patience and success. In giving an account of their stewardship the Directors can say that every effort has been made to get the best results which limited means permit. The officers and assistants have faithfully discharged their duties. The following interesting statistics have been compiled by Librarian Bardwell.

BOOKS.

The number of volumes purchased during the past year was 2,260. The best books published during the year have been added, and in cases of very popular works, largely duplicated. Suggestions from subscribers regarding the purchase of works not in the Library are always gratefully received and usually acted upon. The additions of books during the year have been as follows :

CIRCULATION.

The following statement shows the book circulation during 1889 as compared with that of 1888.

	1888. Volumes.	1889. Volumes.
First Quarter.....	31,548	29,346
Second Quarter .....	26,675	24,695
Third Quarter .....	19,320	18,392
Fourth Quarter .....	27,054	26,569
	104,597	99,002

Since the first of May, 1889, the absence of any regular attendant at the Eastern District Branch, and the limited conveniences of the narrower quarters in which this station is now located, have undoubtedly diminished the number of books circulated in this part of the city. The largest number of books given out in one day was 737 on February 23; the smallest 62, on November 5 (Election Day). Average number of books drawn by each member,  $32\frac{1}{2}$ .

THE REFERENCE DEPARTMENT

continues to be a popular place of resort for students and readers, it being difficult, at times, to accommodate all who wish to use it. The use of the increases, although not much has been recently done towards developing the collection, owing to pressure of other work. During the year 13 volumes have been added ; viz., 5 in Individual and 2 in Collective Biography, 4 in Local History (Brooklyn), and 2 volumes on New York. The collection now comprises 46 volumes.

NEWSPAPER CLIPPINGS

READING ROOM.

The Sunday afternoon attendance aggregated 3,590 for 44 Sundays, the room not being opened on Sundays in July and August. Largest attendance on any Sunday was 114 on May 26th; smallest, 41, on September 1st. Average number of Sunday readers, 82. On week days there has been such a general disposition on the part of the non-subscribing public to make use of the room that it has been found judicious to station an attendant at the entrance in order to protect the rights and privileges of members by excluding those not belonging to the Library. The result of this experiment seems to be satisfactory, at least to subscribers, as many expressions of approval have testified.

MEMBERSHIP.

The receipts from membership during the year have been $10,704.89. The number of members on March 1, was as follows :

Annual Members (who have paid to March 1, 1890).....	1,789
Extra Annual Subscriptions, $3 (paid to March 1, 1890).....	339

Since the last report the following deaths of Life and Permanent Members have occurred: Life Members: Edward B. Mead, Henry M. Evans, Charles A. Robbins, Garret Bergen, J. Otis Averill, H. R. Pierson, W. S. Richardson. Permenent Members: E. B. Litchfield, Arthur W. Benson, Edmund W. Corlies.

Mr. Corlies, at the time of his death, was a Director of the Library, and had long been prominent and exceedingly useful in the management. In this place it is proper to record the following minute adopted by the joint Boards of Directors and Trustees.

At a joint meeting of the Trustees and Directors of the Brooklyn Library, convened on the morning of Saturday, February 8, 1890, in respect for their late associate, Mr. Edmund W. Corlies, deceased February 6, 1890, the following resolutions were adopted and ordered spread upon the minutes :

Resolved, That the Trustees and Directors of the BROOKLYN LIBRARY are called upon to record, in the death of the loss of an associate endeared to all of them by the strongest personal ties, and by years of common service in the creation and administration of this Institution.

Edmund Williams Corlies,

Through this long period of active life, nearly approaching the quarter of a century, the practical wisdom, which was so conspicuously his, the encouraging confidence and the willing generosity, alike natural to him, have never failed us. His part in the work of this Library, to which his sympathies cordially and constantly responded, has been a large one and cannot soon be forgotten. His name will be remembered and cherished with those of other true and upright men of his time, good citizens, strong in friendship, benevolent in purpose and faithful in all trusts, to whom this Institution and the community of Brooklyn owe so large a debt of gratitude.

Resolved, That a copy of the foregoing minute be conveyed to the family of Mr. Corlies for the expression of our profound sympathy in the great bereavement they have been called to sustain.

Two new certificates of Life Membership have been issued in place of one Permanent certificate surrendered.

THE EASTERN DISTRICT BRANCH.

was removed on May 1st to its present quarters at No. 397 Bedford avenue. In the absence of a regular attendant no statistics have been kept of the number of books given out or of the number of visitors. Probably 4,000 to 5,000 volumes have been issued, besides 1,648 volumes delivered at this station from the main library in Montague street.

The expenses of this Branch are embodied in the Treasurer's report, but separately the annual cost of its maintenance under the present arrangement may be stated as follows :

Rent of Room . . . . .	$200.00
Attendance . . . . .	144.00
Magazines . . . . .	103.03
Newspapers . . . . .	159.74
Sundries, Cleaning, etc. . . . .	11.75
Total . . . . .	$618.52

There has also been an expense for removing books, etc., from the former station to the present at No. 397 Bedford avenue, and to Montague street, of $49.77.

DISTRICT DELIVERIES.

The number of volumes delivered at eight branch stations, including the Bay Ridge station, was 6,207. The delivery at Bay Ridge has been, for the present, discontinued, owing to the small number of subscribers in this section.

CLASSES.

Instruction has been given in Phonography by Prof. T. J. Ellinwood : in French by Prof. L. T. Simonin ; in German by Prof. F. Wilnowsky ; and in Spanish by Prof. R. D. Cortina.

Net income $569.96, an increase of $28 over 1888.

From Phonography Classes . . . . .	$342.96
“ French “ . . . . .	96.00
“ German “ . . . . .	75.00
“ Spanish “ . . . . .	46.00
“ Italian “ . . . . .	10.00
Total . . . . .	$569.96

The formation of a class in the Italian language was attempted by Prof. C. L. Speranza, but the project was abandoned owing to lack of patronage.

BULLETIN AND CARD CATALOGUE.

The usual bulletin of about 2,000 titles selected from the 4,635 volumes received from various sources during the year, was published in December and was widely circulated throughout the city. All the works of fiction added are contained in this bulletin, and a selected list from other classes. All books added are entered in the card catalogue from week to week, under author, subject and title.

WEEKLY LISTS OF ADDITIONS

are displayed in various parts of the Library, and published in the Brooklyn newspapers, to whom we owe much for their unvarying kindness, and the helpful spirit always manifested by them towards the Library and its interests.

LECTURES.

An item pleasant to mention in the year's record is the course of lectures and readings by authors given last Autumn, under the direction of the Library, in the Academy of Music. Mr. Charles Dudley Warner's subject was "The Relation of Fiction to Life." Miss Amelia B. Edwards, LL.D., Secretary of the Egyptian Exploration Society, gave two illustrated lectures on the Antiquities of Egypt, which were enthusiastically received; and selections from their own works were read by Rev. Edward Eggleston, Robert Grant, E. L. Bynner, William Hamilton Gibson, F. Hopkinson Smith and Theodore Roosevelt, for the benefit of the International Copyright League. The lectures were a marked success, although the low price of admission asked precluded much profit. The reception to Miss Edwards, held in the Library on November 12th, at the close of her second lecture, with its accompaniments of music and flowers, was a very pleasant occasion, and gave many people an opportunity of meeting the distinguished writer and lecturer.

LIGHTS, BUILDING AND FIXTURES.

The expense of lighting the building during the year has been $1,182.44 against $1,416.20 for 1888, showing a decrease of $233.76, a favorable statement considering the almost incredible quantity of rain and dark weather consequent thereon, experienced. The electric light was introduced in the reading room and used for several months, but the current was uneven, and the light not very satisfactory. A contract for wiring the entire building has now been made with the Edison Company, and it is expected that a marked improvement in the quantity and quality of light will shortly be effected.

New shelving sufficient to accommodate 12,000 volumes was put up in the Library Hall last summer, which has given room for the expansion of several crowded classes of books. Most of this space has been utilized by shifting some of the smaller classes and extending the larger, leaving also some space for growth. New shelving has also been constructed in the upper gallery in a space seventy-five feet in length by ten feet in width, capable of holding about 30,000 volumes, if filled with books of average size. This shelving is, however, intended for the folded files of New York and Brooklyn newspapers, for which there will now be ample room, with space for many years of growth. This gallery has been lighted by means of seven ventilating sky-lights let into the roof, which supply plenty of light and air. The total expense of these permanent improvements was over $800, which has been paid out of current income.

ESPECIAL WORK DONE.

In addition to the usual routine work of the Library the following items have been accomplished during the year.

1. The collection of newspapers accumulated in the upper rooms has been transferred to new shelving in the upper front gallery, and re-arranged in alphabetical and chronological order.

2. Special lists have been made of the non-official publications of the U. S. Government, the debates of Congress, Congressional Globe and Record, and other reports.

3. An inventory of the documents of the various States, alphabetically arranged, has been made and bound up for reference. The volumes are shelved in the upper rooms in place of the newspapers transferred.

4. In the Scrap Department entries in the class of Individual Biography have been inserted up to date, and special volumes added on Beecher, Grant, Washington and Webster; also four volumes of the History of Brooklyn and two introductory to the History of New York.

5. The collection of periodicals and numbers of magazines kept in the upper rooms has been re-arranged and shelved, and an inventory of them is being prepared. This work will be continued during the summer.

6. A complete list, on slips, has been made of all maps in the Library. Maps not contained in books are shelved separately at the end of the pamphlet collection in the gallery. Those contained in volumes, such as publications of geographical societies, etc., are indicated by cross-references in the slip-catalogue.

FINANCES.

The statements of the Treasurers of the Trustees and Directors furnish all the details of income and payments during the year. A comparison of receipts and expenses gives the following result:

Actual receipts for the year.....	$19,916.03
Actual expenses for the year... ..	19,772.38
<hr/>
Showing a balance on right side of account of.....	$143.65

now consists of the following ladies and gentlemen: Librarian, Mr. W. A. Bardwell; First Assistant, Mr. James D. Crichton; other assistants, Mr. J. B. Latta and Misses E. G. Van Ingen, F. S. Bostwick, S. A. Beatty, L. F. Tweedy, E. M. Johnson, A. H. Greene and I. Hurley.

COPYRIGHT REFORM.

The progress toward International Copyright, which, when realized, will greatly benefit the Library, has been quite marked during the present session of Congress, and strong hopes are entertained of its early enactment. It is a matter of pride to the management that one of our own Directors, Mr. R. R. Bowker, has been one of the most persistent and successful public advocates of this reform. The evening of Authors' Readings, under the auspices of the Library, elsewhere referred to, was proposed and arranged by Mr. Bowker for the benefit of copyright reform; and resulted in a contribution of $400 to their treasury. The authors, the publishers and all the manufacturing interests which contribute to the production of books, now heartily favor International Copyright. This Library has long been in line upon the subject, as the reports of several successive years indicate; and now the Secretary of the American Copyright League has been polling the leading libraries of the country, addressing some three hundred in all, of whom two hundred have replied, endorsing the proposed law, and not one single unfavorable response has been received.

To recapitulate, then, the work of the year, there has been a net addition to our shelves of 2,301 volumes; there has been expended on additional shelving and alterations of the Library Building which are of the nature of permanent improvements, about $1,000; while the debt of the Library remains unchanged, at $11,000. The cash balance on hand shows a small increase, and the permanent funds in the hands of the Trustees have been increased by $5,000, the bequest of the late Hon. Simeon B. Chittenden, to whose intelligent benefactions the Library was already so greatly indebted. It has been thought expedient by the Trustees, and heartily concurred in by the Directors, to invest this bequest in building an extension, one story and basement in height, to our office building, No. 193. Montague street, on the west side of the Library Building. This extension will not be high enough to interfere with the light in our Reading Room. It is hoped that the rental of this extension, when completed, may add about $1,000 to the annual income of the Library.

The outlook for the future is, that during the ensuing year other outlays for permanent improvements will prevent any increase in the appropriation for book purchases. The wiring of the whole Library Building for the electric light, now being done by the Edison Company, will cost about $800. The alterations now being made in the large room on the first story front will also cost about $800, and the wooden columns in the Reading Room, which are showing signs of deterioration, under the increasing weight of books which they carry, must probably soon be replaced with iron columns. Altogether there is likely to be an unusual expenditure for permanent improvements, this year, of $3,000.

For 1891, however, the prospect is brighter, and we shall doubtless then be able to double our purchases of books, and bring them up nearer the proper standard for a city like ours. It is to be regretted, however, that this increase in our resources comes from an accidental improvement in rental values of the property owned by the Library on Montague street, and not from an increase in the receipts for membership, and that the people of Brooklyn are so unappreciative of the opportunities we offer them for educational improvement. While in the last twenty years the population of Brooklyn has doubled, and the number and value of books on our shelves, as well as our Catalogue and other facilities, have more than doubled, yet our membership remains stationary. It is pleasant to note, however, that in one department of the Library work there is a great increase, and that the use of books in the Library for study and reference is steadily and rapidly growing. It is believed that in average facilities for Library work the Brooklyn Library is fully equal to any in the country outside of Massachusetts.

To bring our opportunities for usefulness within the reach of the greater number, our next step forward ought to be a reduction in the charge of membership from $5 to $3. This, it is calculated, would nearly double the number of our annual members, but it would require the interest on a Fund of at least $100,000 to defray the necessary increase in our running expenses, and to buy the additional number of copies of books that would be required. To a city of the wealth and size of Brooklyn this ought not to seem a very large amount. In comparison with some calls made upon it it is certainly a very moderate one. We can guarantee the extreme usefulness of such an investment. Is it not better, in laying out what may be called the constructive work for the charities of the future, to build, so far as possible, on the foundations already laid in the past? A large unnecessary expense for duplication of plant is thus avoided, and the money begins to return a dividend of usefulness at once. When the reduction to an annual charge of $3 has been made, and its wisdom and usefulness have been demonstrated, additional benefactions may perhaps enable the Library to reduce the cost of membership further. Thus will this Institution move steadily forward with even and sure step, and grow in usefulness as it increases in size. Thus will it be an ever widening power for good in our community, and those who may contribute to its building up will have the satisfaction of knowing that the good they are doing will live after them.

Respectfully submitted,

ALFRED C. BARNES,

President.

BROOKLYN, March 13, 1890.

REPORT

OF THE

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

---

BROOKLYN, March 13, 1890.

The Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees of the Brooklyn Library, in accordance with the provisions of Section 1 of Article IV. of the By-Laws, respectfully reports as follows:

The office buildings owned by the Library have been kept in usual condition. In the second story of No. 201 Montague street a new radiator (for steam heat) was put in by Baker, Smith & Co. at contract price of $55.

In the middle basement room of Library Building, and also in the east basement room of same, the radiators were changed from near ceiling to near floor by contract with Baker, Smith & Co. for $81.16, thus making these rooms much more comfortable.

The statement of the Treasurer shows that the income from rents has increased somewhat during the past year, and a further considerable increase is expected after May 1st, when the room occupied during part of last year by the Incandescent Electric Light Co., which became insolvent, will be taken by the Royal Insurance Company, under a three years' lease. The alterations necessary to adapt the room for their use will cost about $800, and include cutting down the west window, and building a separate entrance to the room through the door thus made.

An advance in rental from 1st of May has also been obtained on the basement of No. 193 Montague street of $100, and on the first story of the same building of $600, the latter being in part for the use of part of an extension now under construction, one story and basement in height, about eighteen feet wide, and running nearly to end of lot. The cost of building this extension and putting in new window in front on first story, will be about $5,000.

It will be necessary before long to replace the wooden columns in the Reading Room on the first floor, and perhaps also on the second floor of the Library Building, with iron columns, as the wooden columns are splitting seriously under the steadily increasing load of books, and have been declared by the architect, Mr. William B. Tubby, to be scarcely safe. The roof of the Library Building will also require renewing within a year or two.

Otherwise the Library Building is in good condition.

The investment of the Trust Funds is without change during the year. At the suggestion of the son of the late Hon. S. B. Chittenden, it is proposed to invest the bequest from his father of $5,000 in the extension and alterations of the Office Building, No. 193 Montague street.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

For the Executive Committee,

WM. AUGUSTUS WHITE.

REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES OF THE CARY FUND.

---

BROOKLYN, FEBRUARY 28, 1890.

To the Board of Directors of the Brooklyn Library:

On behalf of the Trustees of the Cary Fund I beg to report for the information of the Board that the mortgage of $5,000 in which the principal of the Fund has been for some years invested, was recently paid, and that the principal itself remains at the present time, pending suitable reinvestment, on deposit in the Brooklyn Trust Company.

The income received during the current year, being interest on the mortgage, was $229.17 which, added to the balance previously unexpended, gave a total of $244.17 available for the purchase of books; of this sum an appropriation has been made of $205.63 for 81 volumes, carefully selected from Library purchases during the year, and paid over to the Treasurer of the Library, and there remains unexpended the sum of $38.54. The books in question it is understood have been duly marked and designated as gifts to the Library from the Cary Fund.

A vacancy in the Trustees occasioned by the death of Mr. Edmund W. Corlies has not been filled as yet.

Very respectfully,

JAS. H. FROTHINGHAM,
Trustee.

THE THIRTY-THIRD ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE BROOKLYN LIBRARY

PRESENTED MARCH 26, 1891.

---

To the Members of the Brooklyn Library:

You will be interested in a careful reading of the tabular statements and the detailed information furnished for this report by our Librarian, Mr. Willis A. Bardwell. They show that the year closing March 1, 1891, though marked by interruption to the regular work of the Library, has been a year of significant progress.

The building in which our large and choice collection of books is stored was needing extensive repairs. During many weeks of the year, workmen disturbed the quiet of our rooms and brought confusion to our usually well-ordered arrangements for the convenience of readers. Moreover, the extensive building operations on lots adjoining the Library, the unavoidable blocking of the street and the condition of the sidewalk were a hindrance to those who use our books. The Directors were solicitous lest these annoyances might temporarily decrease the membership and impair the usefulness of the Library. The records, however, show that the number of subscribers has been well sustained; that the circulation of books has not been diminished, and that the Reference Department of the Library has been used by a steadily increasing number of readers.

The President's last report announced that an unusual expenditure for permanent improvements must be made within a year. These improvements have been completed. The roof of our building has been renewed, the electric lighting has been extended and improved, iron columns have replaced the insecure wooden columns in our Reading Room, and extensive general repairs have been made. It had been assumed that appropriations for the purchase of books must be seriously reduced during the year in which the unusual expenses were to be incurred; but such appropriations have not been reduced. The number of books purchased, and the moneys expended for the increase of the Library, during the year 1890-91, are slightly in excess of corresponding figures for the previous year. Funds were provided for meeting extraordinary expenses by our increased revenue from the rentals of real estate owned by the Library. Our leases in force on the first of March, 1891, were yielding an excess of three thousand seven hundred and twenty dollars over the rentals of the same property for the preceding year. There will be yet further increase of income after the first of May.

Now that our plant is in excellent order, and our income is augmented, the Directors of the Library are planning to make important additions to our collection of books.

The following pages have been compiled by Mr. Bardwell from his records.

BOOKS.

The number of volumes added by purchase during the past year was 2,708. A large proportion of the best American and English books of the year have been bought, and duplicates of those most popular have been supplied according to the demand. The following table shows the additions of books since the last report :

READING ROOM.

The number of readers during the week has steadily increased. The attendance on Sunday afternoons was 2,789 for 39 Sundays, the room not being opened on Sundays in July and August, and being unavoidably closed for repairs on four Sundays in January. The average Sunday attendance was 71.5 ; largest, on March 23d and December 14th and 21st, 90 each day ; smallest, 38, on September 7th. The wooden pillars in the Reading Room having been pronounced inadequate to the support of the constantly increasing weight of books in the Library, have been removed and iron columns have been substituted, giving the room a lighter and more spacious appearance. The electric lighting of the room has been altered and greatly improved.

THE REFERENCE DEPARTMENT.

The use of reference books at the Library has been steadily increasing. The facilities afforded our members for direct access to the works of reference are exceptionally good, making the Reference Department a favorite resort for students and professional men.

NEWSPAPER CLIPPINGS.

This collection has been increased since our last report. Ten cases have been added, making 56 volumes in all. The usefulness of this part of the Reference Library has been sufficiently demonstrated to warrant its enlargement as time permits. Of the ten volumes added, three belong to the class of Biography; the remainder comprise an interesting collection of scraps relating to New York City and its environs.

CIRCULATION.

The circulation of books during 1890 as compared with 1889, has been as follows :

	1889. Volumes.	1890. Volumes.
First Quarter.....	29,346	28,431
Second Quarter.....	24,695	24,172
Third Quarter.....	18,392	16,974
Fourth Quarter...	26,569	25,455
	<hr/>	<hr/>
	99,002	95,032

The Eastern District Branch was closed on August 1st, probably causing a slight decrease in the number of books issued to readers in this part of the city. Books are now exchanged twice daily at the drug store of Livingston & Underwood, corner Bedford avenue and Taylor street, by messenger from the Library in Montague street. It should be noted that the summary of book-circulation would be largely increased were the number of books issued to readers in the Reference Department taken into account. The time of one person is largely occupied in supplying readers in this room, in some instances as many as 30 or 40 books being used by a single reader at one sitting.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT.

This section of the Library has been increased by the purchase of 300 additional volumes, which were mostly selected by Mr. Paul Tidden, while in Germany, last summer. Our collection of music now contains over 1,100 volumes, and there is a steady request for works in this class. The circulation of music, like ordinary books, which was tried as an experiment eight years ago, has proved a gratifying success.

MEMBERSHIP.

The receipts from annual membership during the year have been $10,205.58.

The number of members on March 1st was as follows :

Annual Members (who have paid their subscription to March 1, 1891).	1,636
Extra Annual Subscriptions at $3.00 (to March, 1891).....	385
Life Members, by payment of $100.....	531

<hr/>
Total Membership on March 1, 1891.....	2,872
Total Membership on March 1, 1890.....	2,992
<hr/>

Since the last report, the following deaths have occurred :
Life Members: D. V. Arguimbau, Isaac H. Frothingham, James A. Hewlett, John T. Kennady, Chauncey E. Low, J. N. B. Middleton, Ripley Ropes, Reuben W. Ropes, Rev. N. E. Smith, Mrs. Helen O. Wood. Permanent Members: D. B. Fayerweather, Henry P. Journeay, W. S. Woodward.

CLASSES.

The classes in modern languages were discontinued after June, 1890; the class rooms having been needed for office purposes. Classes in Phonography and Typewriting are still conducted as usual by Prof. T. J. Ellinwood.

Net income from classes during year, $408.96.

From Spanish Classes.....	$21.00
“ French “ .....	48.00
“ Phonography Classes.....	339.96
<hr/>

BULLETIN AND CARD CATALOGUE.

A bulletin of 2,000 titles selected from the year's purchases was published December 1st, and 10,000 copies were sent to our subscribers and to others throughout the city. A bulletin of the recently added musical works, was also printed in February, and widely distributed. The Card Catalogue is kept completed to date, all new acquisitions being catalogued at least once every week. The weekly lists of additions are posted in the Delivery Room and in the Reference Department, and are published in the local newspapers. To the papers of Brooklyn our acknowledgments are due for many favors received.

DISTRICT DELIVERIES

The number of volumes delivered during the year at eight branch stations was 5,877.

LECTURES.

A lecture was delivered, under the direction of the Library, on November 3d, by Mr. James Bryce, M. P.; subject, "An Age of Discontent." Mr. Bryce was welcomed by a large and appreciative audience. The only public address delivered by him during his visit to America was the one with which he favored the Brooklyn Library. A series of four lectures on "The Discovery of America," was given also for the Library, by Mr. John Fiske, of Cambridge, Mass., at the residence of Mr. Gordon L. Ford, 97 Clark street. Mr. Ford cordially offered the use of his elegant and commodious library for the delivery of the lectures. They were given on Saturday afternoons in February, at 4 o'clock, and were well attended.

LIGHTS, BUILDING AND FIXTURES.

The cost of lighting the building during the year has been $1,302.97, against $1,182.44 for 1889, an increase of $120.53.

The light is now furnished principally by the Edison Electric Company, the wiring having been placed in position in April and May, 1890. The light has been found satisfactory both in quality and quantity, and the location of the lamps in the Reading Room, and more especially in the alcoves of the Library, is exceedingly convenient.

The roof, skylight, window casings and iron shutters have been put in order and painted. Iron columns have been substituted for those of wood in the Reading Room. The Ladies' Reading Room, and the Class Room on the first floor of the building, have been altered and fitted up for office purposes, with separate entrance from the street.

ESPECIAL WORK.

In addition to the ordinary routine of the Library the following work has been done:

1. Special lists have been made of English Parliamentary documents and debates (Cobbett and Hansard); also of American newspapers (bound volumes). These lists are inventoried in the same volume with non-official United States documents.

2. The re-arrangement of unbound files of newspapers and periodicals on new shelving in the upper part of the building has been continued, and a shelf-list of the same is begun.

3. Ten additional volumes of clippings have been completed and placed in the Reference Department, increasing the collection to a total of 56 volumes.

4. Several copies of Sargent's "Reading for the Young" have been marked on the margin in red ink with the shelf number of such books as are in our Library. These marked copies are placed in the Reference and Delivery Rooms for consultation by readers.

5. The slip-list of maps and pamphlets has been written up to date.

6. A slip-list of fairy-tales and folk-lore for the use of juvenile readers is approaching completion.

FINANCES.

The details of income and of payments made during the year, are given in the reports of the Treasurers of the Boards of Trustees and Directors. A comparison of receipts and expenses gives the following result :

Actual receipts for the year .....	$22,278 15
Actual expenses during the year....	21,649 85
<hr/>
Leaving a balance over of.....	$628 30

at present consists of the following ladies and gentlemen: Librarian, Mr. W. A. Bardwell; First Assistant, Mr. James D. Crichton; other assistants, Mr. J. B. Latta and Misses E. G. Van Ingen, F. L. Bostwick, S. A. Beatty, L. F. Tweedy, E. M. Johnson, A. H. Greene and E. F. Smith.

COPYRIGHT.

It is a matter for sincere rejoicing among those interested in the welfare of libraries, and to all who care for the national honor and the higher interests of American life, that a copyright bill has at last, after the delays and defeats of half a century, been passed. The bill, although perhaps inadequate as it stands, recognizes the principle that the foreign writer owns his work, and its passage removes a long standing reproach against American legislation. Many authors, publishers and librarians have given time and effort to the agitation of the subject, notably Mr. R. U. Johnson, of the "Century" Magazine, whose patience and persistency during the long contest for the passage of a copyright bill have been indefatigable. It is pleasant to remember that our Library aided in the encouragement afforded American authors and the cause of International Copyright by the sum of $400, realized for the American Copyright League from the Authors' readings given last year at the Academy of Music.

CONCLUSION.

The Directors contemplate making certain improvements, in the early autumn, for the special convenience of readers who use the Department of Reference. The changes under consideration would secure more favorable conditions for the student's work, and involve a reinforcement of the Librarian's staff. The Directors urgently call attention to the fact that an enlargement of the financial resources of the Library can be made to contribute to the greater efficiency of its work. They will be ready, at any time, to point out specific ways wherein the philanthropic may see opportunities for promoting the advancement of learning in our city.

Respectfully submitted,

TRUMAN J. BACKUS,

President.

In carrying out the plans approved by the joint Boards for the alterations and improvements of the property, No. 193 Montague street, and the Library building proper, and for the purchase of the property, No. 152 Pierrepont street, it became necessary not only to use all the uninvested funds of the Library and the principal of the nine bonds of the Grand Street, Prospect Park & Flatbush Railroad which had matured and been paid, but also to sell the mortgage hitherto held on the property on Hanson place, of $6,000, to borrow the sum of $5,000 from the Trustees of the Cary Fund on a mortgage of the Pierrepont street property, and a further sum of $2,000 from the Brooklyn Trust Company, and to appropriate from the current revenue the sum of $927.93. The actual value of the betterments resulting from the various additions and alterations made has been set at $7,671.79, and this sum has been suitably apportioned to the several properties, increasing their valuations, as appears on the Balance Sheet. Corresponding with this action the General Fund has been enlarged by the sum taken from General Income, viz.: $927.93, and for convenience the balance hitherto standing as "Endowment Fund Subscription" has also been transferred to this account, so that the General Fund now shows a balance of $39,289.39. Such further improvements as have been made, and are yet to be paid for, will make a further demand upon the current income of the coming year, unless resources not at the moment foreseen shall become available.

REPORT

OF THE

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

---

BROOKLYN, March 12, 1891.

To the Trustees of the Brooklyn Library:

In accordance with the By-Laws, the Executive Committee respectfully submits the following report of its transactions for the year ending 28th February, 1891.

On account of the increasing importance of this part of Montague street as a business centre, it has been thought desirable to go to considerable expense in altering and improving our office buildings. The improvements to No. 193 Montague street were begun in March last and completed within three months. A new front was put in up to the second story, and in the rear an extension, one story and basement in height, was built, eighteen feet in width and extending the whole depth of the lot. The upper floor of No. 193 is now occupied by the janitor of the Library. It is hoped that the room he formerly occupied in the basement of the Library building may be let for business purposes. The total cost of the improvements on No. 193 Montague street is about $7,000.

In the Library Building the front rooms on the first floor have been altered into offices, each being given a separate entrance from the street. This seems to have been done without serious injury to the architectural effect of the building. The cost of these changes is about $2,400, and the offices are let for three years at an annual rental of $3,000, a substantial addition to the income of the Library.

In the Reading Room of the Library, the wooden columns were beginning to show signs of over pressure, and it has been necessary to substitute iron columns for them. The appearance of the room is improved by the change, and the new columns will bear all the weight that it will ever be necessary to place on them. The cost of the columns is $1,889 and the cost of shifting the gas and electric lights is about $250 more. These bills will be paid in the next fiscal year.

The roof and iron shutters of the Library building were painted during the year. In the rear of office building, No. 201 Montague street, a brick fence was substituted for the wooden one, which had become rather dilapidated.

A modification of the party wall agreement as to the west wall of office building No. 193 Montague street, was entered into with the Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange, Limited, now owning the adjacent property, by which the Exchange was allowed to remove certain portions of its half of said party wall, and the Library acquires the right to remove all of its half of the wall. Up to the present time the building No. 193 Montague street, has shown no signs of injury from the construction of its lofty neighbor.

The most important action by this Committee during the year was effecting the purchase of the house and lot No. 152 Pierrepont street (directly in the rear of our office building, No. 193 Montague street), for the sum of $25,000. The unanimous approval of the Board of Directors, as well as of the Board of Trustees, was first obtained. The report of the Treasurer of the Trustees shows that, in order to obtain the amount required, it was necessary to borrow $2,000, besides appropriating all the investment funds of the Library, with one trifling exception.

For the ensuing fiscal year the gross income of the real estate of the Library is estimated at between $13,000 and $14,000. , Probably for the year following it will be somewhat more. The expenditure for addition, and betterments, now being made out of current income, will shortly cease, and the Trustees will be able to turn over to the Directors a largely increased income from rentals.

Respectfully submitted,

for the Executive Committee,

W. A. WHITE,
Chairman.

REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES OF THE CARY FUND.

To the Board of Directors of the Brooklyn Library:

On behalf of the Trustees of the Cary Fund I have to report, as required by the provisions of the Trust, that the principal of the Trust, viz., the sum of $5,000, has, since the date of the last report, been invested in a loan to the Library Corporation, to be secured by bond and mortgage upon the recently acquired property of the Library, No. 152 Pierrepont street, at the rate of five per cent. per annum.

The income received during the current year, ending February 28, 1891, was $213.88, which, with the balance previously unexpended, gave the sum of $252.42 available for the purchase of books. An appropriation has been made for this purpose of $250.91, for which a careful selection from current purchases of the Library has been made, numbering twenty-six volumes, the amount having been paid over to the Treasurer of the Library and the books duly marked and recorded as gifts to the Library from the Cary Fund. There remains of income unexpended only the small balance of $1.51.

At the date of the last report a vacancy in the Board had occurred by the death of Mr. Edmund W. Corlies. A further vacancy has since arisen through the resignation of Mr. Adrian Van Sinderen, one of the original Trustees. These vacancies have been filled by the appointment, pursuant to the provisions of the original Deed of Trust, of Mr. William Augustus White and Mr. Thomas E. Stillman, as Trustees, and the Board is therefore once again complete.

Which is respectfully submitted,

JAS. H. FROTHINGHAM,

Trustee.

THIRTY-FOURTH
ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE
BROOKLYN LIBRARY.

---

To the Members of the Brooklyn Library :

Your Board of Directors, during the past year, have been able to secure many improvements in the equipment and in the administration of the Library. They have not been beset by those perplexities which attend a diminishing revenue. Increased resources have made it possible to put the buildings of the Corporation in excellent repair, to add much to the attractiveness of our public rooms, and to enlarge the annual appropriation for the purchase of books. The net addition in the number of volumes when compared with the addition of the previous year shows an increase of sixty-two per cent.

The acquisitions include some rare books, and add significant value to our collection in the departments of History and Geography, of Science and Industrial Arts, of Cyclopedias, of Social Science, and of Music. There have been liberal appropriations for the purchase of duplicate copies of such books as are frequently called for by our members.

Expressions of appreciation for the improved facilities offered to our readers, and for the assistance rendered by our Librarian have been emphatic and frequent. Special students in various lines of investigation, and the general reader, as well, give testimony to the increased pleasure found in their use of the Library.

While the circulation of books from the Delivery Room has been greater than last year, the use of books in the Reference Room and in the general Reading Room has been unprecedented.

Mr. Bardwell has submitted to the Directors a detailed report of the year's work at the Library, from which the following statements and statistical tables are transcribed :

BOOKS.

5,406 volumes have been added to the Library during the past year by purchase, of which 2,747 were for the special Library of Reference in the Reading Room ; 2,659 volumes are for the Circulating and Reference Departments. In addition to the best books in the English language that have been published during the year, many additions of scarce and desirable works from auction sales have been made. The following table shows the additions by classes :

READING ROOM.

The use of this room has been greater than in any previous year. This has especially been the case since the new Library of Reference has been placed on the shelves, which has been gradually accomplished during the Fall and Winter, as fast as the books were ready. During portions of the day the room is filled, not a seat being left vacant.

The Sunday attendance shows a total of 3,029, for 44 afternoons, the room not being open on Sundays in July and August.

Average Sunday attendance, 68.8. Largest, 96, on October 28th; smallest, 42, on June 28th, 1891.

THE REFERENCE DEPARTMENT.

A number of valuable works have been added to the collection in this room:

Concluding parts of the Century Dictionary.

King—Hand-book of the United States, 2,637 illustrations.

Kirk—Supplement to Allibone's Dictionary of Authors, 2 vols.

Moon—Men and Women of the Time, 13th ed.

Pepper—System of Medicine, 5 vols.

Seyffert—Dictionary of Classical Antiquities.

Smith—Dictionary of Greek and Roman Antiquities, new ed., 2 vols.

Wood—U. S. Dispensatory, 16th ed.

and a number of other books for use in this department.

It is intended that students shall find here the best facilities and aids to study; and the Librarian or his assistants will at any time be pleased to give help to those who require it in the pursuit of information.

NEWSPAPER CLIPPINGS.

Since our last report, nine cases have been added to this collection, comprising six volumes of Quotations (four of poetry and two of prose); one volume on Coins and Medals, one on Gems, and one of scraps and pamphlets, illustrative of the coming World's Fair at Chicago. The collections now number 65 volumes. Special donations of clippings for this department are always acceptable, as also are maps of any description, folded or unfolded; particularly local or county maps. Donations of clippings have recently been presented to the Library by

Miss C. D. Le Row,

Miss M. L. Lovett,

Mr. S. M. Murdock.

The World's Columbian Exposition; Department of Publication and Distribution.

CIRCULATION.

The circulation of books during 1891, as compared with that of 1890, has been as follows:

	1890. Volumes.	1891. Volumes.
First Quarter.....	28,431	29,023
Second Quarter.....	24,172	25,015
Third Quarter.....	16,974	17,593
Fourth Quarter.....	25,455	25,577
	<hr/> 95,032	<hr/> 97,208

showing a gain of 2,176 volumes.

MUSIC.

About ninety volumes, mostly collections of songs, in which respect our Library of Music has hitherto been deficient, were recently added. This part of our Library fully retains its popularity, the works contained in it being in daily request. The collection now comprises 1,200 volumes.

MEMBERSHIP.

The receipts from annual membership during the year have been $10,209.23.

The number of members on March 1st was as follows:

Annual members (who have paid their subscriptions to March 1, 1892)....	1,636
Extra annual subscription at $5.00 (to March 1, 1892).....	377
Life members by payment of $100.....	524
Life members (original Athenæum subscriptions).....	37
Permanent membership, by payment of $500.....	282
	<hr/>
Total membership on March 1, 1892.....	2,856
Total membership on March 1, 1891.....	2,872

Since our last report the following deaths have occurred: Life Members—Wm. A. Brown, Gordon L. Ford, Anthony Gilkison, Charles Pratt, Rev. S. T. Spear, Rev. H. J. Van Dyke, Dr. P. P. Wells. Permanent Member—Pickering Clarke.

CLASSES.

The only classes now conducted in connection with the Library are those in Phonography and Typewriting, under the care of Prof. T. J. Ellinwood, on the third floor of the Library building. The income from this source during the year has been $363.32.

BULLETIN AND CARD CATALOGUE.

The usual bulletin of 2,000 titles, selected from books purchased during the year, was published in December, and 13,000 copies were distributed to our members and to others throughout the city. The card catalogue is kept completed; all additions being written up and the cards incorporated as fast as the books are received.

The weekly lists of books added are posted in the Delivery Room and in the Reference Department, and are published in the local newspapers.

It would seem that much reliance is placed on the newspaper lists, judging by the number of those clipped out and used by readers, as memoranda of recent additions to the Library.

We gratefully acknowledge the frequent favors extended to us by the daily newspapers of Brooklyn, and their kindly interest in the welfare of the Library.

DISTRICT DELIVERIES.

The number of volumes delivered during the year at nine branch stations was 5,125.

LIGHTS, BUILDING AND FIXTURES.

The cost of lighting the building during the year has been $1,245.35 against $1,302.97 for 1890—a decrease of $57.62.

Information regarding the Library buildings and fixtures may be obtained by referring to the report of the Executive Committee.

FINANCES.

The details of income and of payments made during the year are given in the reports of the Treasurers of the Boards of Trustees and Directors. A comparison of receipts and expenses gives the following result:

Actual receipts for the year from subscribers, classes, and sundries.....	$10,703 35
Actual receipts for the year from the Trustees on account income, etc.....	9,641 66

SPECIAL LIBRARY OF REFERENCE IN THE READING ROOM.

At a meeting of the Directors held last Spring, it was proposed to make some changes in the Reading Room by which its attractiveness might be increased. The high racks whereon the newspaper files had been displayed, were considered unsightly, and it was thought that hand-files, which could be hung up when not in use, would be more convenient, and that by substituting tables for the racks more space and a greater degree of comfort could be secured for members.

It was also suggested that it would be well to have a selection of the best books near at hand, where readers could have direct access to them and the opportunity of examining them at leisure.

The improvements discussed at that time have since been effected, and the electric lights have been readjusted to conform with the alterations made. Book cases seven feet high have been built around the walls of the western portion of the room, with capacity for 6,000 volumes. About half this number has been purchased—a few being supplied from the duplicate stock in the circulating department of the Library. The books in this collection are given a special label, which states that their use is restricted to the reading room.

The classification of this collection is at present as follows :

Biography.....	463	Volumes.
Books for the Young.....	207	"
Church History and Theology.....	147	"
Drama.....	75	"
Education.....	33	"
English Essays and Literature.....	137	"
Fiction.....	470	"
Fine Arts ...	97	"
History.....	376	"
Philosophy.....	81	"
Poetry.....	144	"
Political and Social Science and Government.....	64	"
Science and the Useful Arts.....	178	"
Travels, etc.....	275	"
Total... ..	2,747	"

The books selected for this special Library are works of acknowledged merit in the various departments of literature represented; and their daily use by a large number of readers has demonstrated that the plan of placing them there in a part of the building where they are directly accessible to all our members, has met with very general approval.

It is believed that the books withdraw considerable attention from the newspapers to themselves. Many people like the privilege of "browsing" and of examining books at the shelves; and whenever a book in this collection is desired for home reading, a duplicate of it can be obtained in the circulating department on the second floor.

SPECIAL WORK.

Aside from the ordinary routine work of the Library, some items may be worthy of mention.

The selection and purchase of 2,700 volumes for the Reading Room Library have required careful consideration, and have occupied considerable time. A shelf inventory of this collection has still to be made, and the books have yet to be given shelf numbers. Some work has been done in the arrangement and listing of unbound periodicals in the stock rooms on the upper floors of the Library.

The slip-list of pamphlets and maps has been continued to date, a special list having been made of maps of the United States Geological Survey. Nine volumes have been added to the Library of newspaper clippings, making a total of 65 volumes. An index to the four volumes of poetical quotations in this collection has also been made. At the suggestion of Dr. L. P. Brockett, of this city, an attempt has been made to form a special collection of literature descriptive of the treatment of the insane and idiotic in State and private asylums. Several of these institutions have responded by donating copies of their annual reports and other treatises on the subject.

The slip-list of Fairy Tales and Folk-Lore has been completed. It forms a total of 6,000 slips, of which 5,919 are devoted to title entries. In this work 483 volumes have been indexed and their contents analyzed.

THE PROPOSED FREE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Brooklyn Library, held on February 23, 1892, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

“Resolved, That the Directors of the Brooklyn Library note with gratification the suggestion of Mayor Boody in his message looking toward the establishment of a Free Public Library system for the City of Brooklyn, and that a committee of three be appointed to convey the resolution to the Mayor.”

At the same meeting the President and Vice-President of the Board, and the Chairman of the Executive Committee, were appointed as representatives of the Directors to call upon the Mayor of our city, and to assure him of the readiness of the Brooklyn Library to co-operate with him in securing the establishment of a Free Library suited to the needs of Brooklyn.

While the Directors of the Brooklyn Library have expressed their personal interest in the enterprise proposed by the Mayor's first message, and hope to see it successfully carried forward, they are unanimous in thinking that it would be neither wise nor practicable to identify the interests of the Brooklyn Library with those of the proposed Free Library.

The Directors believe that our organization has a work of its own to do, whose importance would be heightened by the establishment of free libraries. Our Librarian reports that the increase in the number of our readers during the past two years may be traced, in part, to the influences already exerted by the free libraries of the Pratt Institute, and of the Union for Christian Work. Moreover, the constantly advancing instruction given in the great schools of Brooklyn, and the impulse given to studiousness by the methods of the Brooklyn Institute, are bringing more numerous and more constant readers to our collection of books.

Our Library is adapted to the wants of studious readers. It is not likely to lose pre-eminence in that distinction. We offer opportunities and privileges which could not be granted under the administration of a free library, and we offer them to a class of readers whose interests would not otherwise be served.

The policy of your Board of Directors favors more generous appropriations than have been available heretofore for distinctively scholarly books. Fortunately our increasing revenues are favorable to that policy. Our income from investments during this year will amount to about twelve thousand dollars, and we are told by the Trustees that we may count upon fifteen thousand dollars from that source for 1893.

Respectfully submitted,

TRUMAN J. BACKUS,

President.

REPORT OF EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE TO BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

The Executive Committee, to whom is entrusted the care of the rentable property of the Library, submit their Annual Report for the year ending 1st March, 1892, as follows :

The gross receipts from rents have been, as per Treasurer's Report, $13,362.

The vacancies during the year have been of the rental value of $500.

All rents have been collected.

Beyond the ordinary expenses for current repairs, there have been special expenditures for betterment, amounting in all to $2,400, for the following :

Putting iron columns in Reading Room and making necessary changes in connection therewith.

New inner vestibule to West office on first story of the Library Building.

The basement and second story of No. 201 Montague street have been renovated at the expense of the tenants.

On the whole, the buildings owned by the Library are in better condition than they were a year ago, but the higher rents we are receiving are going to require a higher order of maintenance in order to keep our tenants satisfied, and to meet the competition of more modern buildings.

For the ensuing year a number of small betterments and unusual repairs are in contemplation, as follows :

No. 193 MONTAGUE STREET.

Improving steam heating on first story.....	$60 00
Third story, repainting, etc.....	60 00
Roof, new skylight and repairs.....	20 00
Roof, patent chimney caps.....	30 00

LIBRARY BUILDING, BASEMENT.

Renovating water closets.....	$150 00
Painting office.....	30 00
New wire door at head of stairs.....	20 00
Steam heating, repairs and wrapping.....	100 00
First story, new transom in Royal Insurance Co. office.....	30 00
Second story, new water closet and wash room.....	125 00
Third story, new dressing room. . . . .	25 00

201 MONTAGUE STREET, CELLAR.

New posts and girder under safe.....	$40 00
Basement, relaying area.....	40 00
Second story, repairs to stairs.....	20 00
Various other repairs.....	200 00
Due architect .....	450 00
	$1,400 00

The estimate of the income from the invested property of the Library for the ensuing year is as follows :

Gross rentals.....	$14,300
(Rental value of offices vacant, $700)
Less outlay for betterments, $\frac{1}{2}$ of \$1,400 above .....	\$700 00
Outlay repairs, $\frac{1}{2}$ of \$1,400 above.....	700 00
Gas, water and insurance.....	350 00
Agent's commission, $2\frac{1}{2}$ .....	350 00
	$2,100
Net amount to go to Directors.....	$12,200

For the following year, the gross rentals, on basis of present values, will be about $16,000, and the net income from same about $15,000.

Respectfully submitted,

W. A. WHITE,

Chairman Executive Committee of Trustees of Brooklyn Library.

During the current year a considerable expenditure has been made in the completion of the changes begun in the previous year, the result of which has been a further distinct betterment of the property, more particularly the Library Building proper, in which the substitution of iron for the original wooden columns on the main story, has been an improvement of lasting value. The actual value of these betterments has been arbitrarily fixed at the sum of $2,400—an amount considerably within the actual outlay, and the valuation of the Library Building has been increased by the sum of $2,250—and that of No. 201 Montague street by the sum of $150. Corresponding with this action the General Fund has been enlarged $2,400, the amount taken from the General Income. By the payment of a bequest of $1,000 from the estate of the late Isaac H.

Frothingham, the General Fund has received a further increase, and now aggregates $42,689.39. The amount of the above bequest was applied in reduction of the loan from the Brooklyn Trust Company, the balance of which now stands at $1,000.

THE GENERAL INCOME ACCOUNT IS AS FOLLOWS:

Cr.	Net Income from No. 193 Montague Street.....	$3,913 17
	" " " No. 201 Montague Street.....	4,385 51

BROOKLYN, March 10, 1892.

REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES OF THE CARY FUND.

---

To the Board of Directors of the Brooklyn Library :

On behalf of the Trustees of the "Cary Fund" I beg to report, as required by the terms of the Trust, that the principal of the Trust remains invested in a mortgage loan to the Library Corporation, at five per cent.

At the date of last year's report, there remained an unexpended balance with the Trustees of $1.51 of income; there has since been received a full year's interest, of $250.00; there has also been expended in the purchase of books, which have been selected from the current purchases of the Library, and duly marked and recorded as gifts to the Library from the Fund, the sum of $241.66, represented by 41 volumes; and there remains on hand $9.85 of unexpended income.

Which is respectfully submitted.

JAS. H. FROTHINGHAM,

Treasurer.

Dated BROOKLYN, March 26, 1892.

THIRTY-FIFTH
ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE
BROOKLYN LIBRARY.

---

To the Members of the Brooklyn Library:

During the past year work in the Library has been done under favoring conditions. The Librarian, his assistants, and those who use our books have been free from the annoyances which beset them while the extensive repairs of two years ago, and the more recent arrangement of the Library in the Reading Room were under way. The improvements have served the convenience and pleasure of our readers, and they have attracted many who had not been acquainted with the resources of the Library.

In the last annual report it was stated that the increasing revenues would make it possible for the Board of Directors to enlarge our collection of distinctively scholarly books. The monthly publication of lists of books added to our Catalogue, and the semi-annual bulletins, issued for the convenience of our members, have given evidence that the purpose then announced has been carried out. Many costly books have been placed on our shelves. While the total number of volumes added is but a slight increase upon the accessions of the previous year, the average cost per volume has been significantly advanced.

Plans to secure a more compact shelving of the one hundred and seventeen thousand (117,000) volumes of the Library, and of the large anticipated increase, are having the consideration of the Board of Directors. Should these plans be found practicable improvements in the safe-keeping of books, in their accessibility, and in their expeditious delivery will be secured.

The following pages are transcribed from the Annual Report of the Librarian :

BOOKS.

The total number of volumes purchased during the year ending March 1, 1893, for the Circulating and Reference Departments was 2,807, being one hundred and forty-eight volumes more than last year. No further additions have been made to the Reading Room library, but to the Main Library the best books of the year in the English language, have been supplied, as well as a number of musical works, and over 100 volumes by noted writers in the French language. The following is a classified table of additions :

MAPS AND PAMPHLETS.

The Pamphlet collection, exclusive of duplicates, now numbers 10,200—1,550 having been added during 1892-93. These are arranged by subjects, following the general classification of the Library catalogue, and their use is made practicable by means of a slip-list, arranged both by authors and subjects.

A notable contribution to the map collection has been made by the United States Coast Survey. It consists of a collection of 171 maps and charts of the coast of the United States from Maine to Alaska. A catalogue published by the Department accompanies the charts.

NEWSPAPER CLIPPINGS.

But few additions have been made to the collection of newspaper clippings since the last report. There are now 67 volumes of clippings of local and general interest and their use is very considerable.

The Society of Old Brooklynites last fall deposited in our Library six elephant folio volumes of pictorial scrap books, which are very interesting and have been examined by many of our members. The collection is an elegant one and is very carefully mounted. It consists of several thousand pictures and engravings and contains many portraits of distinguished personages. The pictures were collected and mounted by Dr. Nellie M. Flint, a grand-daughter of Captain David Morris of the prison ship "Jersey."

CIRCULATION.

The circulation of books in 1892, as compared with 1891, was as follows:

	1891. Volumes.	1892. Volumes.
First Quarter.....	29,023	28,112
Second Quarter....	25,015	23,853
Third Quarter....	17,593	16,398
Fourth Quarter.....	25,577	25,101*
Total.....	97,208	93,464

DUPLICATES.

Number of Volumes on hand March 1, 1892.....	2,584
Net additions, 1892-93.....	293
Total number of Volumes now on hand for sale or exchange.....	2,877

BULLETINS.

In December, 1892, Bulletin No. 30 was issued, consisting of 2,000 titles, selected from additions to the Library since December, 1891. This Bulletin contains also a special list of Music, and of works in the French language; recently added. In February, 1893, Bulletin No. 31 was printed, containing all additions of new books to date and a selection from the older titles not previously published.

These bulletins were widely distributed among our subscribers and throughout the city generally.

The Card catalogue is kept complete, all additions being written up and incorporated as fast as the books come in.

The weekly lists of additions to the Library are displayed in the Delivery Room and in the Reference Hall, and are, with unvarying courtesy, published in the local newspapers, whose kindly interest in the welfare of the Library we gratefully acknowledge.

READING ROOM.

This room has continued to be a favorite place of resort, its use having been fully equal to that of former years. The Special Library of Reference has been in constant

---

* Including 242 volumes circulated from the shelves of the Bensonhurst Branch request. It has been found to be a popular and attractive feature and has been highly appreciated by our readers.

The Sunday attendance for the 43 afternoons, from March, 1892, to March, 1893, was:

Ladies.....	288
Gentlemen .....	3,381
<hr/>
Total... ..	3,669

The room is open on Sundays from 2 to 6 P. M., excepting Sundays in July and August. The largest attendance was 142 on April 3, 1892; smallest 41, on September 4, 1892. Average, 85.3.

THE REFERENCE DEPARTMENT.

Some very important works have been placed in this room, a few of which may be mentioned:

Haydn—Dictionary of Dates, 20th ed.

Foster—Illustrated Encyclopedic Medical Dictionary, vols. 1-3.

Rand, McNally & Co.—Indexed Atlas of the United States, folio, 1892.

Racinet—Le Costume Historique, 6 vols., folio.

The use of this Department is constant and increasing. The Librarian or his assistants will be glad to give their time and help to those who require it in the pursuit of their researches. The bulletins of the United States Census of 1890 are now frequently found useful for reference.

DISTRICT DELIVERIES.

The number of volumes delivered in 1892 at the branch stations was 5,728. Branch No. 9, formerly established at the drug store of Dr. D. J. Pierce, Halsey street and Stuyvesant avenue, was discontinued last fall owing to change of proprietorship in the business.

This station is now at the pharmacy of Dr. J. E. Rohrer, Sumner avenue, corner Decatur street.

A new station was opened in September last at Bensonhurst, L. I., with the co-operation of citizens of that place, who provide a reading-room and an attendant. The Library furnishes 750 selected volumes to be kept on the shelves in this room, and a number of the leading magazines are kept on file. Exchanges of books are made several times a week, if required, from the Main Library. This reading-room is open afternoons and evenings, and is an attractive resort in this pleasant suburb.

Considerable business has been done in the delivery of books at the residences of members, at the usual charge of five cents for each delivery at locations not more than a mile from the Library.

LIGHT, BUILDING AND FIXTURES.

The total cost of lighting the building from March 1, 1892, to February 28, 1893, has been $1,336.54 against $1,245.35 for 1891, an increase of $91.19.

The report of the Executive Committee gives information regarding the Library building and furniture.

CLASSES.

The classes in Phonography and Typewriting conducted by Prof. T. J. Ellinwood, on the third floor of the Library building, have furnished an income of $360.

MEMBERSHIP.

The receipts from annual membership during the year have been $10,373.94,

The number of members on March 1st was as follows:

Annual members (who have paid their subscriptions to March 1, 1893).....	1,661
Extra annual subscriptions at $5.00 (to March 1, 1893).....	363
Life members by payment of $100.....	515
Life members (original Athenæum subscriptions).....	37
Permanent membership, by payment of $500.....	282
	<hr/>
Total membership on March 1, 1893.....	2 858
Total membership on March 1, 1892.....	2,856

Since our last report the following deaths have occurred:
Life Members—Rev. Edw. C. Bill, D. D., Henry J. Callen, Ellis B. Cromwell, Samuel B. Duryea, Rev. Frederick C. Farley, D. D., Samuel McLean, Thomas H. Rodman, Sr.,

Thomas H. Rodman, Jr. Permanent Members—Calvin B. Camp, Stephen H. Herriman, Mrs. Maria T. Polhemus, Abiel A. Low.

FINANCES.

The details of income and of expenses during the year are given in the reports of the Treasurers of the Boards of Trustees and Directors. The following result is shown by a comparison of receipts and expenditures for the year :

Actual receipts for the year from subscribers, classes, and sundries .....	$10,902 84
Actual receipts for the year from the Trustees on account income, etc. ....	12,648 10
Total .....	$23,550 94
Actual expenses during the year .....	21,877 53
Leaving a balance of .....	$1,673 41 •

The Directors have pleasure in noting facts indicative of the increasing usefulness of the Library, and of the interest taken in its work by citizens who have recently contributed to the enlargement of its resources. Our Reference Library has been frequented by many readers who wish to pursue their researches where books are most accessible. There has been an unusual number of applications for the privilege of using alcoves of the Library for undisturbed hours of study. Students from the higher schools of the city, in steadily increasing numbers, are making use of our Reference Library. There have been valuable contributions of books from citizens who are interested in promoting the efficiency of our work.

Since the last annual report was published, the Directors have been notified that bequests were made to the Library by two of its late members, Mr. Samuel B. Duryea and Mr. James Haggart.

TRUMAN J. BACKUS,
President.

THIRTY-SIXTH
ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE
BROOKLYN LIBRARY.

---

To the Members of the Brooklyn Library:

In presenting the Thirty-sixth Annual Report of the Brooklyn Library, it is gratifying to note that the Institution continues to widen in usefulness and to repeat, this year, the record of steady growth and increased influence which have attended the labors of the directors since its organization.

To invite larger circulation, and to provide better facilities for literary work, it has been decided to make extensive alterations in the building. The Delivery Room will shortly be transferred to the first floor, and other improvements will contribute to the convenience of our members, and permit the efficient Librarian and his staff to render more valuable assistance to readers than has been possible in the past. Some statistics of the Library's growth are presented as follows:

BOOKS.

Of the desirable publications of the year a large part has been received. A number of valuable works have been procured for the Reference Department, one very much needed being the American and English Encyclopædia of Law, 23 volumes of which are now published. The number of volumes purchased during our fiscal year was 2,935, an increase of 128 over last year. The largest number of additions in any class was, naturally, in the class of Fiction, followed next in the order mentioned by Biography, History, Travels and Science. The following table shows the additions by classes :

CLASSES.	Total Vols. on hand March 1, 1893.	Additions, 1893-'94.	Worn out, sold, ex- changed, etc., 1893-'94.	Net additions, 1893-'94.	Total Vols. on hand March 1, 1894.

NOTE.—The sale of 2,806 volumes to the library in Danbury, Conn., and the return of 2,799 volumes of duplicate public documents to the Interior Department, Washington, D. C., with other deductions for books worn out, etc., leaves the total number of volumes now on hand, 1,579 less than at the beginning of the year.

BULLETINS AND CATALOGUES.

In December, 1893, the Bulletin of additions usually issued at this time of the year was printed, and 12,000 copies distributed by mail. This Bulletin aggregated 24 pages and contained the titles of some 2,000 books selected from the more important additions of the year, as well as 150 volumes of music which were added last September. 1,096 pamphlets have been acquired, increasing the collection to 11,300. The Card catalogue has been kept complete, new additions being incorporated as received. The weekly lists of additions are posted in the Reference Hall and in the Book Delivery Room, and are published in the local newspapers with uniform courtesy. The edition of the Catalogue of Fiction, published in 1884, has been exhausted and a new edition, giving the new system of self-numbering, is now being prepared for the printer. This Catalogue will be a great convenience, as it will include in one list, by author and title entries, all the works of fiction the Library now owns.

THE REFERENCE DEPARTMENT.

Some useful volumes have been placed in this room, such as :

Appleton's New Library Atlas.

Bromley's Atlases of Brooklyn and of 23d and 24th Wards of New York.

Champlin—Music and Musicians, 3 vols.

Lippincott—New Gazetteer of the World.

Poole and Fletcher—2d Suppl. to Index of Periodical Literature.

Scribner—Atlas of the World. New ed.

The Standard Dictionary, vol. 1.

The use of this department has been large, and it is our desire to make it as useful and helpful as possible to those who frequent it for study and the consultation of works of reference.

READING ROOM.

This room has been largely used, being filled at certain hours to its utmost capacity. The impression seems, at times, to prevail that this part of the library is free to any and all who may wish to use it. This is not the case. Strangers visiting the city can secure the use of the reading room for a time on the introduction of a member, but the general public cannot be admitted without encroaching upon the rights of regular members. The Sunday attendance for 43 afternoons—March 5 to June 25, 1893, and September 3, 1893, to February 25, 1894, was:

The largest attendance was 124 on March 12, 1893; the smallest 49 on September 3, 1893; average, 88.6.

DISTRICT DELIVERIES.

The number of volumes delivered at the branch stations in 1893 was 5,430. Four of the stations have been discontinued, their patronage not being sufficient to render their maintenance desirable. The stations now in use are:

W. A. Aspinall, Fulton street and Franklin avenue.
 Andrews and Manney, Flatbush avenue, cor. Seventh avenue.
 F. C. Cutts, 981 Fulton street, cor. St. James place.
 L. T. Perkins, 19 Greene avenue, cor. Cumberland street.
 Livingston & Underwood, 570 Bedford avenue, cor. Taylor street.
 Bensonhurst Branch and Reading Room, Bensonhurst, L. I.

Exchanges of books are made at residences of members at the usual charge of five cents for each delivery at locations not too far distant from the Library.

CLASSES.

Prof. T. J. Ellinwood has conducted the classes in Phonography and Typewriting on the third floor of the Library building as heretofore.

MEMBERSHIP.

The receipts from annual membership during the year have been $10,122.68.

The number of members on March 1st was as follows :

Annual members (who have paid their subscriptions to March 1, 1894) .....	1,635
Extra annual subscriptions at $5.00 (to March 1, 1894).....	330
Life members by payment of $100.....	503
Life members (original Athenæum subscriptions).....	36
Permanent membership. by payment of $500.....	282
Total membership on March 1, 1894 .....	2,786
Total membership on March 1, 1893. ....	2,858

Since our last report the following deaths have occurred :
Life Members—David R. De Wolf, Horace Waters, George A. Jarvis, James S. Noyes, Wm. B. Leonard, Mrs. O. M. Carhart, Edw. L. Snow, Peter Notman, D. C. Lyall, Mrs. Emily E. Ford, A. A. Hall, Edward Hinken, Miss Caroline Thurston. Permanent Member—Benjamin Carver.

MAPS AND PAMPHLETS.

The number of pamphlets, not including duplicates, is now 11,296—1,096 having been added since last report. The very valuable series of maps now being published by the United States Geological Survey have been received so far as issued. The sheets belonging to the State of Connecticut have been bound in atlas form by the State Department at Hartford, and are to be seen in our Reference Department.

NEWSPAPER CLIPPINGS.

Since the last report six cases have been added to the collection, viz., one on Balloons and Ballooning, one on Food, two on personal and place Names, and two additional cases in the class of Individual Biography. The collection now contains 73 volumes or cases.

LIGHT, BUILDING AND FIXTURES.

The cost of lighting the building from March 1, 1893, to February 28, 1894, has been $1,326.62, against $1,336.54 in 1892, a decrease of $9.92.

FINANCES.

The reports of the Treasurers of the Boards of Trustees and Directors give details of income and expenses. A comparison of receipts and expenditures for the year gives the following result :

Actual receipts for the year from subscribers, classes, sundries and donations .....	$11,335 55
Actual receipts for the year from the Trustees on account income, etc.....	10,350 00
Total ..	$21,685 55
Actual expenses during the year... ..	19,941 27
Leaving a balance of .....	$1,744 28

The sum of one hundred dollars has recently been received from the executors of the estate of Mr. James Haggart, deceased. This bequest was made in grateful acknowledgment for the many pleasant hours passed by the testator in the Reading and Reference rooms of the Library. It is most gratifying to receive this substantial evidence of appreciation as well as to learn of the kindly sentiments frequently expressed in commendation of our work by an old and respected member.

The financial resources of the Library are not sufficiently ample to provide the proper equipment and facilities for literary work required by the increasing demand upon us. During many years past the directors have been compelled to defer, or but partially complete many needed improvements from lack of funds. The income from the endowments now held by the Trustees is not available for purposes other than those specified in the various bequests, and no portion of the principal may be appropriated for alterations and extensions within the Library building. The cost of contemplated improvements, which will be considerable, should be met by special donations, or by ample endowments, the income of which might be devoted to purposes other than the purchase of books. The past record of the Brooklyn Library, its present important relation as a factor in the educational problem, should successfully appeal to all public-spirited citizens in this great city who have her welfare at heart. The directors earnestly commend the work of the Library to the careful examination and consideration of all interested in liberal education, and ask for a proper financial support of our Institution.

REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES OF THE CARY FUND.

To the Board of Directors of the Brooklyn Library:

On behalf of the Trustees of the "Cary Fund," I beg to report, in accordance with the provisions of the Trust, that the principal of the Trust remains invested in a mortgage loan to the Library Corporation, on its property No. 152 Pierrepont street, at five per cent.

At the date of last year's report there remained an unexpended balance of income amounting to $11.75, and there has been received since one year's interest of $250. The Trustees have expended, in the purchase of suitable books, the sum of $248.97, representing 23 volumes selected from the current purchases of the Library, and these volumes have been duly marked and entered as gifts to the Library from the Fund.

There remains an unexpended balance of income of $12.78.

Which is respectfully submitted.

JAS. H. FROTHINGHAM,
Treasurer.

Dated BROOKLYN, March 15, 1894.

THIRTY-SEVENTH
ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE
BROOKLYN LIBRARY.

---

To the Members of the Brooklyn Library :

The contemplated alterations and improvements referred to in the preceding report have been completed during the past year and the greater part of the interior structure of the building, originally designed of wood, has been replaced by one of steel.

During the period of reconstruction repeated interruptions in the regular work and use of the Library have unavoidably occurred, and the Directors take this opportunity to tender thanks to the members for the uniform forbearance they so cheerfully have extended.

To the Librarian and his assistants the Directors are grateful for their zealous performance of library work, and fully appreciate the excellent result of their labors, carried on under most unfavorable conditions.

BOOKS.

An examination of our bulletin of additions published in December last, shows that the Library has acquired a large part of the desirable American and English books published during the year. A collection of over 100 volumes of recent works in the French language was received too late for publication in this list. The most popular works of fiction have been largely duplicated according to demand. The number of volumes purchased was 2,919, a decrease of only 16 from last year. The larger additions were : In Fiction, 979 volumes ; Biography, 280 volumes ; History, 256 : Geography and Travel, 207, and Biblical Literature, 147 volumes. The following tabulation gives the additions by classes :

DUPLICATES.

The number of volumes of duplicate books now on hand for sale or exchange (exclusive of U. S. Government Documents), is 1,870, a gain of 194 volumes since last report.

CIRCULATION.

The decrease in the circulation of books during 1894, as compared with 1893, is largely due to the necessary closing of the department at times during repairs.

	1893 Volumes.	1894 Volumes.
First Quarter.....	28,434	27,113
Second Quarter.....	23,925	23,465
Third Quarter.....	17,595	16,197
Fourth Quarter.....	25,176	23,750
Total.....	95,130	90,525

BULLETINS AND CATALOGUES.

The usual Bulletin of additions to the Library was published in December, 1894. The list of books selected comprised the best of the additions during the year of American and English books, with a half page of music and works in the French language. 12,000 copies of the Bulletin were distributed by mail.

A new edition of the Catalogue of English Fiction, including juvenile books and prose translations, was printed in August, 1894. This Catalogue contains in one alphabet, by author and title, all works of fiction in the Library to July, 1894, with shelf numbers according to the new plan of numbering adopted a few years since. This Catalogue now takes the place of the Card Catalogue of Fiction, excepting those titles added since July, 1894. The card catalogue of other classes is kept complete to date by author, title and subject.

The weekly lists of additions are posted in the Book Delivery room, and are published in all the local papers with unvarying courtesy.

THE REFERENCE DEPARTMENT.

Since the completion of alterations this room is much more attractive than formerly, and more quiet. An assistant is in charge of the room throughout the day to give aid to students and readers. Some important works recently added to this Department are :

American and English Cyclopedia of Law, vols. 24 to 27.

Bartlett—Concordance to Shakespeare.

Century Cyclopedia of Names.

Gould—Illustrated Medical Dictionary.

The International Cyclopedia, 15 volumes.

Johnson—New Cyclopedia, vols. 1 to 5.

Larned—History for Ready Reference, vols. 1 to 4.

Larousse—Dictionnaire Universelle, vol. 17.

Poole and Fletcher—Index to Periodical Literature. Third Supplement.

Shaler—The United States, 2 vols.

Vapereau—Dictionnaire des Contemporains. Latest ed.

Standard Dictionary, vol. 2.

Watt's Dictionary of Chemistry, vol. 4.

CLASSES.

Prof. T. J. Ellinwood has continued his classes in Phonography and Typewriting on the third floor of the Library Building as in former years.

READING ROOMS.

In March, 1894, it became necessary to vacate the large reading-room pending alterations. The smaller room on the main floor was therefore occupied as a temporary reading-room through the summer and until the removal of this Department to its new quarters on the second floor, where readers are now furnished with far more comfortable quarters. The Sunday attendance for 43 afternoons, March 4 to June 24, 1894, and September 2, 1894, to February 24, 1895, was

Ladies .....	154
Gentlemen .....	2,106

DISTRICT BRANCHES.

The number of volumes delivered at the branch stations in 1894, was 5,097. The branch library and reading-room at Bensonhurst was discontinued in October, 1894, owing to a too limited local patronage. The stations now in use are :

W. A. Aspinwall, Fulton street and Franklin avenue.
 Andrews and Manney, Flatbush avenue, cor. Seventh avenue.
 F. C. Cutts, 981 Fulton street, cor. St. James' place.
 L. T. Perkins, 19 Greene avenue, cor. Cumberland street.
 Livingston & Underwood, 570 Bedford avenue, cor. Taylor street.

Exchanges of books are made at residence of members at the usual charge of five cents for each delivery at locations not too far distant from the Library.

MEMBERSHIP.

The receipts from annual membership during the year have been $9,676.62.

The number of members on March 1st was as follows :

Annual members (who have paid their subscriptions to March 1, 1894).....	1,506
Extra annual subscriptions at $3.00 (to March 1, 1894)....	329
Life members by payment of $100.....	493
Life members (original Athenæum subscription).....	32
Permanent membership, by payment of $500.....	279
<hr/>
Total membership, on March 1, 1895. . . . .	2,639
Total membership on March 1, 1894.....	2,786
Decrease (due to temporary closing of Library).....	147

The following deaths have occurred since our last report :
Life members—James P. Dike, Prof. Louis J. Simonin, for many years teacher of the French language and in charge of the Library classes ; Henry P. Morgan, Gen. Henry W. Slocum, Charles R. Lynde, Ludlow Thomas, Dr. R. C. Moffat, Henry G. Reeve, James McLean, James S. Bailey, Nathaniel Frothingham, J. Ernest Miller, John P. Rolfe, Charles A. Townsend.

Permanent members—Josiah B. Blossom, Alexander M. Earle, Henry D. Polhemus.

NEWSPAPER CLIPPINGS.

One case has been added on the subject of Emblems and Devices, making the total number of volumes, or cases, 74.

MAPS AND PAMPHLETS.

Large additions have, as usual, been made to the pamphlet collection. They will be re-arranged under subjects as rapidly as time permits.

The collection of maps has been increased by donations from the U. S. Geological Survey, the War Department, and from other sources.

LIGHTS.

The cost of lighting the building from March 1, 1894, to February 28, 1895, has been $1,032.39 against $1,326.62 in 1893, a decrease of $294.23 following the disuse of gas and electric light during the period of repairs.

BUILDING AND FIXTURES.

The alterations to the Library building, commenced in March, 1894, were not entirely completed until the last of December. The foundations were strengthened and increased, the wooden columns and girders from the first floor to the roof taken out and replaced by those of steel. The large room on the first floor, formerly used as the Reading-room, has been fitted up with book-cases, Delivery-desk, Card Catalogues, &c., and is now the Book Delivery room. The reading-room has been removed to the west side of the second story, the newspaper room occupying the space formerly used for the Book Delivery Department, in the front of the building. The lights have been readjusted on this floor, as well as on the first story, and as the floors of the Reading-rooms and of the Reference Hall have been covered with linoleum, laid over carpet lining, the rooms are much more quiet than formerly.

The special collection of books forming the Reading-room Library has been shelved in the alcoves and on the west side of the present Reading-room. The classes of books most in request have been placed on the first floor, near the Delivery-desk. Fiction, Travels, Biography and Music are here, aggregating 54,000 volumes, while the remainder of the Library has been readjusted to the best advantage in the additional space thus gained in the shelf-room of the second and third floors. The stowage capacity of the Library has been increased by the recent alterations from 150,000 to 200,000 volumes.

The insurance against fire has been during the past year an exceedingly burdensome charge, an extra premium to cover builder's risk whilst the alterations were in progress having been necessary for a long period. The premiums for the coming year are at still more onerous rates, and have led to a reduction of $10,000 in the amount carried upon the Library Building; otherwise the property is covered as heretofore. A special survey of the property is to be made in the hope of modifying the present tariff. The insurances are as follows:

AMOUNTS OF INSURANCE AGAINST FIRE :

On Library Building .....	$70,000 00
On Books, etc.....	90,000 00

Which is respectfully submitted, by order of the Board of Trustees.

JAS. H. FROTHINGHAM,
Treasurer.

BROOKLYN, March 13, 1895.

REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES OF THE CARY FUND.

---

To the Board of Directors of the Brooklyn Library :

On behalf of the Trustees of the "Cary Fund," I beg to report, in accordance with the provisions of the Trust, that the principal of the Trust remains invested in a mortgage loan to the Library Corporation, on its property No. 152 Pierrepont street, at five per cent.

At the date of last year's report there remained an unexpended balance of income amounting to $12.78, and there has been received since one year's interest of $250. The Trustees have expended, in the purchase of suitable books, the sum of $249.11, representing 31 volumes selected from the current purchases of the Library, and these volumes have been duly marked and entered as gifts to the Library from the Fund.

There remains an unexpended balance of income of $13.67.

Which is respectfully submitted.

JAS. H. FROTHINGHAM,
Treasurer.

Dated BROOKLYN, March 14, 1895.

THIRTY-EIGHTH ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE BROOKLYN LIBRARY.

To the Members of the Brooklyn Library:

The statistics of the past year's business are as follows:

BOOKS.

The Library has acquired during the past year a large number of the best American and English books issued, as well as a selection from recent works in the French language; popular works of fiction have been duplicated largely to supply, as far as possible, the demand for fresh copies. 3,006 volumes have been added by purchase—an increase of 87 volumes over 1894. The greater additions were:

In Fiction, 1,108 volumes; History, Voyages and Travels, 867; Science and Industrial Arts, 463; Biography, 280; Political and Social Science, 270 volumes.

BULLETINS AND CATALOGUES.

The annual bulletin of additions to the Library was issued in December, 1895. Twelve pages were given to the selections made from American and English books, a page to music and works in the French language, and seven pages to English fiction. Twelve thousand copies of the bulletin were distributed by mail.

The weekly lists of additions are displayed in the Library, and are published with unvarying courtesy by the Brooklyn press.

The card catalogue has been improved by the newest device of rods and blocks for holding the cards in place in the drawers. The "Subject" portion of the card catalogue is now being improved by the insertion of several hundred new guide cards lettered with the main and sub-headings of subjects. This improvement will greatly facilitate the use of this part of the catalogue. All additions to the class of English fiction that have been made since the last editions of the Fiction Catalogue was printed July 1, 1894, are to be found in the card catalogue under the appropriate heading.

THE REFERENCE DEPARTMENT.

The use of this department has been greater than in any former year. Some of the important additions of reference works recently made are :

- The American Catalogue, 1890-95.
- Appleton—Annual Cyclopædia, 1894.
- Bien—New York State Atlas, 1895.
- Burke—Landed Gentry, 1894, 2 vols.
- Griffiths—Micrographic Dictionary, last ed.
- International Cyclopædia of Surgery, Vol. VII.
- Kuenemann—Decorative American Wild Flowers.
- Larned—History for Ready Reference, Vol. V.
- Longfellow—Cyclopædia of Architecture.
- Mott—Yachts and Yachtsmen of America, 2 vols.
- National Cyclopædia of American Biography, Vol. VI.
- Racinet—Polychromatic Ornament, Vol. I.
- Sargent—Silva of North America, Vol. VIII.
- Soderholz—Colonial Architecture.
- Wallis—American Colonial Architecture, etc.

CLASSES.

Prof. T. J. Ellinwood has conducted his classes in Phonography and Typewriting in the Library building as in past years.

READING ROOMS.

The removal of the newspaper and periodical rooms to the second floor has been found satisfactory to our readers. It is more quiet and secluded than when located on the main floor. The Sunday attendance for 44 afternoons, March 3d to June 30th and September 1st to February 23d, 1896, was

Ladies .....	116
Gentlemen .....	2,103
Total.....	2,219

DISTRICT DELIVERIES.

Five thousand four hundred and one volumes were delivered at the branch stations in 1895. The stations now in use are :

W. A. Aspinwall, Fulton street and Franklin avenue.
 Andrews & Manney, Flatbush avenue, cor. Seventh avenue.
 F. C. Cutts, 981 Fulton street, cor. St. James' place.
 L. T. Perkins, 19 Greene avenue, cor. Cumberland street.
 Livingston & Underwood, 570 Bedford avenue, cor. Taylor street.

Considerable business has been done in exchanging books at the residences of members. This is done at the usual charge of five cents for each delivery, or ten cents where the distance is so great as to require two car fares.

MEMBERSHIP.

The receipts from annual memberships during the year have been $9,836.93. The number of members on March 1st was as follows :

Annual members (who have paid their subscriptions to March 1, 1896) .....	1,543
Extra annual subscriptions at $3.00 (to March 1, 1896).....	355

PERMANENT MEMBERS—George A. Thayer, Josiah O. Low, J. J. Merrian, Abraham B. Baylis, William C. Sheldon.

NEWSPAPER CLIPPINGS.

The work in this direction, which was almost entirely suspended during the period of repairs and alterations of last year, was resumed during the summer months. The reserve stock of clippings was examined and classified, and from selected subjects 16 cases were filled and added to the collection, which now numbers 91 volumes. An extended list of the subjects now contained in the collection is appended :

MAPS AND PAMPHLETS.

The usual donations of their fine maps have been received from the U. S. Geological Survey and the War Department, Washington, D. C.

The pamphlets now number 13,005. These have been newly classified and arranged on the tables and shelving in the document rooms in the upper part of the building.

LIGHTS.

The expense of lighting the building from March 1, 1895, to February 29, 1896, has been $1,058.00 against $1,032.39 in 1894; an increase of $25.61 over last year, which is due to disuse of lights during alterations to the building at that time.

FINANCES.

Aside from the ordinary revenues of the Library the Trustees have this year received a generous bequest from the late Charles Rollin Lynde, of $10,000, which, by resolution, has been constituted the "Lynde Fund." Mr. Lynde was a frequent and welcome visitor to the Library, and passed many hours in the Reading Room and Reference Department. His generous legacy is a most gratifying acknowledgment of his appreciation of the importance and usefulness of the Brooklyn Library, and the institution is greatly indebted to him for his kindly remembrance.

For the Board of Directors,

JAMES L. MORGAN, JR.,

REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES OF THE BROOKLYN LIBRARY.

To the Board of Directors of the Brooklyn Library:

The Trustees submit the following report of the finances of the Library for the current year, ending Feb. 29, 1896:

Apart from the ordinary revenues, they have come into possession of the amount of a bequest from the late Charles Rollin Lynde which, by resolution, has been constituted the "Lynde Fund," the income from which is fixed at 5 per cent., and as such will hereafter be separately paid over to the Board of Directors. This bequest has been appropriated towards the purchase price of the premises No. 154 Pierrepont street, newly acquired by the Library. The remainder of the cost of this property has been temporarily provided by a loan of $10,000 from the Long Island Loan and Trust Company, made by the Board of Directors provisionally, and since assumed by the Trustees.

To the Trustees of the Brooklyn Library:

The Executive Committee report that the rentable property of the Library has been let for the ensuing year at rates estimated to bring in for payment to the Board of Directors about $10,700. The only vacancy at present is the building No. 152 Pierrepont street, which if let will bring in $600 or $700 additional. The office buildings have been kept in their usual condition.

For the Committee,

W. A. WHITE,

Chairman.

Dated BROOKLYN, March 10, 1896.

REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES OF THE CARY FUND.

---

To the Board of Directors of the Brooklyn Library:

On behalf of the Trustees of the "Cary Fund," I beg to report, in accordance with the provisions of the Trust, that the principal of the Trust remains invested in a mortgage loan to the Library Corporation, on its property No. 152 Pierrepont street, at five per cent.

At the date of last year's report there remained an unexpended balance of income amounting to $13.67, and there has been received since one year's interest of $250. The Trustees have expended, in the purchase of suitable books, the sum of $248.93, representing 39 volumes selected from the current purchases of the Library, and these volumes have been duly marked and entered as gifts to the Library from the Fund.

There remains an unexpended balance of income of $14.74.

Which is respectfully submitted.

JAMES H. FROTHINGHAM,
Treasurer.

Dated BROOKLYN, March 26, 1896.

EXTRACTS FROM A PAPER ON THE BROOKLYN LIBRARY.

BY

MISS L. F. TWEEDY, Assistant in the Library.

[Read before the Woman's Club of Brooklyn, March 9, 1896.]

No one, I think, who has not been in some way practically connected with the administration of a large library, can have an adequate idea of the great amount of money needed to carry on the work with any degree of success.

The Brooklyn Library has never been a rich institution, and at present, compared with some others, it is considered poor. And yet, after its organization, now nearly forty years ago, $250,000 was subscribed for a building fund ; later, $50,000 for buying books ; from time to time it has had donations amounting to over $100,000, and the collection of books on its shelves would cost $200,000 to replace. This, in all, makes an aggregate of more than half a million dollars, and yet we are reckoned a poor Library. We have no rent to pay ; our property and buildings are almost wholly unencumbered ; we receive the usual quota of gifts in the way of books, periodicals and pamphlets, and in some instances, money, but we are poor. And this because, notwithstanding the most careful economy and constant watchfulness, our available money is insufficient for our requirements. What we need—what any institution of the size and scope of ours would need—in addition to the equipment of building and books, is a fund of at least half a million dollars, the income of which would enable us, instead of limiting our purchases to the absolutely essential books, to cover fairly well the larger class of highly desirable books. In a city of the size and intelligence of Brooklyn, what a pittance is $4,000 a year for books ! Yet that amount is all that it is possible to set aside from the yearly receipts for this purpose. * * * * *

When the Mercantile Library Association of Brooklyn was established in the Athæneum, in 1858, it had a collection of 4,000 volumes. Now, the Brooklyn Library, in its present building, has 130,000 volumes, and it is a collection of which any library might be justly proud. Book collecting is like stamp collecting—let a person's attention once be directed exclusively to it, and it becomes a mania. A librarian would rather add a good book to his collection than be President of the United States. Partly by donation, partly through suggestions from readers, but chiefly by indefatigable sifting out of the best from the tons of literature published annually, our collection is expanded by a yearly increase of about 4,000 volumes, ranging from the work of large expense and eminent literary value to the booklet of smallest cost and evanescent demand. Among our books may be found such works as Racinet's Costume, for which some $200 was paid ; a set of Sir Walter Scott and one of Ruskin costing about $250 apiece ; Kingsborough's Mexican Antiquities which, though a donation to us, represents a large amount of money ; the illustrated Bible, and sets of pictures from the old world galleries, valued at from $500 to $600 each. Scattered all through the collection are rare or old books whose loss it would be impossible to supply, and whose value approaches, in some cases, $100 for a small volume. The collection is stronger in some directions than in others. Theology, for instance, is one of our finest divisions, and no class of men get more benefit out of it than the clergymen of Brooklyn, many of whom are familiar figures in our Library. History and Travels is another strong class, followed closely by Biography, as might be attested by the numerous applicants for admission to the " Daughters of the Revolution " and " Colonial Dames " Societies, who come to the Reference Room for their pedigrees. Science, Philosophy, Poetry and Drama, are all well represented. Law and Medicine are less full ; but these are departments of special rather than general interest ; the books belonging to them are numerous and expensive ; and there are both a Law Library and a Medical Library established in the city. * * *

This Library was the first to introduce the circulation of music as books, and the experiment has been a marked success from the first. The collection, mostly classical and by the more noted composers, was largely increased recently through the kindness of Mr. Paul Tidden, who on his visit to Europe selected for us a fine assortment from the best sheet music and operas, which we have bound, and each piece circulates the same as a book. The class now contains 1,500 vols. There are also books on the History, Theory and Practice of Music, and some on Musical Instruments ; and there is a classed catalogue of the collection which makes it available to those who wish to use it.

The Library collects and classifies newspaper clippings as a supplement to its Reference Collection, the object being to make of advantage much valuable material that would otherwise be lost, as it is for the most part matter not to be found in book form. Although this is but one of the side features of the Library, much time and pains have been bestowed upon the selection, clipping and mounting of these scraps. There are now 90 volumes, or boxes, of which 32 are biography, and each contains about 50 sheets, or pages, of clippings. This division is much used, and has been characterized as " one of the best collections of newspaper clippings in the country."

There are also good and, for the most part, complete files of the newspapers themselves, including the New York and Brooklyn daily papers, and most of the religious and secular weeklies, the back numbers of which may be had on application.

The Library stock room contains a large number of United States, State and official documents, mostly given by the government. There is also a set of Patent Office reports, while the collection of pamphlets on all sorts of subjects, by all sorts of authors, now aggregates some 13,000, all of which are carefully indexed by subject as well as by author. This department also has the reputation of being better than most.

A very much used, though from the general standpoint a very uninteresting class of books, is the collection of directories. The directories of more than one hundred cities in the United States may be consulted in the Reference Room, and the frequency and satisfaction with which they are used assure us that they are appreciated. .

Probably the most valuable and the most used book in the whole collection is the Brooklyn Library Catalogue. The work, published in 1881, was prepared by the late librarian, Mr. S. B. Noyes, with great care, and it has a national reputation, having been circulated to all parts of the United States, and to some extent abroad. It is continued in the form of a card catalogue on the same plan ; and a printed bulletin of additions is published once a year, or oftener, which is widely circulated.

On the second floor of the Library Building are the Reading and Reference Rooms. The Reading Room is supplied with some 300 periodicals—the daily papers of Brooklyn and other cities, and most of the prominent weekly and illustrated papers and monthly magazines, together with a selected library of 3,000 volumes of general literature, from which one may take a book to read in the room. Adjoining the Reading Room is the Reference Department, which has been dubbed the Student's Mecca. Here are cyclopædias of all kinds—general, biographical, scientific, medical and law; bound volumes of the newspapers; atlases and gazetteers; directories; almanacs; English dictionaries, from the venerable Johnson to the new Century and Standard, and dictionaries of foreign languages. Dictionaries of politics, dictionaries of philosophy, compendiums of almost everything, sets of bound magazines—all accessible to the reader, together with a free draught on any book or books in the whole 130,000 on demand. * * * * *

As a working library the Brooklyn Library is in the first rank. The New York Herald refers to it as "one of the best working libraries that we have," and often is it similarly praised by writers and students who come for knowledge and go away satisfied. Its aim and plan is to make itself as useful as possible, as cheaply as possible, to as many people as possible; and it feels it can better serve this purpose in its present capacity as a subscription library than if it were—as many would like to have it—free. Amid the present wide discussion of the Free Library project, abundant has been the speculation as to the attitude and disposition of our Library toward the movement, and many have been the suggestions made to us. The Brooklyn Library is in favor of a great Free Public Library for Brooklyn. It can say to the Free Library "there is room in the world for thee and me." In the Public Library of Boston there are circulated one and one-half millions of books in a year, yet several subscription libraries, larger than any in Brooklyn, thrive in Boston. Brooklyn has twice the population of Boston—let it have a large Free Library, with branches throughout the city, for the masses of people who cannot, or will not pay. Brooklyn is situated "at the chief center of wealth and intelligence and influence" in the country—let it have the subscription libraries with room and quiet for the student who considers $5 a year cheap for the knowledge and accommodation he gains; for the writer who for the outlay of $5 a year is enabled to make his living—thousands of dollars worth of information for less than two cents a day; for the man or woman of means and leisure, who does not need to depend on the free library, and who does not wish to submit to the conditions it must necessarily impose. "In Brooklyn," one of our directors has said, "there will always be a class of people who will prefer to pay for what they get." The Library, since its inception, has increased its advantages thirtyfold, and every year still further amplifies them; yet the cost of membership remains the same. Because of this subscription fee there is a limit to the number who use the Library, and because of this limit there is quiet and room and time for all who come—room for the literary worker to stay as long as he desires; time to give assistance to him; time for a member to be addressed as "Mrs. Smith," for example, and not (as one complained of a free library) to be shrieked at as "16,524." There is also room for more members—plenty of room. That we have but three thousand names out of one million cannot be for the lack of five dollars—cannot be for the lack of intelligence. It may be because, in this day of many excellent things, people need to have their attention "personally conducted," as it were, to the best, lest they take the substitute nearest at hand. Just here would, perhaps, be room for some judicious advertising, making, however, a material additional expense—which brings us back to our first premise—money.

THIRTY-NINTH ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE BROOKLYN LIBRARY.

---

To the Members of the Brooklyn Library :

With the present, the Library enters on the fortieth year of its existence. The statistics given below show an increase, since last year's report, in membership, in book-circulation, and in the business generally. The amount spent for books has been somewhat more than last year, while expenses in some other directions have been slightly reduced. Considering the prevailing depression in business, the statistics given show that the Library is appreciated and that it is doing good work. As an evidence of its value as a working collection, it may be stated that the membership lists include the names of men of science and of literary workers who reside in New York but come to Brooklyn to make use of the Brooklyn Library.

BOOKS.

A large number of desirable books have, during the year, been added to the collection. $4,165.20 has been paid for the 2,860 volumes bought, the average cost per volume being a little more than last year. Fiction heads the list, with 1,100 volumes. History and Geography come next, 848 volumes; Science and Industrial Arts 506 volumes. Biography shows an increase of 268 volumes.

The following is a classified table of the additions :

MUSIC.

Two hundred volumes of new music have, this year, been added to the Library, thereby increasing the popularity of this department. In many cases a volume comprises several selections bound together. The 200 volumes contain several hundred separate compositions. The selections are largely of recent publications of pianoforte sheet music for two and four hands, and are mostly the works of the modern French and German composers. They were chosen with great care by Mr. Royal L. Porter, organist, of this city.

This department now numbers about 2,000 volumes, and its annual circulation is estimated at 6,000.

BULLETINS AND CATALOGUES.

The annual 24-page bulletin of additions was printed in December, 1896, 12,000 copies of which were distributed by mail as an advertisement of the Library and the advantages it offers to subscribers. Twelve pages were occupied by the selections made from American and English books, four pages by the new music, and four pages by English fiction. The outside pages were taken up by magazine lists and advertising. The weekly lists of additions are to be seen at the Library, and are published with their usual courtesy by the Brooklyn press.

REFERENCE WORK.

This department grows steadily in usefulness and popularity, the number of readers having largely increased during the past year. Every effort is made to render available our excellent collection of books, and to assist in every way possible those who come to the reference room. Liberal appreciation has been expressed and shown by writers and students for the facilities we have been able to offer and which we hope still further to increase. Some of the important works of reference recently added are:

- American and English Cyclopædia of law, new ed., Vols. I.-II.
- Botticelli—Drawings for Dante's Divina Commedia.
- Burke—Landed Gentry of Gt. Britain, 8th ed.
- Fairbairn—Book of Crests, new ed., 2 vols.
- Gerard—Life of Meissonier.
- Historisches Portraitwerk, 6 vols.
- Harper—Dictionary of Classical Literature and Antiquities, new ed.
- Hunter—Imperial Gazetteer of India, 14 vols.
- Library of the World's Best Literature, Vols. I.-IV.
- Lydecker—Royal Natural History, 6 vols.
- Representative Works of Contemporary American Artists.

Sumner—History of Banking in all Nations, 4 vols.

Thorpe—Dictionary of Chemistry, 3 vols.

Sargent—Silva of N. America, Vols. IX.—X.

Vasari—Lives of the Painters, new illustrated ed., 4 vols.

READING ROOMS.

These rooms now contain the current files of 49 American and English newspapers, 51 business and illustrated journals, and 228 periodicals of various kinds ; in all 328 publications. Their use has been rather greater than last year. The Sunday attendance for 44 afternoons, March 1 to June 28, and September 6 to February 28, was :

Women .....	125
Men .....	1,816
Total .....	1,941

DISTRICT DELIVERIES.

Six thousand, one hundred and sixty-four volumes were delivered through the branch-stations in 1896. The stations now in use are :

The following deaths have been noted since our last report:

LIFE MEMBERS—Charles B. Caldwell, Roswell S. Benedict, P. H. Duryea, Miss Ellen Thurston, Henry H. Dickenson, D. M. Cumiskey.

PERMANENT MEMBERS — Walter T. Hatch, Aaron Healey, W. S. Herriman, Samuel E. Howard, Fitch J. Stranahan, James P. Wallace, Lyman S. Burnham.

CLUBS.

Several associations exist within the membership of the Library for the purpose of obtaining reduced rates of subscription or other advantages. The "Packer" and "Adelphi" Clubs are examples of organizations holding membership in this manner. The "Northport Club" was made up last summer, its members paying the regular rate of subscription, $5.00 each per annum, but with the agreement on the part of the Library to pay the expenses of the delivery and return of a package of books each week. This plan has been found quite satisfactory to all parties concerned, and the Library is ready to make the same arrangement in other places, when a membership of, at least, twenty, is guaranteed. In cases of this kind blank book-lists and catalogues are supplied by the Library for the use of members of the local club. The Engineers' Club, an organization composed of members of the various branches of this profession, such as Civil, Mechanical, Electrical and Marine Engineers, now numbers nearly 100 members, and has the exclusive use of a room in the Library building, where books and periodicals relating to the subject of engineering are kept on file and for ready reference for the use of members of the club.

NEWSPAPER CLIPPINGS.

Three cases of selected clippings have been added to this department: one in biography, one in local history (New York City), and one upon the subject of Genealogy and Family History. This will be indexed, as have already been the volumes of Biography. The collection now comprises 94 cases.

A large and valuable donation of 137 cases and boxes of clippings was recently made for this department by Miss Berian of 169 Washington Park. This collection will be classified and utilized as fast as time can be spared for the work.

MAPS AND PAMPHLETS.

Gifts of maps have been received from the U. S. Geological Survey, including Nos. 1-30 of the new Geologic Atlas. The series of maps to accompany the War of the Rebellion Records is now complete and furnished with a printed index. The total number of maps and charts of the U. S. Coast Survey now in the Library is 473.

1,150 pamphlets have been received since last year. Our collection of pamphlets now numbers 14,150.

LIGHTS.

The cost of lighting the building from March 1, 1896, to February 28, 1897, has been $927.29 against $1,058.00 in 1895, a decrease of $130.71 from last year's expense for this purpose.

In 1890 and 1895 the Directors considered it desirable to acquire the property immediately adjoining, and in the rear of the Library, at 152 and 154 Pierrepont street, it being probable that an extension of the Library premises would be necessary within a few years. The buildings bought were old and not in good condition and it was thought wise to defer making extensive alterations and repairs. Since its purchase the property has been leased for only a portion of the time and the cost of carrying it has considerably exceeded the income received from rentals. Last year there was an excess of expenses over income from this property or $1,500. The deficiency was made up by gifts already referred to, whereby the work of the Library and the purchase of books were kept up to the usual standard. Repairs are now being made to No. 152, and a tenant is expected when it has been put in good order. The building No. 154 is still occupied at a moderate rental.

For the Board of Directors,

JAMES L. MORGAN, JR.,

REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES OF THE BROOKLYN LIBRARY.

To the Board of Directors of the Brooklyn Library:

The Trustees submit the following report of the finances of the Library for the current year, ending February 28, 1897:

The revenues for the year have been derived solely from rentals of the property of the Corporation. The property No. 152 Pierrepont street has remained unoccupied and unproductive during this period and the sum of $34.65 has been expended in repairs for its proper preservation. A further appropriation from the general income, of $87.34, has been made towards the expenses incident to the acquisition of the property No. 154 Pierrepont street in order to fix the cost thereof upon our books at the exact sum of $20.000.

REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES OF THE CARY FUND.

To the Board of Directors of the Brooklyn Library :

On behalf of the Trustees of the "Cary Fund," I have to report, in accordance with the provisions of the Trust, that the principal of the Trust remains invested in a mortgage loan to the Library Corporation, on its property, No. 152 Pierrepont street, at five per cent.

There remained, at the date of the last report, March 26, 1896, an unexpended balance of income of $14.74, and there has been received the interest for one year, amounting to $250. The trustees have expended in the purchase of books the sum of $249.83, representing 36 volumes, which have been selected from the current purchases of the Library, and have been duly marked and entered as gifts to the Library from the Fund.

The unexpended balance of income is $14.91. Which is respectfully submitted.

JAMES H. FROTHINGHAM,

Treasurer.

Dated BROOKLYN, March 12, 1897.

FORTIETH ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE BROOKLYN LIBRARY.

To the Members of the Brooklyn Library :

It is now forty years since the Library began its work in the Athenæum building, at the corner of Atlantic and Clinton streets. The first election of officers was held on the 23d of December, 1857, when directors were chosen and committees on "Library," "Finance," "Lectures," and "Superintendence" were appointed. Lectures were delivered during 1858 by Rev. R. S. Storrs, Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, Rev. E. H. Chapin, Geo. Wm. Curtis, Bayard Taylor and others. The number of volumes on the shelves on May 1, 1858, was 7,000. At the present time the collection contains over 131,000 volumes, an average annual growth of 3,275 volumes since the start. The statistics of the Library's business for the past year are presented as follows :

BOOKS.

Purchases during the year amount to 2,725 volumes, and the receipt from donations and other sources makes a total of 5,427. This has been largely reduced by 442 volumes sent to the Government at Washington for exchange, and the shipment of a collection of over 2,000 volumes of duplicates to the auction room. The net increase is thus reduced to 2,829 volumes instead of the usual average of 4,000 volumes, but space is gained, and the average value of the collection improved by the disposal of superfluous stock, the accumulation of several years.

The following is a classified table of the additions :

DUPLICATE BOOKS.

Last year the total of duplicates was 2,357 volumes, besides a small number of duplicate State and local documents, 729 volumes being added during the year and 2,091 volumes sold at auction. Three hundred and fifty-four volumes, Government documents, have been returned to Washington for the benefit of those who need them.

The account now stands as follows:

Duplicate volumes on hand, March 1, 1897.....	2,357
Added, 1897-'98.....	729
		<hr/>
		3,086

The following have deceased since our last report :

PERMANENT.—John T. Martin, Franklin Woodruff,
 William T. Buckley.

LIFE MEMBERS.—Aaron Field, Charles L. Boorum,
 Stephen H. Camp, Edward H. Arnold, Michael Chauncey,
 Stephen Condit, George A. Bell, Dwight Johnson, William B. Kendall, Theodore Dreier, Coe Adams.

BULLETINS AND CATALOGUES.

Bulletin of additions, No. 36, was printed in December and 12,000 copies were distributed as an advertisement of the Library.

Five pages of the Bulletin were given to English Fiction, a page to Music and Foreign Works, and fourteen pages to a selection from the best books in other classes that have been acquired during the year.

The Card Catalogue, which contains all additions, has been kept complete to date by authors, titles and subjects. Special type-written lists of books and magazine articles on current topics, such as "Cuba," "Hawaii," "The Klondike," etc., are placed on the tables in the Book-Delivery Room and the Reference Department. The weekly lists of additions are posted near the Card Catalogues, and are published with their usual courtesy by the Brooklyn press.

NEWSPAPER CLIPPINGS.

Four cases have been added to this department, one each in Biography, Botany, Coins and Medals, and in the local history of New York City. The collection now contains 95 boxes or volumes. There is a large quantity of material collected for use in this direction, but as time can only be spared for the work in the summer, growth is slow. The clippings, so far as they have been developed, have been found quite useful, and repay the time spent in their preparation, as they contain matter not usually to be found elsewhere.

MAPS AND PAMPHLETS.

Additional sheets of the U. S. Geologic Atlas have been sent from the office of publication in Washington. Also 1,158 pamphlets have been received. The collection, exclusive of duplicates, now numbers over 15,000.

ENGINEERS' CLUB.

The collection of scientific works shelved in the Engineers' Club Room has been materially increased by additions of recent publications, and the whole collection has been rearranged and renumbered with shelf numbers adapted to the contents of this room. The sum of $123.70 has been expended during the past year in subscriptions for new and for back volumes to complete sets of older engineering periodicals for the club. This accounts, for the most part, for the increase of $126.94 as compared with last year's report, in the item of periodicals.

FUND LABELS.

It has been the custom for many years to affix a special book-plate to books purchased by its Trustees from the income of the Cary fund. Labels have now been designed and printed to designate books bought from the income of other special funds and bequests belonging to the Library.

These are as follows :

The Alexander M. White Fund.
The John T. Martin Fund.
The Loftis Wood Bequest.
The Charles R. Lynde Bequest.
The Maria Cary Bequest.

REFERENCE WORK.

The constantly increasing use of the Reference Department gives evidence of the growing appreciation of our collection as a working or reference library. The Reference Room has been visited and used during the past year by upwards of 15,000 persons, many of them students of the Packer and Polytechnic Institutes, to whom the department is made available.

There are now over 2,000 volumes shelved in the room besides books of reference placed elsewhere in their various classes. The collection of Atlases, Directories, Almanacs, Newspapers, and Magazines have shown particularly increased use. The first volume of the large new atlas, mounted on linen, of Greater New York has been bought, and among other important additions to the department are the following :

Am. and Engl. Cyclopædia of Law, 2d Ed., Vols. 3-6.
Appleton's Annual Cyclopædia, 1896.
Bibliographica, 3 Vols.
Bliss, Cyclopædia of Social Reform.

Burke, Peerage, edition of 1898.
 Commercial Directory American Republics, Vol. 1.
 Edwards, Butterflies of the United States, Vol. 3.
 Gibson, London.
 Hawthorne, Literature of all nations, Vols. 1-7.
 Morris, French Illustrations, Folio.
 Musée de Cluny, 2 Vols.
 Nat. Cyclop. Amer. Biography, Vol. 7.
 Newton, Dictionary of Birds.
 Parkman, Works, Champlain Ed., Vols. 1-16.
 Ridpath, Universal History, 16 Vols.
 Seidl, Music of the Modern World, 2 Vols.
 Sienkiewicz, Quo Vadis, Illus. ed., 2 Vols.
 Sloan, Life Napoleon Buonaparte, 4 Vols.
 Warner, Library World's Best Literature, 30 Vols.

READING ROOMS.

These have been well patronized. In addition to the current files of 330 periodicals and newspapers in the rooms, bound sets of the magazines most in use are kept near at hand in the alcoves adjoining this room and the Reference Hall. Bound files of the Brooklyn newspapers are shelved in the Reference Room, where they are readily accessible and are much used. A few of the least important periodicals were dropped on the first of the year, and their places filled with others more in request.

The Sunday Reading Room attendance for 43 days, March 27 to June 27, and September 5 to February 27, 1898, was as follows:

Women .....	149
Men.....	1,735
Total.....	1,884

FINANCES.

REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES OF THE BROOKLYN LIBRARY.

To the Board of Directors of the Brooklyn Library :

The Trustees submit the following report of the finances of the Library for the current year ending February 28, 1898 :

The revenues for the year have again been derived solely from rentals of the property of the Association. The property No. 152 Pierrepont street was early in the year repaired, at considerable expense, to fit it for occupancy. The tenant, however, remained but a portion of the year, and it has since been vacant. For the coming year all the premises of the Library have been rented. The insurance rates for the ensuing year have also been favorably modified, whereby a material saving in premium will be made.

Subsequent to the Report of March 11, 1897, the amounts of fire insurance upon the Library property were changed so as to increase the insurance upon books and to reduce that upon the office buildings Nos. 193 and 201 Montague street. The insurances as so modified have been continued for the coming year, and are as follows:

AMOUNTS OF INSURANCE AGAINST FIRE:

On the Library Building .....	$70,000
On Books, etc .....	100,000
On Furniture, Fixtures, etc .....	7,500
On No. 193 Montague Street .....	12,500
On No. 201 Montague Street .....	12,500
On No. 152 Pierrepont Street .....	5,550

Which is respectfully submitted, by order of the Board of Trustees.

JAS. H. FROTHINGHAM,

Treasurer.

Dated BROOKLYN, March 17, 1898.

REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES OF THE CARY FUND.

---

To the Board of Directors of the Brooklyn Library:

On behalf of the Trustees of the "Cary Fund," I have to report, in accordance with the provisions of the Trust, that the principal of the Trust remains invested in a mortgage loan to the Library Corporation, on its property No. 152 Pierrepont street, at five per cent.

There remained at the date of the last report, March 12, 1897, an unexpended balance of income of $14.91, and there has been received the interest for one year, amounting to $250. The Trustees have expended in the purchase of books the sum of $250.49, representing 59 volumes, which have been selected from the current purchases of the Library, and have been duly marked and entered as gifts to the Library from the Fund.

The unexpended balance of income is $14.42. Which is respectfully submitted.

JAS. H. FROTHINGHAM,

Treasurer.

Dated BROOKLYN, March 7, 1898.

---

BROOKLYN, March 11, 1898.

To the Board of Trustees of the Brooklyn Library:

In accordance with Section 2 of Article IV. of the By-Laws, the following report of the Executive Committee is respectfully submitted for the year ending February 28, 1898.

The Trust Funds of the Library continue to be, as for a number of years past, invested in the property immediately adjacent to the Library Building. The buildings have been kept in good order during the past year. An expenditure of $574 was made on No. 152 Pierrepont street, and a lease of this building has just been made for three years at $600 per annum. The rental value of offices vacant during the past year has amounted to about $1,500. For the ensuing year, the gross rentals are $13,400, and there is one office not yet actually rented, estimated at $600.

The investment in the buildings Nos. 152 and 154 Pierrepont street, which cost the Library $45,000, continues to be a very unremunerative one, the net return for the year being $122.

THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE,

By W. A. WHITE,

Chairman.

FORTY-FIRST ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE BROOKLYN LIBRARY.

---

To the Members of the Brooklyn Library :

For another year our Library has quietly but effectively continued its work of usefulness in the community. More than the usual number of books have been acquired by purchase and through donations from friends, a liberal supply of the most recent literature has been promptly placed before the public, the library buildings have been kept in good repair and some needed improvements made. The following statistics present the Library's work and progress during the twelve months since our last report :

BOOKS.

Two thousand five hundred and twelve volumes were purchased, and the receipts from donations and other sources added to this make a total of 14,948 net additions. This includes the fine library presented by Mr. James A. H. Bell, which will be mentioned under the head of "Donations."

The following is a classified table of the year's additions :

FOREIGN WORKS.

One hundred and thirty-three volumes of recent French and German Books have been added.

MUSIC.

Eighty-five volumes have been supplied for this department, thirty of which were works upon the history and theory of music.

DONATIONS.

On June 30, 1898, this corporation received from Mr. James A. H. Bell, of this city, the valuable gift of his entire library, together with book-cases and other furniture designed for its accommodation. This collection, the result of some forty years of enthusiastic labor and research, contains 10,425 volumes, classified as follows:

History, Geography, Travels, etc., 2,498 volumes.

Poetry, Drama, Essays, 1,534 volumes.

Biography, 1,448 volumes.

Biblical Literature, 920 volumes.

Bound Periodicals, 706 volumes.

Miscellaneous, works in sets, etc., 665 volumes.

Fiction, 627 volumes.

Philosophy, Language, Education, 438 volumes.

Foreign Languages, 401 volumes.

Science and Industrial Arts, 368 volumes.

Political, Social and Economic Science, 353 volumes.

Natural History, 257 volumes.

Fine Arts, etc., 210 volumes.

Mr. Bell has visited many parts of the world, and has taken special interest in collecting books relating to those foreign countries visited by him. The catalogue of this collection was prepared personally by Mr. Bell, and is a record of intelligent and discriminating industry. The books have all been analyzed, entries made under subject headings, as well as under authors, and an important quantity of printed matter, wood cuts, maps, engravings, etc., is inlaid, illustrating the numerous and interesting topics treated upon throughout the work. The whole is substantially bound in sixty-nine royal octavo volumes, and is worthy of careful examination by the literary student and those interested in the art of cataloguing. This munificent gift has been placed by itself on the third floor of the Library's building, 193 Montague street, where it is accessible to members, through the general reading-room, and forms the most valuable adjunct to the Reference Department received by the Library for many years past.

The Library has also received from 374 donors, 2,080 volumes, 1,912 pamphlets and 6,956 numbers of periodicals, library bulletins and transactions of societies. Some gifts of more than usual value were from the donors mentioned below :

From Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, 98 volumes.

DUPLICATE BOOKS.

The number of volumes of duplicates on hand, March 1, 1898, was 641. Net additions during the year, 884. Total now on hand, 1,525 volumes.

CIRCULATION.

The total of volumes taken out for home reading was 88,941.

	1897. Volumes.	1898. Volumes.
First Quarter .....	29,565	27,357
Second Quarter.....	25,164	23,306
Third Quarter .....	16,789	14,728
Fourth Quarter .....	26,012	23,550
Total .....	97,530	88,941

The circulation through six district deliveries has been 4,598 volumes. The stations now in use are :

W. A. Aspinwall, Fulton street and Franklin avenue.

Kleine & Ancelin, Flatbush avenue, corner Seventh avenue.

F. C. Cutts, 981 Fulton street, corner St. James place.

Albert E. Marsland, 19 Greene avenue, corner Cumberland street.

Total membership on March 1, 1899 .....	2,508
Total membership on March 1, 1898 .....	2,631
Decrease .....	123

There have been the following deaths of permanent and life members since our last report :

PERMANENT.—Benjamin Bryer, E. H. R. Lyman, Alfred Merian.

LIFE.—Jacob Cole, Isaac L. Condit, Miss Sarah Luqueer, Dr. W. C. Otterson, Rev. Dr. C. S. Robinson, Frederick R. Ropes, William Vaughn Tupper.

BULLETINS AND CATALOGUES.

Bulletin No. 37 of additions to the Library was printed in December and 12,000 copies were distributed. Fifteen pages of the Bulletin were given to a selection from the best books in various departments acquired during the year, one page to music, a page to foreign books and five pages to English fiction.

The card catalogue of additions has been kept up to date, and the weekly lists of books received are displayed upon the bulletin boards and table, and are published with great courtesy by the Brooklyn press.

NEWSPAPER CLIPPINGS.

Four cases have been added to this collection. Two contain material relating to the Colonial and Revolutionary periods of United States history, the War of 1812 and the Mexican War. Two others treat of the recent British campaigns in the Soudan. A quantity of material for clippings has been donated by Dr. C. H. Raymond, by Dr. C. D. Cook and by Dr. Mascord of this city. Number of cases now in the collection, 104.

PAMPHLETS.

The total number of pamphlets added, exclusive of duplicates, was 912. The collection now contains over 16,000 pieces.

This year the pamphlets and the United States Documents have been readjusted and set in order, the latter receiving a shelf-number corresponding with a printed list forwarded by the United States Superintendent of Documents. This number is pasted on each volume and gives increased facilities for the identification of volumes and for producing them when required for reference.

ENGINEERS' CLUB.

This Club, the largest of several organizations of the kind connected with the Library, has now 141 members and is in a flourishing condition. The expenses chargeable to this department of the Library were:

For books.....	$177 71
For periodicals.....	100 15
For binding.....	33 20
For improvements.....	27 63
Total .....	$338 69

SPECIAL BOOK FUNDS.

The number of volumes purchased from special funds, with their cost, may be stated as follows:

	Volumes.	Amount.
From the Maria Cary bequest.....	218	$283 82
From the Charles R. Lynde bequest.....	258	430 00
From the Samuel B. Duryea bequest.....	4	24 97
From the Loftis Wood bequest.....	268	414 59
From the Cary Fund.....	79	248 13
From the John T. Martin gift.....	285	464 87
From the Alexander M. White gift.....	66	340 82
Total.....	1,178	$2,207 20

REFERENCE WORK.

The Reference Department contains 1,591 volumes shelved in the room and directly accessible to members, besides 990 volumes (editions-de-luxe, etc.), which are kept in the glass cases at the entrance to the rooms, and a large number of books of reference placed on the shelves of the Circulating Department for want of room in the Reference Department. These figures do not include the bound volumes of periodicals in alcoves adjoining the room, which in most libraries are used as books of reference, but in our library are allowed in most cases to circulate as soon as bound. During the year there were used for reference more than 27,000 volumes and there were given out for home use from this department 1,672 volumes. Fifteen thousand persons visited the room for purposes of reference, writing, or study.

Among the most important books added to the Department in the past year are the following:

American Ancestry, vol. 11.

Am. and Engl. Cyclopædia of Law, 2d ed., vols. 7-8.

Appleton's Annual Cyclopædia, 1897.

Appleton's Cyclopædic Am. Biography, rev. ed., 6 vols.

Century Atlas of the World.

Clifton & Grimaux, French Dictionary, 2 vols.

Hamilton & Legros, French Dictionary.

Hawthorne, Literature of all Nations, vols. 7-10.

Hyde & Co., Atlas Brooklyn Borough, vol. 2.

Japan, illustrated—photographs, etc.—10 vols.

Lee, Dictionary of National Biography, vols. 51-58.

Rand, McNally & Co., Business Atlas, 1898.

Robinson, Atlas Brooklyn, Wards 29-32.

Sargent, Silva of North America, vols. 11-12.

Spiers & Whitcomb, French Dictionary, 2 vols.

Wolverton, Atlas Queens County, L. I.

READING-ROOMS.

The average daily attendance has been much the same as last year. Several new periodicals have been added and our lists contain the leading journals and magazines of the day, both American and foreign. Numerous trades and professions are represented and a total of 324 publications are displayed, including both newspapers and magazines. Current volumes are kept on file for reference until completed, when they are bound and placed on the Library shelves for circulation. The use of the Reading-rooms alone may justly be considered an equivalent for the price of a subscription to the Library in the wide range of periodical literature supplied to our members.

The Sunday Reading-room attendance for forty-three afternoons, from March 6 to June 26, and from September 4, 1898, to February 26, 1899, was:

Women.....	154
Men.....	1,607
Total.....	1,761

SPECIAL WORK.

Since last report, the United States Documents shelved in the upper part of the Library have been numbered as already mentioned. An entirely revised shelf list of our bound sets of periodicals has been written out and bound in three volumes, ample room being left for many years' growth. The entire collection has been renumbered according to the new shelf lists. Great relief is afforded to this class, the lists of which have become overcrowded and the numbering complicated and involved.

TAXATION.

From 1827 to 1896 the State had recognized the value of libraries to the community by exempting from taxation both their real and personal property. In 1896 and 1897 there was a revision of the tax laws, which, as construed by the courts, limited the exemption of the real estate of libraries to that used exclusively for library purposes. We think it is just to have the tax law of 1896 and 1897 amended so that it will not be retroactive, but will make taxable only such real estate as has been acquired since 1895.

This unexpected change in the law affects the Brooklyn Library very seriously. We have at various times in the past invested our trust funds in real estate immediately adjacent to our main library building, partly to protect our light, partly to have ample room for expansion (both objects of such vital importance to libraries), and partly on account of the fact that the State law did not at that time, and has not for many years, discriminated against the investment by libraries of their funds in real estate. We are not aware that that exemption has been abused by libraries, or that there is any public sentiment in the community in favor of taking away from them the small assistance thus received from the State. If, however, the Legislature has fully decided to make a change in its policy in this respect, it is certainly only fair that its application should be limited to property acquired after the change in the law was made. In our case we could not sell our real estate without suffering a heavy pecuniary loss, and we should risk having to pay a much higher price if the Library should be obliged later to repurchase it.

Our Library was given a charter by the State in 1859 for the following purposes: "The establishment and maintenance of a reference and circulating library, reading-room, literary and scientific lectures, classes in the various departments of instruction, and other means for promoting the improvement of its members." In the forty years of its existence we have erected a library building at a cost, with the land adjacent, of $288,000, and have placed in it a collection of books that now amounts to 146,153 volumes, covering every department of literature. The money to accomplish these results has been obtained mostly by the voluntary contributions of public-spirited citizens.

In the five years ending March 8, 1898, our average annual receipts from members were about $10,000; average annual receipts from rental of real estate, $9,000. Under the change in the law, the assessors of the City of New York have now placed on our property, as liable to taxation, the unreasonable valuation of $215,000, which will oblige us to pay to the city nearly two-thirds of the amount of our annual rentals, i. e., about $5,600 annually in taxes.

The Library has no funds available from which to meet this unexpected exaction, and while we might be successful in an appeal to the public for money to buy books or to enlarge the library building, yet we doubt whether contributions would come in freely to a fund for the purpose of paying taxes to the city and State. Therefore, under the advice of the joint Boards of Directors and Trustees of the Library, a bill for an amendment to the law has been framed and introduced in the State Legislature exempting from taxation real estate of libraries adjacent to the main library building acquired previous to 1896, and of a net rental value not exceeding $15,000 per annum.

It is scarcely necessary to urge the importance to the community of the work done by libraries, or the impossibility of supporting and building them up on purely commercial lines. It is impossible for them to discharge their proper functions unless they receive pecuniary assistance, either from the State or from the gifts of public-spirited citizens, or from both sources. The amount that the State had contributed under the law, as it existed prior to 1896, was very moderate, and, with the limitations placed in the amendment as to the time of acquirement and amount of value, it would be impossible that the exemption could be abused. Such institutions as ours render public service in many ways, add to the attractiveness of residence in the communities in which they are established, and should be fostered and assisted by the State rather than restricted and oppressed by taxation.

For the Board of Directors,

JAMES L. MORGAN, JR.,
President.

REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES OF THE BROOKLYN LIBRARY.

---

To the Board of Directors of the Brooklyn Library:

The Trustees submit the following report of the finances of the Library for the current year ending February 28, 1899:

The ordinary revenues have been enlarged during the year by the receipt of the amount of the bequest of the late Edwin Baker, and of a payment on account of the bequest of the late Samuel Bowne Duryea; also by the proceeds of two life memberships.

These amounts, aggregating $4,200 have been applied to the reduction of the loan obligations of the Trustees, the balance of which is now $6,700.

The bequest of Mr. Duryea has been constituted a separate fund, designated the Duryea Fund. The other sums have been incorporated with the general fund, increasing the amount thereof to $43,989.39.

Early in the year it was found possible to secure a material reduction in insurance premiums by canceling the policies which had been taken out for a single year and renewing the insurance for the term of three years from May 1, 1898. This change was accordingly made. Since the reception of the Bell Library and Collections and their arrangement in the building No. 193 Montague street, a special insurance of $15,000 has been effected covering the Bell gifts.

REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES OF THE CARY FUND.

To the Board of Directors of the Brooklyn Library :

On behalf of the Trustees of the "Cary Fund," I have to report, in accordance with the provisions of the Trust, that the principal of the trust remains invested in a mortgage loan to the Library Corporation, on its property, No. 152 Pierrepont street, at five per cent.

There remained at the date of the last report, March 7, 1898, an unexpended balance of income of $14.42, and there has been received the interest for one year, amounting to $250. The Trustees have expended in the purchase of books the sum of $248.13, representing 79 volumes, which have been selected from the current purchases of the Library, and have been duly marked and entered as gifts to the Library from the Fund.

The unexpended balance of income is $16.29. Which is respectfully submitted.

JAS. H. FROTHINGHAM,

Treasurer.

Dated BROOKLYN, March 8, 1899.

---

BROOKLYN, March 9, 1899.

To the Board of Trustees of the Brooklyn Library :

In accordance with Section 2 of Article 4 of the By-Laws, the following report of the Executive Committee is respectfully submitted for the year ending February 28, 1899 :

The Trust Funds of the Library continue to be, as for many years past, invested in the real estate adjacent to the Library Building. The buildings have been kept in good physical condition during the past year. The west office on the main floor of the Library Building has been altered by putting in new partitions, painting, etc., at a total cost (including the purchase of an electric fan for ventilation) of $450. The office, on the second story of No. 201 Montague street, has been divided to suit a new tenant, and painted, at a total cost of about $250. A new gravel roof has been put on No. 154 Pierrepont street at a cost of $100, and the roof of No. 152 Pierrepont street has been repaired at a cost of $46.

The offices on the third story of No. 193 Montague street were last summer taken for library purposes and refurnished, and the collection of books given by Mr. James A. H. Bell, consisting of 10,425 volumes, was placed therein. As this office was of a rental value of $300 per annum, the income of the Library is diminished by that amount, and as the Library continues to grow, it is probable that it will be necessary to utilize some of the other buildings, or portions of them that are now rented.

Respectfully submitted for the Executive Committee,

WILLIAM AUGUSTUS WHITE,

Chairman.

FORTY-SECOND ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE BROOKLYN LIBRARY.

---

To the Members of the Brooklyn Library:

The Report for the past year, ending February 28th, is for the most part a simple statement of the business of the Library, its general growth, and the minor changes and improvements that have been made. Our literary resources have been materially increased by gifts of books from many friends, and by purchase of the best of the year's issue of American and English publications. Increased quantities of the very popular books have been bought to supply, as far as practicable, the demand for them while the public interest in them continued. Statistics of the Library's business for the past twelve months are given as follows:

BOOKS.

Two thousand eight hundred and sixty volumes were purchased, and the additions by binding and from donations and exchanges make a total of 5,622. This amount was reduced by works sold, exchanged, or worn out, by 2,099, leaving the net additions for the year 3,523 volumes.

The following table shows the year's additions and the total of volumes on February 28th :

BULLETINS AND CATALOGUES.

Bulletin No. 38 of additions to the Library was issued in December, 1899, and 12,000 copies were distributed. A feature of this Bulletin was a list of 155 volumes, mostly fiction, in the French, German, Spanish and Portuguese languages. The card catalogue of additions has been kept complete to date and becomes more valuable every year. The weekly lists of additions are bulletined and displayed in the Book Delivery Room and are published with great courtesy by the Brooklyn press. That the newspaper lists are a great convenience to the public is evidenced by the large number of readers who bring them to the Library when calling for books.

MAPS.

The Library has received from the United States Geological Survey, Washington, D. C., 247 Atlas sheets—completing to the present time their issues of these valuable maps. A list of the maps can be seen in the Reference Room.

NEWSPAPER CLIPPINGS.

Considerable new material was collected, but no new volumes were made up this year, owing to pressure of other and more important work.

PAMPHLETS.

The Library received during the year 3,600 pamphlets, library bulletins, publications of societies, etc. Of these some 2,500, exclusive of duplicates, were added to our pamphlet collection which now contains between 18,000 and 19,000 pieces. In this connection the attention of our readers is invited to the special bulletins issued by the United States Government, and which are placed from time to time on the bulletin board in the Delivery Room. These lists contain much valuable information upon various topics of current interest, such as our late war with Spain, the development of our Navy, the products and commerce of our new colonies, and other matters of public interest. The intention of the Government is to present this information while it is still fresh, and the bulletins and reports are issued at intervals in pamphlet form so as to reach the public in advance of the bound volumes of United States Documents. These periodical bulletins are kept for the use of readers in the Reference Room.

ENGINEERS' CLUB.

This Club last year had 150 members, the largest number since its organization. The outlay for this Department of the Library was:

For books. ....	$75 40
For periodicals. ....	145 75
For binding. ....	47 85
Total. ....	$269 00

SPECIAL BOOK FUNDS.

The following is a statement of the number of volumes purchased from the income of special funds, with their cost:

	Volumes.	Amount.
From the Maria Cary bequest.....	149	$244 13
From the Charles R. Lynde bequest. ....	218	398 54
From the Samuel B. Duryea bequest. ....	11	24 86
From the Loftis Wood bequest.....	210	380 56
From the Cary Fund. ....	67	256 09
From the John T. Martin gift. ....	217	419 67
From the Alexander M. White gift. ....	43	215 36

READING-ROOMS.

The daily attendance has been fully up to the average of past years. On some winter days the rooms are taxed to their utmost capacity. The periodical list has received some additions and contains the leading journals and magazines of the day, both American and foreign, among which many of the trades and professions are represented. The use of 323 publications on file in our Reading-rooms may alone be justly considered an equivalent for the price of a subscription to the Library, covering as it does so wide a range of literature. Current volumes of periodicals are kept on file for reference until completed, when they are bound and placed on the Library shelves for circulation. The Sunday attendance in the Reading-rooms for forty-three afternoons, from March 5 to June 25, and from September 3, 1899, to February 25, 1900, was:

Women. ....	145
Men ....	1,445
Total. ....	1,590

THE BELL COLLECTION.

The private library of over ten thousand volumes which was presented to the Brooklyn Library nearly two years ago by Mr. James A. H. Bell, and which has been given an appropriate home in the apartments adjoining the Reading-rooms, has grown in popularity during the past year. During the first year we had many visitors who were simply curious to see the collection. Last year the number of this class of visitors has diminished, and we have had an increasing class of readers who, taking advantage of the quiet and of the comfortable surroundings, come regularly to spend two or three hours at a time in the perusal of some interesting work in this most valuable collection. The privilege of direct access to the shelves of the Bell Library is appreciated by these readers who may thereby choose their companions of an hour. The student also finds in this collection that which is helpful in his particular line of study, the rare old books giving him at times what cannot be had in other parts of the Library.

REFERENCE WORK.

This year the Reference Department has grown in usefulness, although the growth by accession of books has not been so great as in some former years. Many valuable works have, however, been added, Warner's and Hawthorne's "Libraries of Literature," and "The World's Best Orations," are now completed, and with other large sets of books, as Parkman's Histories (20 volumes), Ruskin's Works (26 volumes), etc., are serviceable helps to workers. The first four volumes of the new Motley set (ed. de luxe) have also been received. The Department has been more largely in requisition than in any former year by the various schools in the vicinity, some of which have school memberships in the Library for the use of their teachers and pupils. The daily aggregate of outside requests for information from strangers and non-members, has been unprecedented. These have been answered as far as possible when not involving too much time or many books, and in other cases the inquirers have been urged to become members. The number of users, exclusive of strangers and school students, shows a slight increase. The latest reports and documents sent us by the United States Government and by the New York State Department have received shelves in the Reference Room and are shown, upon request, to any inquirer, and many have availed themselves of this privilege.

Among the new books of Reference are:

Appletons' Annual Cyclopedia, 1899.
 Bancroft, Book of the Fair, 2 vols.
 Bien, Atlas of Pennsylvania.
 Brewer, The World's Best Orations, 10 vols.
 Garland, Amer. and Engl. Cyclop. of Law, vols. 11-14.
 Hawthorne, Literature of all Nations, vol. 10.
 Lee, Dictionary of National Biography, vols. 59-61.
 Library of Congress (The), Plates.
 Motley, Dutch Republic, vols. 1-4 (ed. de luxe).
 Mulhall, Dictionary of Statistics, rev. ed.
 Robinson, Atlas of the Borough of Richmond.
 Tissot, Life of Christ, 4 vols. (colored plates).
 Trubner, Minerva (College Year Book), 1899-1900.
 Van Renssalaer, New York in the Nineteenth Century.
 Wagner & Kelley, Army and Navy of the United States.
 Who's Who? 1900.
 Who's Who in America? 1900.

A bill is before the State Legislature to relieve the Library from the tax which was placed upon its real estate adjacent to the Library Building by the Code Revision of 1897. This bill has been favored by the newspapers of Brooklyn and New York and by the reading public generally as equitable and desirable, but at the moment it is uncertain whether it will pass. Unless it does, it may become a serious question in the near future how to make adequate provision for the growth of the Library, an even and regular continuance of which is so essential to its greatest usefulness.

For the Board of Directors,

JAMES L. MORGAN, Jr.,
President.

* In view of the passage of the Act which became law on April 10, 1900, reorganizing the Brooklyn Library and abolishing the Board of Directors, this report has been extended to and including April 9, 1900.

Hereafter the fiscal statements of the Library will all be embodied in the report of the Treasurer of the Brooklyn Library.

REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES OF THE CARY FUND.

To the Board of Directors of the Brooklyn Library:

On behalf of the Trustees of the "Cary Fund," I have to report, in accordance with the provisions of the Trust, that the principal of the trust remains invested in a mortgage loan to the Library Corporation, on its property, No. 152 Pierrepont Street, at 5 per cent.

There remained at the date of the last report, March 8, 1899, an unexpended balance of income of $16.29, and there has been received the interest for one year, amounting to $250. The Trustees have expended in the purchase of books the sum of $256.09, representing 67 volumes, which have been selected from the current purchases of the Library, and have been duly marked and entered as gifts to the Library from the Fund. The unexpended balance of income is $10.20.

W. A. WHITE,
Trustee.

Dated BROOKLYN, February 20, 1900.

---

BROOKLYN, March 8, 1900.

To the Board of Trustees of the Brooklyn Library:

In accordance with Section 2 of Article IV of the By-Laws, the following report of the Executive Committee is respectfully submitted for the year ending February 28, 1900:

The trust funds of the Library continue to be, as for a number of years past, invested entirely in the property immediately adjacent to the Library building. These buildings have been kept during the past year in their usual good order. There have been no vacancies. The receipts paid over to the Treasurer of the Board of Directors during the year have been $10,000. There are, however, arrears of taxes now due amounting to about $4,000.

For the year ending May 1, 1901, the offices have all been let, with one exception. In order to retain tenants, however, it has been necessary to make reductions in rentals amounting in all to $500 per annum.

THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE,

By W. A. WHITE, Chairman.

AMENDED CHARTER OF THE BROOKLYN LIBRARY.

CHAP. 347.

AN ACT to amend chapter forty-three of the laws of eighteen hundred and fifty-nine, entitled, "An act to incorporate the Mercantile Library Association of the City of Brooklyn," relative to the number of trustees, etc.

Became a law, April 10, 1900, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.

The people of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. Chapter forty-three of the laws of eighteen hundred and fifty-nine, entitled, "An act to incorporate the Mercantile Library Association of the City of Brooklyn," as amended by chapter one hundred and thirty-four of the laws of eighteen hundred and sixty-five, chapter six hundred and thirty-two of the laws of eighteen hundred and sixty-nine, and chapter one hundred and ninety-nine of the laws of eighteen hundred and seventy-eight, is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

SEC. 1. The purposes of the Brooklyn Library, incorporated by the act entitled, "An act to incorporate the Mercantile Library Association of the City of Brooklyn," passed March fifteenth, eighteen hundred and fifty-nine, shall be the establishment and maintenance of a reference and circulating library, reading rooms, literary and scientific lectures, classes in the various departments of instruction, and other means of education and improvement.

SEC. 2. The said corporation shall continue to be known and designated as "The Brooklyn Library," and for the purposes thereof shall be capable of taking and holding by purchase, devise or otherwise, and of selling, leasing, mortgaging, or otherwise disposing of, real or personal estate, as provided by law.

SEC. 3. The officers of the said corporation shall be a President, Vice-President, Corresponding Secretary, Recording Secretary and Treasurer, who shall be chosen by the Board of Trustees from their own number at the annual meeting, in such manner as shall be provided in the By-Laws of the said Board of Trustees, and who shall hold their offices for one year, and until their successors shall be elected.

SEC. 4. The corporation shall consist of, and the control and management of all the trust funds and property thereof shall be vested in, and its affairs administered by, a Board of eighteen Trustees, consisting of the nine existing Trustees of said Library, and nine additional Trustees, who shall be elected by the said existing Trustees in the manner hereinafter provided for filling vacancies in their own number. The said Trustees shall divide themselves by lot into three classes, of not more than six members in each class. The term of office of the first of said classes shall expire in the year nineteen hundred, at the date fixed by the By-Laws of the Board for its annual meeting; the term of office of the second of said classes shall expire at the like date in the year nineteen hundred and one; and the term of office of the third of said classes shall expire at the like date, in the year nineteen hundred and two. Beginning with the annual meeting in nineteen hundred, the term of office for which a Trustee shall be elected shall not exceed three years; but any member shall be eligible for re-election. The said Trustees shall have power to fill any vacancy which may occur in their own body or in the offices of the corporation, by death, resignation, or otherwise. The property of the said "The Brooklyn Library" and the control thereof, heretofore vested in the Board of Trustees of said library, shall, from and after the passage of this act, continue to be vested in the Board of Trustees of said library as enlarged and reconstituted hereby.

SEC. 5. The estate, property and funds of the said corporation shall be devoted solely to the general purposes and objects specified in the first section of this act.

SEC. 6. This act is hereby declared to be a public act, and shall in all courts and places be construed benignly and favorably for every beneficial purpose therein intended, and no misnomer or misdescription of the said corporation in any will, deed, gift, grant, demise, or other instrument of contract or conveyance shall defeat or vitiate the same; but every such will, deed, gift, grant, demise, or other instrument of contract or conveyance, shall take effect in like manner as if the said corporation were rightly named therein, provided it be sufficiently described to ascertain the intent of the parties.

SECTION 2. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

SECTION 3. This act shall take effect immediately.

James Harding Frothingham

Born at Salem, Massachusetts, June 2, 1833

Died at Brooklyn, New York, March 1, 1900

The Trustees and Directors of the Brooklyn Library by this minute express their profound appreciation of the services rendered by the late James H. Frothingham to that institution.

Among its many benefactors none accomplished more in its behalf, perhaps none so much. The first public meeting, which resulted in founding the Library, was held at the Athenæum in 1857, and Mr. Frothingham, then a young man of twenty-four, was one of its Vice-Presidents. Only the week prior to his death, before a Committee of the State Legislature, he pleaded the cause of the Library, and during the forty-two intervening years he was ever earnest and untiring and effective in promoting its welfare and development.

He was President of the Library during the trying years of the Civil War, and when peace came he was Chairman of the Committee which by a very general subscription raised the large sum of money required to erect and equip the present Library building. In 1880 and 1881, when it seemed necessary to re-awaken public interest in the Library, he was again called to the Presidency. He was the last survivor of the seven charter members of the Board of Trustees. He was the first Treasurer of that Board, and the volume of accounts recorded by his own hand for thirty-five years remain as a memorial of the faithfulness and accuracy with which he discharged that duty.

The same unselfish devotion that he showed to the interest of the Library was manifested in his work for other public institutions. Enthusiasm, persistent energy, and intellectual equipment made him a leader in whatever cause he advocated, and the charm of a distinct and original personality characterized all he said or wrote.

We loved him, we miss him, we shall cherish his memory.
